DIVORCES JUMP 170 PER CENT

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of divorced persons in the population of Canada jumped to 175,113 in 1971 from 64,776 recorded in the 1966 census, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

The bureau said this change — an increase of 170 per cent — reflected new divorce legislation passed July 2, 1968. The number of divorced persons more than doubled in each of the provinces.

The figures came in the statistics bureau's release of 1971 population figures, divided according to marital status.

Of the 21.5 million counted in the 1971 census, 10.6 million were single, 9.7 million were married, including married but separated, and 944,000 were widowed.

The proportion of single people in the population declined to 49.5 per cent from 51.7 per cent recorded in the 1966 census, largely as a result of the number of young children. The latter was a reflection of the declining birth rate of the 1960s.

U.S. Props Its Dollar

The Washington Post

The United States took a dramatic step Wednesday to prop up the U.S. dollar in world markets and to assure other nations that it would assume a share of the responsibility for maintaining current exchange rates.

For the first time since last Aug. 15 — acting with the approval of President Nixon and Treasury Secretary George Shultz — the New York federal reserve intervened aggressively in foreign exchange markets, selling German marks, Dutch guilders and other currencies.

As a result, the price of the foreign currencies declined, while the price of the dollar — which had been under pressure — increased to its best levels in weeks.

There was no formal announcement of the intervention, but it was confirmed by chairman Arthur Burns.

"We want to indicate to the world that we want to do our part to maintain the Smithsonian Agreement," Burns said.

That agreement created a new set of exchange rates that resulted in an average devaluation of the dollar by 12 per cent against major world currencies.

But recently the British Government allowed the pound to "float" downward from the $2.60 U.S. rate set at the Smithsonian, and the question has been raised whether the entire agreement might fall apart.

One consequence has been that other central banks — notably the West German Bundesbank — have had to support the Smithsonian system by selling their own currencies in exchange for dollars.

They have thus been accumulating hundreds of millions of unwanted dollars, which constitute an inflationary threat to their own banking systems.

European nations have bitterly suggested that the United States is acting as though the defence of the Smithsonian system is the responsibility of everybody except the United States.

The U.S. intervention Wednesday is a step to counter that mood, and to encourage a hope for eventual long-range reform of the international monetary system — a reform in which the Smithsonian Agreement was to be but an interim first step.

Burns refused to say how many dollars the reserve acquired in the price-propping, confidence-boosting manoeuvre.

But he said that "we are poised to continue (intervening) if and when we deem it advisable and on whatever scale we deem advisable."

The U.S. government has two potential resources for foreign exchange operations. The treasury owns a limited supply of foreign currencies that can be loaned to the reserve; and "swap lines" with other central banks can be activated.

Belfast Convicts Riot

BELFAST (AP) — Rioting broke out in Belfast's Crumlin Road jail today and elsewhere in the city a man was killed by terrorist gunfire.

At several other places in Northern Ireland, new bombings inflicted widespread damage and casualties.

In the Crumlin Road jail, about 20 to 30 prisoners went on a rampage, smashing furniture and windows and starting fires. Eight prisoners armed with wooden clubs climbed to the prison roof and smashed roof tiles but climbed down after about 30 minutes.

British troops surrounded the prison firing rubber bullets at the rioters. By 1 p.m., the jail was ringed by soldiers and reported quiet. The fires were extinguished by firemen who entered the prison grounds.

The jail holds hundreds of Protestant and Roman Catholic prisoners, arrested on various charges growing out of the sectarian turmoil of the last three years.

Many of the prisoners have in the past protested jail conditons and most claim they should be granted "political status," allowed to wear their own clothes and given other privileges.

In the western part of Belfast, meanwhile, a newspaper vendor on Springfield Road was shot dead by terrorists who planted a bomb in his store. The man's wife was wounded.

NOT EXACTLY A TIGER by the tail, but Jack Castor believes there's no harm in giving playful tweak to a lion's tail. "You just gotta show him who's boss," explains Castor, veteran lion handler at the San Francisco Zoo, who enjoys a daily romp with one of the zoos big felines. However, Castor admits that the games he plays with the king of beasts are not for everyone.

Paris Peace Talks Reach New Impasse

Times News Services

U.S. efforts to negotiate a ceasefire in Vietnam and to separate a military from a political settlement of the war were thwarted today at the Paris peace talks.

The setback came 24 hours after a secret meeting here between U.S. President Nixon's special envoy Henry Kissinger and Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho.

Kissinger flew back to Washington following the talks.

Chief North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy said at today's session that a ceasefire could only take place after agreement was reached on all military and political questions.

"Once the military and the political questions are agreed upon, all other questions, including the release of American war prisoners, can easily be settled," he said.

Thuy, who attended Wednesday's 6½-hour secret talks between Kissinger and Tho, also demanded that the United States stop bombing North Vietnam and lift the blockade of Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports.

ABIDE BY ACCORD

North Vietnam also insisted that the United States abide by the 1954 Geneva accords which provided for the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam.

Viet Cong delegation leader Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh denounced U.S. moves to deal with the military questions and leave political problems to be sorted out among Vietnamese.

"Such an approach is obviously one-sided and is not conducive to a settlement of the problem," she said.

The question facing negotiators is who shall rule in Saigon during the period between the withdrawal of U.S. troops and the holding of general elections.

NOT COMMUNIST

"We hold that this will be a broadly representative administration," Mme. Binh said. "Such an administration which will organize general elections, shall not be a Communist government or a government imposed by us," she added.

City In Ruins —Fonda

Times News Services

HONG KONG — Actress Jane Fonda said today the United States has bombed the North Vietnamese textile city of Nam Dinh which, she said, has no military targets.

"I saw with my own eyes that in this city . . . there are no military targets."

Miss Fonda visited the city Tuesday and her comments about the bombing were carried in today's transmission of the North Vietnam news agency.

She described the city as being "in charred ruins" and said its main hospital, which has 200 beds, has been "completely destroyed".

Miss Fonda has long been a campaigner against American involvement in Vietnam and an outspoken critic of her country.

On the war front, a half dozen carrier-based U.S. Marine helicopters swept along the North Vietnam coast, attacking nine gunboats unloading military supplies.

It was the first time American helicopters have been in North Vietnam since November, 1971, when a special group raided the Son Tay prisoner-of-war camp in an unsuccessful attempt to free American prisoners. The camp was empty.

Pay Hike Tops Limit

The British Columbia government has again broken its 6.5 per cent annual wage increase guideline for public employees by agreeing to pay certain civil servants $20 to $40 a month more effective Oct. 1.

Arthur Richardson, chairman of the civil service commission, said the wage adjustments would affect mainly about 4,000 highways and hospital workers.

A spokesman for the 16,000-member B.C. Government Employees Union said correctional service employees, tradesmen and clerks and stenographers would also get the increases.

MONTREAL (CP)—The offices of La Presse were evacuated Wednesday evening following an anonymous call to police that two bombs would explode in the building within minutes. No bombs were found.

CANBERRA (UPI)—The minister for supply, Victor Garland, said today low levels of radioactive fallout from the French nuclear test have been picked up in Australia.

Nixon Drops Anti-Strike Legislation

Times News Services

President Nixon has abandoned controversial anti-strike legislation and will redraft it following consultations with union leaders, the White House said today.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler insisted the move was not a "deal" with the union movement to obtain tacit or active labor support in Nixon's re-election bid.

Labor has been vehement in its objections to Nixon's bill that would have established a new procedure in major transportation industry labor disputes.

Both sides would have been required to submit their final offer to an impartial panel which would select one or the other as a compulsory settlement.

Nixon's move came in the wake of a precedent-setting AFL-CIO executive council meeting where, for the first time in 25 years, the senior officials of the U.S. labor movement refused to endorse the Democratic nominee for president.

Earlier this week, the powerful Teamsters Union also broke with blue-collar tradition and voted to throw its official sanction to Nixon.

CORVAIR CAR SAFE DECLARES U.S. REPORT

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Corvair automobile, which helped catapult Ralph Nader to international fame when he condemned it as dangerous, was declared safe in a government report today.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said following an investigation lasting nearly two years that "no potential safety-related defect exists" on 1960-1963 Corvairs.

The rear-engined General Motors car was taken out of production in 1969 following publication of Nader's book Unsafe at Any Speed.

Douglas Toms, administrator of the U.S. transportation department's traffic safety administration, said the investigation had determined that the "handling and stability performance of these cars is at least as good as the performance of several contemporary domestic and foreign vehicles."

Egypt Eyes U.K. For Heavy Arms

Times News Services

LONDON — British authorities said that Egypt is checking prospects of buying offensive as well as defensive arms from Britian, including aircraft and warships.

The sources said that inquiries were informal and began some weeks ago after it became clear that Moscow was limiting its shipments of war goods to Egypt.

Britian has been selling some small arms to Egypt for some time.

In Russia the Kremlin faces the task of re-examining its Middle East policy after letting the Russian people know that Egypt has ordered Soviet military advisers out.

EASY DOES IT

Soviet television broke the news gently Wednesday night — more than 24 hours after President Anwar Sadat of Egypt announced that he had given the advisers their marching orders — by presenting the move as something Moscow and Cairo had agreed on.

Apparently referring to the visit here last week by Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidkey, a Tass news agency statement said the two countries "deemed it expedient to bring back to the Soviet Union the military personnel that had been sent to Egypt for a limited period."

Otherwise, the Soviet account played up Sadat's assertion that the move would "not affect the foundations of Egyptian-Soviet friendship." For its part, the Soviet Union planned to continue developing and strengthening relations with Cairo, it added.

Agreement Reached

Tentative agreement was announced today in the protracted labor negotiations between Victoria Press Ltd. and five mechanical and editorial unions.

The tentative settlement was confirmed by Stuart Underhill, publisher of the Victoria Times, and William McLeman, negotiatior for the unions.

A union statement this afternoon said "details of the tentative settlement will be given to a mass membership meeting of the five unions this Sunday.

DIRTY WORDS BY THE BOOK

MADRID (AP) — An entire dictionary devoted to dirty words? In Catholic Spain where censorship has become a way of life?

No, not one volume — two, both best sellers; a third in the making and two more scheduled.

Sold clandestinely, then, by furtive pornographers?

Wrong again. Available in bookstores and compiled by the country's leading novelist, Camilo Jose Cela.

In paperback alone, Cela's first Secret Dictionary, about testicles, has sold more than 100,000 copies, a roaring success by Spanish standards. Hardback sales are estimated at about 30,000.

His second volume, nearly twice the size of the first, is devoted to street language for words that mean urine. Currently he is at work on a volume about the female sex organ. He is undecided where to focus volumes four and five.

The books have a limited circulation outside Spain, since they cannot be translated. They have yet to be widely published in South America. But if you want to know the equivalent of a dirty word in Cuban, Puerto Rican, Ecuadorean or Chilean Spanish, it is in his dictionary.

FP Chairman Dies at 59

George Maxwell (Max) Bell, one of Canada's most successful newspaper entrepreneurs, but better known as an international horse-racer and breeder and as a shrewd financier who made a fortune in oil and other enterprises, died Wednesday evening in Montreal Neurological Institute.

His death, at 59, came two months after a brain tumor operation, the third such operation he had undergone in the past four years. His wife and other members of the family were returning today to Calgary where the funeral will be held on Saturday.

Mr. Bell was chairman of FP Publications Ltd., a group which includes the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist as well as the Vancouver Sun, the Calgary Albertan, Lethbridge Herald, Winnipeg Free Press, Ottawa Journal and the Toronto Globe and Mail. He was also a director of CP Rail and organizer of a group which brought effective control of the company into Canadian hands at a time when it appeared that American interests would take it over.

Despite his influential position in newspaper publishing, Max Bell was little known to the Canadian public until recent years except for his connection with horse racing. He once remarked: "A newspaper proprietor or publisher can have his name in the paper every day if he wants it," and he bent over backwards to avoid any suggestion that he would use his position for personal publicity for himself or his family.

He disliked the label of multi-millionaire, and he once said this about money: "The only time it is really important to anyone is when a person hasn't any. Once you have it, however, you must accept responsibility to make the best use of it and to ensure that those who become dependent on you for a livelihood

Madman Image in Mental Illness Fading

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Society's image of the madman is changing. The once sharp line that seemed to separate sanity from madness is blurring and the public's concept of mental illness growing more vague.

The violent, seriously disturbed madman isn't so violent or disturbed as he used to be, psychiatrists are finding.

On the other hand, ordinary people whose counterparts a generation ago wouldn't have dreamed of seeking psychiatric help are doing just that today. They want to ease a variety of mental maladies ranging from plain unhappiness to lack of personal identity.

These shifting sands of mental health are concerning many psychiatrists. The subject received considerable attention during the American Psychiatric Association's recent meeting here.

What's resporisible?

Psychiatrists are perplexed about the answer, but many place the blame on rapidly changing social and cultural values which are producing new stresses on the individual as he attempts to cope with the rigors of life.

"The changes going on in our culture are so fast that we can hardly catch our breath and adjust to them," said Dr. Roy Grinker, professor of psychiatry at the University of Chicago, who presented a scientific paper and then discussed it in an interview.

"Sigmund Freud once said phychoanalysis should be able to help the person adjust to the normally expectable environment," he said. "But now we have to modify that because the normally expectable environment has come to mean the unexpectable."

The result has been felt in psychiatrists' offices.

"There certainly has been a big change in the kind of people who come to see a psychiatrist," said Dr. Paul Chodoff, a Washington, D.C., psychiatrist and a clinical professor at George Washington University.

In a scientific paper, Chodoff said the new stresses are producing an "alienated man" who regards himself as a quantity to be marketed. He is searching for a guiding force to give him definition and boundaries.

"In an earlier age, he may have sought his salvation through religion," Chodoff said. "Today, he seeks it through psychotherapy.

"The indications for seeking psychotherapy have widened and broadened enormously and have come to merge with what people in previous generations would have regarded as the vicissitudes of life—things that happen to people that you never would have thought of going to a psychiatrist about."

Besides seeking psychiatrists to treat the traditional mental problems that don't require hospital treatment, such as phobias, patients now seek psychiatric cures for lopeliness, unhappiness, lack of fulfilment and lack of personal identity, he said.

Likewise, the public's idea of normal mental behavior is becoming blurred.

"People are more tolerant of deviation in behavior and thinking currently than they were a decade ago," said Dr. Ewald W. Busse, outgoing APA president. "Such judgments do change and society is important in making them."

But psychiatrists are puzzled about why the seriously mentally ill who require hospital treatment, such as schizophrenics, maniac depressives and other psychotics, don't show the severe symptoms they once did.

"Psychoses are changing to the point where they're not so severe, not so dramatic or histrionic," Grinker said. "And they're not requiring so much incarceration in a protective environment."

OFY Problems Minor

Less than one per cent of the federal Opportunities for Youth projects have caused problems, say OFY's national co-ordinator.

Max Beck, 36, of Vancouver is in Victoria to study the progress of various local projects.

"Under one per cent have been classed as problem projects," Beck said.

"We have to take a few chances. Some ideas that nobody thought would work ended up as successful projects."

The federal government's $34 million OFY program sponsored 3,000 projects in 1972, employing 30,000 youths.

Beck said the federal government received 20,000 applications last March and had to turn down 17,000 projects and about 200,000 people.

He said there is no age limit for applicants but "the vast majority is between 16 and 25."

People applying for grants specify the necessary amount. "In about 90 per cent of the cases they don't get as much as they want," he said.

RULES TOUGHENED

This year the regulations are a little stiffer than in 1971, which was the program's first year.

"We have a staff of 120 who visits the projects regularly to offer assistance and settle disputes within the groups. Each group is supplied with a bookkeeping system and federal auditors check them periodically," said Beck.

As most of the projects are temporary, the program does not provide funds for overhead expenses such as tools and household goods that would have to be sold when the projects are completed.

Most of the projects this year are new but some have been carried over from last year, said Beck. "Some have become self-supporting businesses."

"Only about 20 per cent of our projects are art-oriented. If we only put our money into social projects, we'd be missing a lot of very important activities," he said.

The program has been subject to a great deal of criticism in the past two years and whether or not it will be continued next year will be decided after the federal government has weighed the pros and cons.

World's Only 'Liger' Dies

Key attraction in a Salt Lake City zoo since her birth in 1948, Shasta, was the offspring of a male African lion and a Bengal tigress. The rare feline succumbed Wednesday, apparently a victim of kidney problems and arthritis.

Worker's Death Verdict Vague

An inquest jury has found that the victim of a fatal industrial accident was negligent, but hinted that other factors may have contributed to the man's death.

Bruce Graham Denluck, 23, of 3940 Telegraph Bay Road, was crushed by a steel casting weighing 5,400 pounds July 13, at Victoria Machinery Depot on Bay St.

The jury ruled that "the deceased was negligent, but in view of the evidence the members of the jury feel that all the blame should not be placed on the deceased as there were too many uncertainties surrounding the incident."

The jury made no recommendations aimed at preventing similar mishaps.

Denluck was pronounced dead at Queen Victoria General Hospital 95 minutes after he was crushed by the casting.

Patholgist John Marsden testified that the victim suffered fractured ribs and lacerations to internal organs and died of what he called multiple injuries.

Denluck was crushed by the casting after he burned off a small exterior portion of the unsupported casting.

A witness, Donald Mainwaring, 19, said he yelled a warning to Denluck when he saw the casting begin to topple. Denluck tried to dodge out of the way, but was pinned by the huge piece of metal as it fell.

Victor Kent, a shop supervisor, told the jury he had ordered Denluck and another man to move the casting to enable night shift workers to continue the repair project on it.

It appeared Denluck had decided on his own to work on the casting alone until the end of his shift at 4:30 p.m. while his partner was working on something else.

GOURMET GALLOPS OFF

TORONTO (CP) — Graham Kerr, television's popular Galloping Gourmet, has decided to perform from now on for an audience of one—his wife Treena.

Kerr, arriving back in Toronto after a four-month cruise of the Mediterranian aboard his 71-foot yacht, said Wednesday he and his wife will spend the next four years sailing around the world.

"TV is dehumanizing if you keep it up too long," said the 38-year-old star of the popular syndicated cooking series in an interview. "You can't look into a camera lens forever unless you're an egomaniac."

During the last month before he and his wife set sail in April, Kerr filmed more than 100 shows. He ended up with a total of 585 segments.

His yearly income will be about $50,000 from investments and reruns of his show until 1974.

Anger Over Make-Work Projects

Members of city council's welfare committee registered their concern today over the influx of federally-sponsored make-work projects in the Greater Victoria area.

The committee decided to send a letter to the secretary of state's department in Ottawa, objecting to the lack of planning of federal projects in the area, specifically Victoria West.

It was also decided that a study on social services in the Vic. West area undertaken by the Community Council of Greater Victoria be endorsed.

The report indicated that there are a number of overlaps of service in Vic. West and that there has been no over-all planning of services by the federal government.

Bobby Starts Game; Lodges 20 Protests

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) — American challenger Bobby Fischer changed his mind at the last minute today and once more ordered television cameras out of the hall where he began the fifth game of his $250,000 world championship chess match with Boris Spassky of Russia.

Technicians were installing the cameras only 15 minutes before the contest when Fischer announced he would not play with them in the hall.

Spassky, playing the white pieces, arrived on time for the game and started with his favorite opening — the queen pawn. Fischer rushed in four minutes late directly from dinner, scanned the board for a few seconds, then moved his king knight.

After four quick moves, the game followed the same pattern as the first contest which Spassky won.

Gudmundur Thorarinsson, president of the Icelandic Chess federation, said he had received "about six or seven" letters from Fischer's representative, concerning 20 things the U.S. challenger wanted changed.

Fischer complained to the organizers about the polished marble chess board, saying he wanted a smaller board with less glare.

Thorarinsson said Fischer also wanted smaller squares on the board, but that Spassky had at one point requested larger squares.

Fischer also demanded a new car and free run of the swimming pool at the Loftleider Hotel where he is staying, but met a polite rebuff.

Max Bell: From $500,000 Debt to Millions

are not injured by your transactions."

He began his business career at the death of his father with a newspaper that was $500,000 in debt and a small investment in an oil firm. He rode the Alberta oil boom to prosperity while gradually widening his press interests as a partner in the grouping of nine newspapers during 25 years.

REVERSAL

His success as a businessman reversed the course of his recent family history. His father, George Melrose Bell, made a fortune in insurance but lost it on newspapers.

When the elder Bell died in 1935, his last paper, the Calgary Albertan, was held by the Royal Bank of Canada against $500,000 in loans. To bail out The Albertan, Max Bell borrowed $35,000 from four friends; he had paid off both them and the bank in three years.

He had graduated from McGill University in 1932 with a Bachelor of Commerce degree, done a short stint as a prospector in British Columbia, and then got himself a job at $35 a week as The Albertan's business manager. This was his first direct tie with newspapers and it was never severed.

In 1947 he formed a company to buy rights on Crown oil reserves, struck oil and formed a production company to refine and market it. Mr. Bell would not reveal how much he made in the oil game, but associates said it was enough to permit him to expand his newspaper holdings without loans after 1950.

After rescuing The Albertan, he bought The Edmonton Bulletin in 1948, only to see it fold in 1951 in a financial squeeze forced by printers' wage demands and an aging printing plant. "It must be remembered," he said later, "that at this time I had no knowledge that oil investments would pay off as handsomely as they did. The financial problems of The Bulletin were a crisis for me, and ones I could see no way of solving."

PURCHASE

Meanwhile he purchased controlling interest in The Daily Colonist and The Victoria Times, then bought a large share of The Lethbridge Herald in 1954.

Mr. Bell went into a partnership with Victor Sifton, owner of The Winnipeg Free Press and the weekly Free Press Prairie Farmer in the late 1950's to purchase the Ottawa Journal.

This union created what was later called FP Publications Ltd.

Mr. Bell fulfilled an old dream by bringing The Vancouver Sun into FP Publications in 1963. "I had always felt Vancouver was a most ideal buttress for any newspaper group," he said.

In 1965, The Globe and Mail joined FP Publications Ltd. and Mr. Bell became a director of The Globe and Mail Ltd.

Besides newspapers and oil, his interest turned briefly to the Hudson's Bay Co. in 1950. He moved to gain control of it with a $6-million investment, but stopped short just when control seemed within grasp. He said later he could not get personnel to carry out plans he had in mind and did not feel competent to take on management responsibilities himself.

He bought heavily into CPR in 1962 just as the stock was starting a long ride upward. He became a director in 1963 and was reported to be its largest shareholder in the late 1960s.

His greatest sporting interest was in thoroughbreds, a love he inherited from his father. In 1952 he joined Vance Longden, Wilder Ripley and Frank McMahon to create Alberta Ranches, a corporation under which their horses raced. Mr. Bell and Mr. McMahon later set up a $1-million ranch with up to 100 animals. The stable's colors became familiar at North American tracks; several times it had horses racing in England, the United States and Canada the same day.

BIG WINS

Four-and-Twenty, which he considered one of his best ever, won three $100,000 races in the western United States but failed at the Kentucky Derby. Merger won the Queen's Plate at Woodbine in 1968, and Meadow's Court won the Irish Derby in 1962. Mr. Bell entered Dominion Day, named in honor of Canada's Centennial, in the Derby at Epsom but it finished fifth.

He was also an active participant in sports. He played two years with the senior Kimberley Dynamiters of the Western International Hockey League. In 1966 he was appointed to the National Advisory Council on Fitness and Amateur Sport. He bought shares in the Vancouver Canucks hockey team in December, 1967.

LISTING

He was a Presbyterian, and he permitted himself to be listed as a Liberal in Who's Who in Canada, although he supported Alberta's long-lived Social Credit Government provincially.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes, two daughters and a son from his first marriage, Paul of Calgary, Mrs. Ronald Marra of Philadelphia, Mrs. Rim Shepetys of Toronto; a son and daughter from Mrs. Bell's first marriage, Frank and Diane McMahon, also live in Calgary. Other survivors include Mr. Bell's mother, Mrs. George M. Bell, and a sister, Mrs. Gordon Donnelly, in Vancouver; a sister, Mrs. C. E. Michener in Toronto, and a brother, Gordon, in Victoria. He was predeceased by a son, Chester, in 1970.

Former prime minster Lester Pearson today paid tribute to Max Bell and called him a man of "calm courage" and an imaginative businessman with a vision.

Said Pearson: "He was, above all things, a builder, an imaginative and successful one, with a vision that went far beyond his own private interests and encompassed many good causes, which he felt would help Canada. He will be sadly missed."

Tributes poured in today for Mr. Bell.

"There won't be another like him," singer Bing Crosby, a close friends, said.

At Edmonton, Lt.-Gov. J. W. Grant MacEwan of Alberta said the death "marks the passing of a man who made a very great contribution to Alberta and Canada."

Premier Peter Lougheed of Alberta described Mr. Bell as an outstanding Albertan whose "initiative and imagination will be a distinct loss."

Johnny Longden, who started riding horses in southern Alberta and became North America's top jockey, said Max Bell was "the best friend I ever had."

"He did a lot for me and put me where I am today . . . he was a tremendous influence in my life in every way."

RCMP Deny Testimony of Quilt Widow

KAMLOOPS (CP) — An entirely different version of events prior to the death of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt was presented to an inquest jury Wednesday.

RCMP Constable Peter Aiken told the jury that he did not see Constable Daryl Bakewell "jump up and down" on Fred Quilt as members of the Quilt family had testified Tuesday.

He said he came upon the Quilt truck parked at the side of a road between Anahim and Stone Indian reserves at about 6:15 p.m. Nov. 28, 1971. He said he noticed a window being rolled up and went to the driver's door.

He said when he informed those in the truck that he was a police officer, "the window was rolled part way down."

Aiken said he then reached inside to open the door.

The RCMP officer said he received no response when he asked Quilt to get out of the truck.

He said from Quilt's appearance, from the odor of vomit and of vanilla extract, and from the failure to respond, he assumed Quilt had "passed out."

He said he reached in and grabbed Quilt by both shoulders and "had to pull quite hard" to get the 200-pound man out of the truck. He said Quilt was too heavy for him to handle and that Quilt slipped to the ground.

He testified that Bakewell was in the police vehicle throughout this action. Aiken said he left that side of the truck, and Quilt on the ground, and walked to the other side of the truck.

He then asked Bakewell to put Quilt in the police truck. Aiken said he did not see Bakewell lift the heavy man or put him in the police vehicle because he was dealing with the other Quilts. He described them as "quite drunk."

Aiken said Agnes Quilt, who Wednesday morning corroborated her sister's testimony that Bakewell "jumped up and down" on Fred Quilt was "extremely intoxicated."

He said she was cursing, partially in English, partially in Chilcotin, and was belligerent. He told the court he had to hold her up by one arm "to prevent her from falling down."

It was the alleged beating of Quilt by Bakewell at this time which, according to the Quilt family testimony, resulted in the death of Fred Quilt. The inquest continues.

MARCHAND 'NOT INDIAN VOICE'

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Liberal MP Len Marchand told members of the Fred Quilt Committee he can't speak in Parliament for 250,000 Indian people because "it is not an honor they have given me."

There are many competent groups of Indians all over the country who are quite capable of speaking for themselves," said the MP for Kamloops-Cariboo.

He asked the group to look realistically at the limits of his constituency as Canada's only Indian MP.

The committee members asked Mr. Marchand to take action on drug problems on reserves ranging from glue sniffing to heroin.

Marchand said the drug problem is a general one and there is always a source of funding for the kind of program the committee wants.

He suggested committee members act through their own MPs — "educate those members no matter which party they belong to."

Teamster, Docker Merger Mooted

VANCOUVER (CP) — Speculation about a merger of the Longshoremen's and giant Teamster's unions grew Wednesday after reporters outside a closed meeting of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union overheard a man in a phone booth say: "We've merged."

However, ILWU president Harry Bridges refused to confirm a merger and was angered when confronted by reporters with the overheard conversation.

"You should have no right to listen with your ears hanging down to private conversations. I resent it."

The man in the phone booth said: "We've merged. The documents are really to sign in two weeks." The man disappeared and could not be identified.

About 50 ILWU members were seen at lunch at the Rambrandt Hotel where the closed meeting was conducted in a guarded and locked room.

Several delegates said the meetings could go on for days.

When asked about the possibility of a merger, Bridges said "these things are discussed" at regular meetings of the international board, of which he is chairman. He said the current meeting is a regular board meeting.

Who's Starving Whom?

The present situation in British Columbia's forest industries is made confusing by the conflicting statements of fallers and others engaged in work in the woods. The companies' spokesman, speaking for management, says the fallers are drifting back to their jobs. A fallers' spokesman, Mike Davis, contends that the International Woodworkers of America, whose strike has ended, and the big companies are trying to "starve" the fallers into submission but that the fallers would rather starve than return to work under the new forest contract.

Among other factors, the proposal submitted to the fallers would give them $80.52 for a six and one-half hour day. With that kind of money available, fallers are being "starved" into submission?

If there is any accepted connotation to "starvation" in the woods today, surely it must be applied to other IWA members and the companies who could be "starved" for material to continue operations. Already some companies have been "starved" into inactivity by an inadequate supply of logs.

The fallers, incidentally, absented themselves from the job about the middle of April, walking away to push management into acceptance of their plan for what they term a uniform piece-work formula. Whatever the merits of their case, as members of the IWA they apparently reject the decision of the majority — and it was a relatively slim one — by which their fellow unionists accepted the settlement package. In their strategic position as the essential force in conversion of standing timber into finished products, they can eventually block production. There is no suggestion from any source that the fallers are unaware of this fact, or of their ability to exploit it to the detriment of activity in the woods. They can, very literally, starve others out — and among those most seriously injured would be the other IWA members.

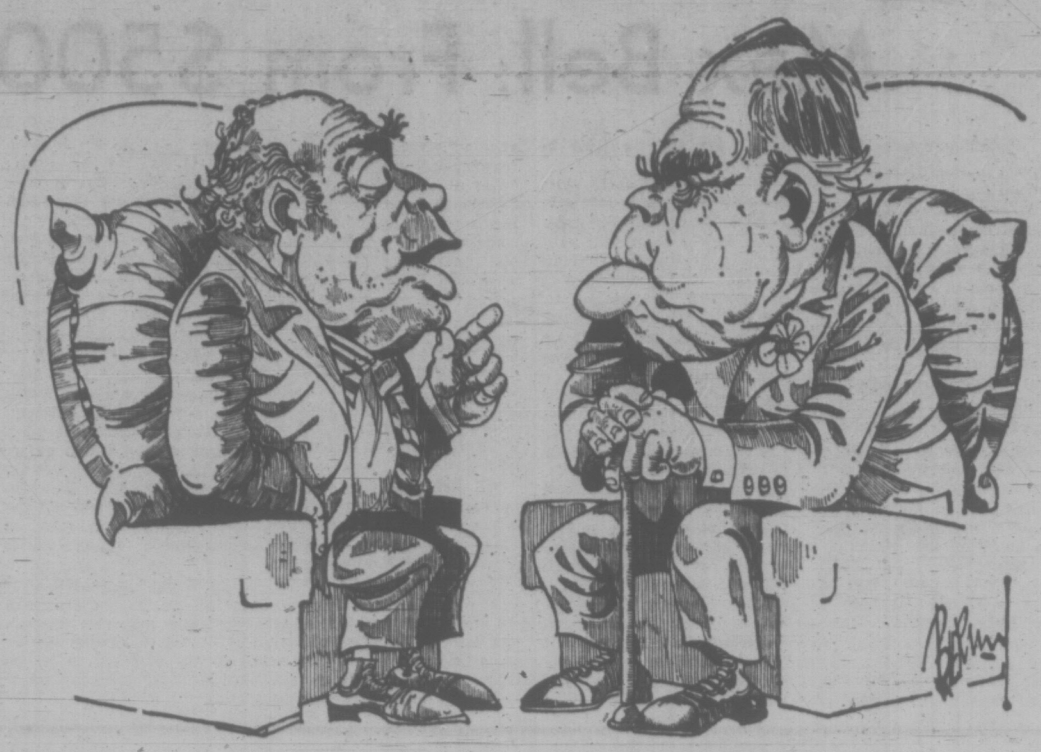
Mr. Davis can expect little sympathy for his report that his people —top paid workmen in the woods who have downed tools — have been "picking strawberries, digging ditches and painting houses" to support themselves. What union house painters may think of this competitive labor is an issue not yet publicized.

Nor will Mr. Davis draw many tears for his fallers by declaring that "they have had not one cent of relief from the union." The union is composed of men whose livelihood has been, and is, threatened by fallers if the latter do not return to work.

On the basis of even conflicting reports, the economic elite of the woodworkers have successfully driven a wedge between themselves and others who — admittedly far from unanimous in their vote — have accepted what their union negotiators have termed the best deal ever presented to them.

The difference with the fallers will be settled eventually. But before that they can cause an industry on which British Columbia depends for about half its productive dollar to grind to a halt. In the process, they could also find themselves in the grinder.

In the parlance of the day, the fallers seem more in the category of those who go on a hunger strike than of employees who are being starved by the IWA and the companies. That $80.52-a-day offer sharpens the image.



"Couldn't you swing it to finance your next election as a 'New Horizons' project?"

'One Authority'

In an age when men are buffeted by winds of opinion from every quadrant, Professor Northrop Frye's recent remarks at the University of Waterloo come as a reassurance that some men can still see straight and can discern cant from reasonable discourse. At the heart of Prof. Frye's convocation address to the engineering students at Waterloo was this observation: "There is only one real authority in society, and that is the authority of the arts and sciences, the authority of logical reasoning, uncooked evidence, repeatable experiments, verifiable scholarship, precise and disciplined creative imagination."

Prof. Frye speaks in a tradition which recalls Plato's Academy but is not a whit less relevant for all that. When it is all too easy to manipulate evidence, "cook" it or withhold it, all too simple for the good life of the ads and the politicos to be mistaken for the morally good life, the role of authority calls for constant scrutiny by people educated enough and human enough to appreciate what is at stake.

For what Northrop Frye is talking about is the object of politics and morals: freedom or the lack of it. Under the authority of true scholarship there can be achieved a freedom which allows men to see the world as it is and as it ought to be. At a time of growing anti-intellectualism this is a good time to keep Prof. Frye's message in mind.

JAMES RESTON

Co-Operation for Peace

MIAMI BEACH — The nation is now, at the same time, waging war in Vietnam, negotiating peace and fighting a Presidential election in which the tactics and objectives of the war — even the continuation of the war — are central issues. And this creates the delicate and awkward problem for both President Nixon and Sen. McGovern of arguing out the issues of the war without interfering with their common objective of ending the killing in Southeast Asia.

These two men are obviously deeply and sincerely divided on this central question of the campaign. It cannot be put aside. The administration cannot silence McGovern on Vietnam, and McGovern cannot deny that his public promise to end all American bombing on Jan. 21, 1973, and withdraw all U.S. troops from Southeast Asia before the end of April 1973 is bound to influence the present peace negotiations in Paris.

Neither Nixon nor McGovern has really faced this dilemma. The Senator argued the point in the starkest terms here in his acceptance speech — 20,000 coffins brought home during the Nixon Administration; elect me, he seemed to be saying, and I'll stop the killing and get all the boys and the prisoners home by next spring.

Nixon More Subtle

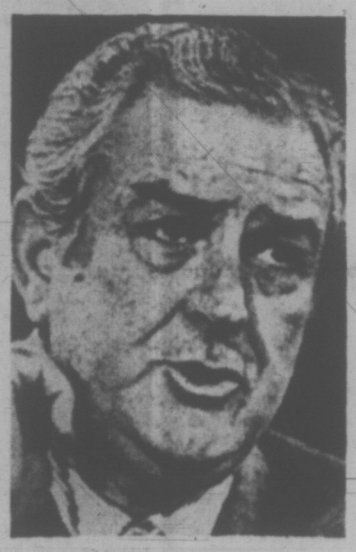
At least he was specific and took personal responsibility for his promises, even if he didn't quite explain how he would achieve them. The President was more subtle but less responsible. He didn't criticize McGovern and his policies personally, but used his Democratic ally, former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally, to attack McGovern for "sabotaging" the Administration's peace negotiations in Paris.

Nobody would mind if John Connally thought the Democrats were wrong and the Republicans right on the war, the economy, taxes and welfare and then switched, like Mayor Lindsay of New York, to the other party. Or even if he stayed as a Democrat in the Republican Administration and stuck with his job and struggled on with the Administration's problems.

But Connally seems to want the best of everything to use the Democrats who are dominant in Texas to be Governor of his state and to use them again when they have executive power in Washington to be Secretary of the Navy, and then, when they lose their power, to go over to the Republicans as Secretary of the Treasury.

One of the troubles with the attractive and dogmatic Connally is that when he gets bored with his job either under the Democrats or the Republicans he gets out and goes home to his ranch. Personally it is a good deal but otherwise it seems a little selfish.

The pattern is quite clear. He comes and goes as he pleases, and now he is just back from his 'round-the-world trip in San Clemente and is vilifying the



JOHN CONNALLY
. . . scalding job

Democrats for foreign and domestic policies he says he cannot support and praising a Republican party he will not join.

Nobody can blame the President for using Connally, since Connally is using the Republicans, without joining them, but the problem remains about how to fight the election over Vietnam without interfering with the President's negotiations for peace.

Fortunately, there is a precedent which Nixon knows all about. In the Presidential election campaign of 1944, just as the last World War was coming to an end, President Roosevelt and his Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, and the Republicans in that election, Thomas Dewey and his foreign policy adviser John Foster Dulles, agreed that there was a national interest in avoiding a party squabble during the election over the organization of peace.

As a result, Roosevelt and Dewey, who were in many ways even more violently opposed to each other in 1944 than Nixon and McGovern are now, agreed to work together to keep the election battle from interfering with the peace and the organization of the United Nations. Dulles was appointed as Dewey's agent for this job, and he was faithful both to his party's and to the nation's interests.

Maybe this is what is needed now before the partisan argument becomes too brutal, after the nomination of Senator McGovern, and before Americans get into what promises to be a really savage battle for the Presidency in November. The problem cannot safely be left where it is now, with McGovern arguing for peace by a certain date, whatever the effect of this on the Paris negotiations, and Nixon standing above the battle and authorizing Connally and Agnew to scald McGovern and his aides as irresponsible and even unpatriotic saboteurs of peace.

Essential Course

Peace in Vietnam between now and November may help Nixon and hurt Sen. McGovern, but if the anti-war forces are really serious in saying that the war is the central issue of this campaign, then they have to co-operate for peace — whether this re-elects or defeats Nixon. And at the least, McGovern has to know what is going on in the Paris negotiations so that he can campaign for peace without saying things that interfere with the peace negotiations.

It is not good enough for McGovern merely to attack the peace talks in Paris without having his own man there to inform him of the realities, or for the President to offer to "inform" McGovern about the Paris problems and meanwhile authorize Connally to vilify McGovern as an ill-informed and irresponsible critic of the Paris talks.

There are, as Connally says, fundamental issues at stake in this campaign, the most important since the election between Johnson and Goldwater in 1964, which somehow Connally seems to have forgotten, but these issues should not be submerged by cheap appeals to false patriotism but faced on the basis of the facts at Paris, and only the President can make the facts there available to McGovern, as Roosevelt did to Dewey in 1944.

MAURICE WESTERN

Jabbing Business Off Balance

OTTAWA — This is the age of pragmatic government which appears to mean in practice that ministers fly by the seats of their trousers.

The advantages of pragmatism are supposed to be self-evident. Let's not worry about ideological niceties or abstract principles; let's deal in a practical, non-principled fashion with difficulties as they arise.

But there are also disadvantages. The effect of such flying on business is distinctly unsettling. No one knows where government will next move or why.

Home Oil was an interesting case of pragmatism at work. The owner of certain shares proposed to sell them to an American concern, as he was perfectly entitled to do under the existing law of the land. No great emergency threatened since the transaction was comparatively modest and would have effected no dramatic change in an industry already dominated overwhelmingly by outside capital. In any case the Government had no policy at the time relating to takeovers and to this day is without authority deriving from legislation in the field.

Nonetheless, and without explanation worthy of the name, the Government intervened. It employed pressure to secure an end which was not related to any statute or guidelines known at that time. In this adventure, it presumably relied on forces of articulate economic nationalism in the country to dull the spirit of criticism in Parliament.

In All Directions

The advent of a summer free of politics has apparently been a boon to pragmatic ministers who are venturing zestfully in all directions. Only the other day Jean-Pierre Cote, in his customarily quiet way, put the Post Office into the retail business. Two of his colleagues, not to be outdone, have now intervened more dramatically in the business world. In neither case does any particular statute or principle appear to be in play.

Late last week Jean-Luc Pepin announced that the Government had acquired a "substantial majority" of the shares of Radio Engineering Products, a high technology firm. By this arrangement, the company will regain certain securities which it deposited to cover a tax liability. Corporations frequently fall behind on their taxes but the consequence is not usually government ownership.

The transaction, it is claimed, will preserve a number of jobs. This is gratifying. But business failures are not uncommon in a profit-and-loss economy. It has not, up to now, been government policy to acquire them in such circumstances. If that had been the rule, the list of government enterprises by this time would be truly awe-inspiring.

Perhaps the answer is to be found in the term, "high technology" and the economic significance attached to it. But why government purchase which is what it amounts to? Why not the Canada Development Corporation?

JEAN-LUC PEPIN
. . . excursion into free enterprise

It may be objected that the CDC is supposed to make a profit and not to buy back Canada. But the Government expects Radio Engineering Products to be a good thing. It will offer the stock for resale "when the company is in a more stable financial position." Mr. Pepin will simply be a male nurse during the intervening period.

But again, on what principle is the Government acting? In what White Paper will we find an exposition of its nursing role? Why do other industries or businesses go unnursed? And if Mr. Pepin is wrong, which Heaven forbid, will the Government find that it has acquired another white elephant comparable to those which have been fed and sheltered by taxpayers for decade after decade?

According to the Toronto Star, Jean Marchand also has a plan — said to appeal to the Prime Minister but not to less pragmatic, possibly more old-fashioned ministers. The trouble with the regional development program is said to be that firms subsidized to venture in slow-growth areas invest their profits in high-growth areas. This being considered anti-social, although what law it offends is far from clear, Mr. Marchand is sponsoring a government firm — Halifax-Dartmouth Corporation — which is to make consumer products for sale in the Maritimes. By this means accumulating profits, if any, will be kept in the region.

Something Else

Whatever principle may be involved here, it is certainly not free enterprise. The Government, in its wisdom, has emancipated itself from older restrictions. It directs business in one case; it takes over business in another case; it competes with business in a third case. Ailing business is comforted with government hot water bottles. If business seems healthy but disobedient, government sells the hot water bottles to puzzled consumers.

There is a firm view in government that business, at any time, should look with confidence to the future. Confronted with the new pragmatism, however, the rational businessman puts a perfectly reasonable question. Where, he asks, will government venture next? To this there is no answer for the obvious reason that principle has been discarded in favor of ministerial twitches, which are not predictable. The unfortunate result is that the business community radiates insufficient confidence to justify the faith of ministers.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Protesting Militarism

According to an Ottawa news report German troops in battalion strength are expected to begin summer tank training exercises at Shilo, Manitoba, next year.

On a rotation basis, at least 1,000 German soldiers will be trained on Canadian soil in tank warfare.

As one who has experienced two world wars — one as a child, the other in the RCAF — I must protest this contribution to the rebuilding of the German military machine.

Many Germans, both in Germany and abroad, have protested the reconstruction of the military system which controlled their nation's destiny for so long. Our current prime minister, who did not serve in the Canadian armed services, may not have the same understanding of German militarism as those who met it head on either in Germany as citizens opposing militiary control in their country or as members of our armed forces.

Many of our finest young people died in the two world wars: first against German militarism led by the Kaiser; secondly by the same militarism directed by Hitler. We must not in any way contribute to the building of the war machine they died to destroy.

We must return to the work begun when Lester B. Pearson led Canada in the United Nations in the building of a form of world law and international government to replace the reliance upon military might. Canada then led the world towards a peaceful, co-operative settlement of international disputes.

The current reliance upon military might — as in the current tragedy in Vietnam — will make a third world war inevitable — a war of even greater futility and overpowering destruction of human lives and of human values than in the previous struggles. — Frank Snowsell, Kelowna, B.C.

$9,900 for What?

It was interesting to read in a recent issue of the Times about the experimental community at Prevost Island which is trying to live off "Sea and Sand."

Many haunted taxpayers will also be delighted to learn that these "pioneers" of a new "life style" have been able to sweet talk the authorities into granting them a total of $9,900 to discover a few things which, though perhaps unknown to the inhabitants of some of our high-rise human filing cabinets, are common knowledge to almost any nine-year-old who has spent a week at a beach.

The federal government would do more for the country spending $9,900 investigating the mentality of some of its cabinet ministers and civil servants who have developed a (for them) satisfactory "life style", pouring other people's money down the drain. Sadly, of course, $9,900 would only serve to insult the investigators. — H. E. F. Makovksi, 3539 Plymouth.

60 YEARS AGO

From the Times of July 20, 1912:

Laden to the Plimsoll mark with one of the most valuable cargoes of whale products to be brought to this port this season, the steamer Gray, Capt. Shadforth, of the Canadian North Pacific Fisheries Company, arrived at the outer docks yesterday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Stowed in the holds of the Gray were over 700 barrels of whale oil, about 700 sacks of guano and a large shipment of gillbone.

Tanzania: A Country for Africans'

By JUDITH LISTOWEL
Times of London

One June morning, a Saturday, President Julius Nyerere flew to West Kilimanjaro to open a new office. He had a warm reception, after which the European farmers of the area invited him for refreshments.

It was a friendly gathering, Nyerere sitting in the middle with the Europeans forming a wide circle around him. The numerous security guards who watch over the Tanzanian President were reasonably well hidden.

Nyerere was in a relaxed, witty mood. His hair has turned grey, but he has kept his youthful figure and lively manner. His hosts had certain problems on their minds and decided to use the occasion to receive answers from the one quarter that could not be contradicted.

* * *

Their spokesman was Eric Brown, a dear, elderly Englishman who went to Tanganyika in 1945, and has been postmaster of West Kilimanjaro ever since. He is the father of the West Kilimanjaro European community.

Suddenly Brown became serious. "Mr. President, please, are we going to get back our airstrips? Second, what is to happen to our farms, and should they be nationalized, will we get compensation? Third, is there any future for us Europeans in Tanzania?" Brown sighed — he had got them off his chest.

Nyerere gave him a sharp look. "You asked me three very direct questions and I am going to give you three equally direct answers. Let me begin with the airstrips, although they are the concern of the Minister of Defence." He instructed an assistant to make a note. "We closed the airstrips because some of our neighbors are far from friendly — with some we are almost on a war footing. As long as that situation lasts, the airstrips are not likely to be reopened. But you will receive an official reply."

Then Nyerere went on: "As for your second question, the private capitalist farmer, whether he has a large estate or a small farm, has no place in socialist Tanzania. The country has decided to follow socialist principles and the only acceptable method of farming in future will be either state farms, or co-operative villages, where effort and reward are equally shared. There is no room for capitalist producers."

* * *

Nyerere agreed that the farmers should receive compensation for their unexhausted improvements — meaning machinery, equipment, animals, houses, stables, etc. No European owns the land he is farming, as soon after independence the few freeholds in the Kilimanjaro area were transformed into 99-year leases.

"But we have no money to pay you, so we have approached the British government for a loan for this purpose." He stressed that compensation would apply only to farmers.

To the third question Nyerere gave an unexpectedly blunt answer. "There is no future for Europeans in socialist Tanzania. Do not misunderstand me. I am no racialist, I am not saying this because of your white skins. We would be delighted if some of you stayed on as managers of ujamaa — co-operative — villages or of State farms, or if you helped us to train managers until Tanzanians can take over. But in the long run this is no country for you — it is a country for Africans." He added that nationalization would be carried out in three years, perhaps some farms would remain in private hands of another five years. By then all Tanzanian land would be socialized.

The European community, although distressed, was to some extent relieved as now its numbers know the worst. It is not a large community, altogether about 50 British families are concerned, 35 of whom are farming on Kilimanjaro. Some have lived there for a long time; their children have been born there, and they — in their turn — intended to end their days on the mountain, even if in the meantime their careers took them to different parts of the world.

What Nyerere probably meant, but being an African was too polite to put it in so many words, is that Europeans willing to live like Africans could stay. As long as European farmers on Kilimanjaro are living in charming, cool, well-furnished houses, there can be no socialist equality. And that is what Nyerere believes in, and is determined to realize in Tanzania.

* * *

Sad as the Europeans may be, they can go home, emigrate to Australia or New Zealand, or move to Southern Africa. But the most enterprising well-to-do Tanzanian Africans — like many of the Chagga tribesmen near Kilimanjaro — have nowhere to go. Thanks to their modern farming methods they have earned good money and some of them have raised their standard of living to European levels. If they are forced to merge their farms with those of their poor — they would say unenterprising or lazy — neighbors, they will lose most of what they have achieved.

To quote Nyerere once more: "Tanzania has decided to follow socialist principles" which means that the dissidents will have to toe the line.

That may not be as easy as is hoped. Well-informed quarters in Kenya believe that there are close contacts between the Chagga and the Luo tribesmen in Kenya, and that their purpose is to have Kilimanjaro returned to Kenya. Queen Victoria gave it to Emperor William II when Tanganyika was German East Africa.

In Tanzania Nyerere is determined to create an African socialist state in the pure ideological sense of this term. The poor tribes will like it and their lot will improve. But prosperous farmers — which means the best educated and most go-ahead tribesmen — hate it, and may even compel him to use force, which is the last thing Julius Nyerere wants to do.

'NDP Should Provide Home for Radical Young'

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — Three readers have commented on the controversy within the NDP over the Waffle.

The first comes from 77-year-old Bert Herridge, the squire of the Kootenays. He held a seat in the Commons from 1945 to 1968 for the CCF-NDP.

He writes: "In B.C., Dave Barrett, the NDP leader, has come out in support of the Waffle group as opposed to the policy proposed by David and Stephen Lewis and the Ontario section of the NDP."

"While I do not support all the proposals of the Waffle group, I am glad to see these young people and many former members of the old CCF Regina manifesto participate in our party, rather than be content to carry placards, protest, and then let the subjects in question drop. We have a lot of supporters of the aims of the Waffle group in Kootenay West. They intend to hold a camp in the near future to plan their strategy for the provincial and federal elections.

"Locally I find that many of the union members are not involved in politics but prefer to follow the example of the Rev. Tommy Douglas and join the Masons, the Shriners and, their wives, the Eastern Star, where they can improve their status in the community by association on an equal basis with management."

Close to Communist

Let me footnote the Herridge contribution. He has always disliked, and worked within the party against, David Lewis. For decades Mr. Herridge had a close alliance with Harvey Murphy, the Communist leader of the western wing of the United Mine, Mill and Smelter workers. Mr. Murphy was a smart, competent leader with great influence in the Trail region. (His son, Rae Murphy, is emerging as one of the best writers of the Last Post Magazine group.) My hunch is that the Waffle provides Mr. Herridge with a new, latter-day means to feud with the Lewises.

Another letter came from a former Ottawa reporter, Gus Ricker. He is studying in England.

Publish Own Paper

After outlining how both the Labor and Tory parties in Britain live with their party dissidents who are, relatively, "pro" and "con" the European Common Market, he writes:

"... This process is infinitely preferable to the root and branch purge the NDP are putting on the Waffle ... The Labor Party has a similar group in its midst, called the Tribune Group MPs. They publish their own paper and put forward their own policies.

"I agree that the Waffle takes things much too far in that their activities seldom go further than their own case — although this is mostly confined to the leaders.

"But surely, and maybe this is what the Lewises had in mind, a reasonable code of conduct could ensure a united front at election time. The party ought to remember that the Waffle is often the only link the party has with young people.

"Surely the party of the left should provide a home for the radical young. To write them off is to give credibility to the fantasies of the Maoists and Trotskyites. Even worse is the alternative of the rock and drug culture of American youth who have no political alternative (the machinations around McGovern make that clear) and the result is self-indulgence and defeatism.

"That's one point for the Waffle in that it is getting young people into organized politics. My other point is that rather than wasting time purging the Waffle, the party is failing to go where the voters are, namely in the cities and into local issues. If the party doesn't get into cities, the vacuum will be filled with things like LIP and OFY.

"I maintain the connecting thread is youth, a youth interested in local issues around rights and the environment. The Waffle gets to this group with its 'power to the people' ethos.

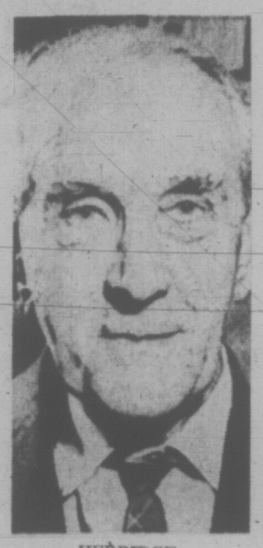
The third reader told me to look up an article of the late Blair Fraser, in MacLean's magazine for January 15, 1947. It was entitled "The Commies muscle in."

At that time David Lewis was the secretary, thinker, organizer and general factotum for the CCF, operating in Ottawa. It was just before the trade union movement and the CCF, sparked by Lewis, began to fight back at the grip the Communists had taken of the leadership in a dozen or so trade unions.

Infiltrate Groups

Fraser's article is largely a description of the methods and skills of the key Communist leaders. "No union in Canada," he wrote, "not even United Electrical, has a Communist majority in its rank and file. But on the other hand no union is wholly free from Communist infiltration."

Blair Fraser described how the Communists wrecked J. S. Woodsworth's attempt's to build a CCF organization in Ontario in the '30s by slipping into the CCF study groups.



HERRIDGE
. . . old feud?

He wrote: "In trade unions the Commnuists' aim is not, of course, actually to destroy or disband the organization, but it is to discredit its anti-Communist leadership."

The fullest case history Fraser offered was the formation of the effective Veteran's Housing League. While the idea was not that of the Communists, they came in and their organizing skills made it go, particularly the work of Bob Laxer, the Ottawa organizer of the Labor Progressive Party.

My informant reminded me of the long struggle David Lewis had, nationally and in the Ottawa region, eradicating Communist influence and turning back that small cadre of Communists, able as Fraser said by "hard work and iron discipline" to achieve much more than might be expected.

"Now," said my reader, "imagine what's motivating David Lewis. He knows that at most Waffle gatherings of strength his old rival, Bob Laxer is present, advising his son James. He hears Stevie Penner storming as an NDP Waffle candidate for a federal seat in Toronto and remembers the long battle in Winnipeg with old Jake Penner, Stevie's grandfather and the most successful Communist electorally in Canada's history. Is it any wonder you see history repeating itself through the sons and grandsons of the protagonists in the left's internal strife of the '40s and '50s?"

Who'll Ground Crooked Charters?

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

Here we are in the middle of the summer travel season and the air charter business is still being regulated in the same way, which is to say badly, as it was a year ago, two years or several years ago. All the governments concerned have been agreed, in principle, for several months on what needs to be done. The most optimistic forecast is that they may manage to get the new regulations established by the end of this year. What the hell.

For still another season conditions are being left as an open invitation to the sharp operators, the hole-in-the-wall promoters and outright crooks to exploit the growing demand for cheap air travel. The so-called affinity rule, making air charters available only to clubs and associations formed for a purpose other than air travel, is an incentive to fraud and perjury all round.

If there is any reason for this continuing state of affairs except the reluctance of governments to expose their scheduled airlines to competition, it has yet to be explained.

The explanation available from the Canadian Transport Commission in Ottawa runs like this: Discussions have been going on over the past six months between the aviation authorities in Canada, the United States and Europe. It is agreed that the affinity rule should be scrapped. Instead there should be the simple requirement that tickets on a charter be bought well in advance of the flight — how long is still being debated, but it will probably be about three months. What is holding the change up is the drafting and approval of precise regulations that are workable and free of loopholes.

Very good. Under these regulations, the way will be cleared for responsible charter agencies to develop the latent demand for pre-planned group travel, and the scheduled airlines will be left to provide the regular services at the necessarily higher price.

But the degree of urgency felt about making the change is shown by the fact that it took three general meetings of the national authorities over six months, to agree on the principle. The final one established working groups to draft the regulations. They will meet sometime next month.

The Canadian Transport Commission cannot be held disproportionately to blame for this unnecessary delay. It can certainly be questioned, however, about its refusal of an opportunity to provide partial relief.

This came from the British Civil Aviation Authority, which suggested early this year that the advance purchase system be implemented bilaterally between Canada and Britain, pending general agreement.

Ah, no, said the CTC, that would mean having two sets of regulations, one for travel to Britain and the second for all others. Such a bureaucratic heresy! No matter that the greater part of the air charter potential is for travel between Canada and Britain, and no matter either that such a bilateral agreement would very likely have speeded up the process of reaching a general settlement.

Freely translated, the argument is that when there is a swamp in the way, everybody has to flounder in it. You must not build a dry walkway to just one important destination. You must wait until the whole thing is properly drained and filled.

Something for the Eggheads?

By McKENZIE PORTER

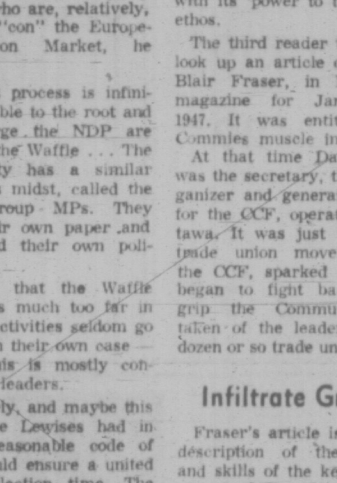
According to showbusiness surveys the upper-middlebrows and highbrows constitute only 10 per cent of the North American audience. Generally speaking, these upperbrows find little satisfaction in westerns, situation comedies, soap operas, parlor games, old movies and spectator sports. Therefore they derive no benefit from television.

Because they are not sufficiently numerous to demand their own programs, and not sufficiently gullible to buy the wares of the sponsors, the upperbrows are spurned by television producers and must go out to the theatre, cinema, concert hall and art gallery for the fulfilment of their aesthetic needs.

It is intolerable that citizens who contribute the most wisdom to public progress, should be neglected by government controlled cultural institutions simply because they cannot endure vulgarity and banality.

Some years ago a Toronto company announced that it would cater to upperbrow audiences through the medium of Pay-For-TV. It failed because it was too lowbrow. In view of the potential diversities of the newer cable companies a second attempt at establishing Pay-For-TV at the upperbrow level might be successful.

But there is no compelling reason why upperbrow taxpayers should wait for such an enterprise on the part of private impresarios. Just as some people are entitled to their daily dash of horse sweat on the TV screen so are others entitled to programs based on art, science and philosophy. And the proper institution for the provision of such programs is the CBC.



SINCLAIR
. . . he could do it

The function of the government owned CBC is not to compete in the field of mass entertainment but to enrich the culture of Canada. Therefore the CBC should terminate its expensive and undignified attempts to imitate the modern medicine shows at all hours of the day and night, and confine itself to two hours of superb, upperbrow broadcasting, free from commercials, in the prime and only civilized viewing time between 8:30 and 10:30 p.m.

By ridding itself of advertising agents, space salesmen, sports promoters, movie exhibitors, theatrical agents, drummers, crooners, hoofers, comedians and hordes of other characters essential to lowbrow showbusiness, the CBC would save enough money to pack into two hours, seven nights a week, the most significant and compelling television programming the world has ever seen.

In the beginning, 90 per cent of viewers would switch to the commercial stations. But steadily the CBC audiences would increase, for nothing raises general standards of appreciation more surely than constant opportunity to savor truly creative production.

If any man is capable of pursuing this policy, a policy that would restore to the CBC the prestige it enjoyed before it was carried away by a television rat race in 1954, he is the new vice-president, Lister Sinclair.

Final checkover for yellow submarine

BUSINESS SINKING FAST

TORONTO (CP)— Bill Walker's business is sinking fast — and he considers that good.

He rents a submarine.

His first $300,000 craft was launched at Ontario Place today by Margaret McKeough, wife of provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough, who broke the traditional bottle of champagne.

Walker, 43, is operations manager and chief pilot for Access Ltd., a new Toronto company that rents its services for ocean pipeline and power line surveying and biological studies.

A day in his submarine will cost between $1,000 and $3,000, depending mostly on launching conditions, he said in an interview.

The 21-foot craft can reach four knots for about 90 minutes before its 24 12-volt batteries run out. At a normal speed of one knot it can travel up to eight hours.

Candel Oil

Candel Oil Ltd. earned $1,427,000 or 34.2 cents a share during the six months ended June 30 compared with $1,686,000 or 40.4 cents a share a year earlier.

Reduced earning resulted from a decline in product sales and higher exploration costs.

Chubb Industries

Security Capital Corp. Ltd. advised it's shareholders it has given up attempts to acquire control of Seaway Multi Corp. Ltd. and Levy Industries Ltd. All three firms are based in Toronto.

The Levy family of Toronto, which controls Seaway, already had announced they had terminated an agreement with Security Capital for transfer of control which would have given Security Capital interests in cold-storage warehousing, CCM sports equipment, auto components, wood products and real estate.

Security Capital's letter to shareholders ended more than 10 months of negotiations.

Security Capital

Net income after taxes of Chubb Industries Limited was $583,000 for the year ending March 31, 1972. Sales were $13,866,000.

Chubb Industries Limited, with two principal divisions, Chubb-Mosler and Taylor Safes and Chubb-Mosler and Taylor Alarms, and a wholly owned subsidiary, Pyrene Canada Limited, is Canada's largest company offering fire and burglar protection equipment and systems.

Figures do not include those of Pyrene Canada Limited, acquired April 1, 1972, in a share exchange transaction valued at about $1.38 million.

Platinum Price Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — The price of an ounce of platinum rose $10 an ounce as major producers of the metal responded to the signing of a new contract with a major auto firm.

The platinum will be used in an anti-pollution device manufactured by Ford Motor Company. Ford signed a contact last week for 500,000 troy ounces of platinum with Englehard Industries.

Englehard and a South African producer promptly hiked their price from $120-$125 a troy ounce to $130-$135.

Platinum futures on the New York Commodity Exchange also reacted sharply to the announcement, opening $10 higher per troy ounce on the futures market. The price now ranges between $154 to $164 per troy ounce.

Island Areas Poor In Energy Resources

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

The permit granted to Utah Mines Ltd. of Port Hardy to search for coal in the Peace River district points up how poor Vancouver Island is in energy resources.

Although already firmly established as a mining operation on the northern tip of Vancouver Island, the company elected to go to the furthest corner of the province in search of coal.

The provincial cabinet gave the go-ahead to Utah Mines on Wednesday afternoon after the company presented details of environment protection plans and posted a $4,000 bond.

There is little point, it seems, in searching for coal on the Island.

NOBODY WANTS

Big coal deposits once were the basis for a thriving mining venture at Nanaimo but that was long ago.

Today nobody wants Island coal.

The known deposits are all not suitable as coking coals and that rules them out as export potential. In addition, the known Island deposits are all far underground and can only be retrieved through shafting, an expensive process.

Besides coal, the Island is low on known uranium reserves. There are traces of uranium but prospects for uranium finds are much better almost any place else.

The same holds true for oil, another energy source. Although there may be plenty in the strait, oil is not expected to be located in any large amounts on Vancouver Island.

Experts say the geology is just about the worst imaginable for those hoping to locate oil.

And, as it appears straight-drilling has been ruled out, that just about completely rules out oil and gas resources.

The other major energy resource, hydro-power is also in short supply — so much so that the Island has to import power from the mainland by means of a cable at Duncan.

B.C. Hydro, wrestling with this problem, has been considering possible sources of thermal power.

Under consideration — and being ruled out for one reason or another — are coal, natural gas and uranium as heat sources to produce thermal electricity.

The only inexpensive answer, as B.C. Hydro chairman Gordon Shrum has been saying, is for the Island to import uranium and use nuclear power to produce electricity.

But that has been ruled out by the provincial government . . . at least until 1976.

There are resources on the Island, but energy resources are not among them.

Costly Setbacks Plaguing Coal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Low prices, shipping problems, a slowdown in the growth of Japan's steel industry, costly strikes and production setbacks have faced Western Canada's burgeoning coal industry with an outlook as murky as the pits from which the fuel is mined.

The resurgence in coal mining began in 1968, when Kaiser Steel Corp. and Mitsubishi-Shoji Kaisha of Japan announced signing of a contract worth $650 million. The contract calls for shipment of more than 45 million tons of high-grade coking coal to Japan over the next 15 years from Kaiser's Sparwood Mine in the Crows Nest area of southeastern British Columbia.

Since then, other signings have taken place, with the result that Western Canadian mines are to supply some 182.5 million tons of coal to Japan by 1986 at a price of more than $3 billion.

The picture was bright, but then troubles began.

Kaiser, the biggest producer, provides a good illustration of those problems.

ESTIMATES LOW

The main setback was underestimating the cost of plant construction by Kaiser, whose Canadian coal operation is handled by a subsidiary, Kaiser Resources Ltd., combined with faulty design in the processing plant which held production well below estimated levels.

Kaiser Resources has never managed to get into the black with production from its vast open-pit operation at the Sparwood, B.C., mine.

By mid-1970, when the first shipments of coal from Sparwood had started moving to Japan from the deepsea port at Roberts Bank 20 miles south of Vancouver, the company had piled up a net operating loss of some $1.3 million.

This week, Kaiser Resources reported its losses for the first six months of 1972 at $6.4 million, equivalent to 64 cents a share on sales of $35 million. It brought the company's losses since it began its coal operation in B.C. to $26,760,000.

S. A. Girard, president and chief executive officer, said the company can't and won't continue to lose money but did not predict a date by which the B.C. operation would become profitable.

Faulty Designs Hurt Processing

At the end of 1970, Kaiser announced a $10-million modification program for its plant and received $25 million in Japanese financing.

WINS INCREASE

Reviving hopes for a brighter future, Kaiser announced earlier this month that it had succeeded in renegotiating its contract with Japanese companies, winning a price increase of $2.50 a long ton of coal, bringing the new base price to $16.88. In addition, the Japanese approved an interim price increase of $1.85 a long ton from July 1, 1972 through June 30, 1973.

McIntyre Porcupine Mines at Smoky River, Alta., another major shipper, also ran into problems.

It discovered its planned method of mining coal was impractical because of lack of skilled workers and was forced into a costly changeover.

Fording Coal, a subsidiary of Canadian Pacific Investments and Cominco, sent its first load of coal to Japan last April. Japanese buyers complained that ash content was slightly above contract specifications.

But the problems haven't all been on the Canadian side.

DELAYED SHIPMENTS

A lengthy strike by Japanese seamen, settled recently, tied up shipments. And there has been a slowdown in the anticipated growth of the Japanese steel industry, main user of Canadian coal.

But officials are hopeful a brighter day is coming.

Frank Richter, B.C. minister of mines, said a shortage of skilled miners was one problem that now appears solved. Kaiser Resources spokesmen have expressed optimism and Japanese spokesmen, at first unhappy over coal production problems, have adopted a more conciliatory attitude.

Takeshi Kakite, manager of the coal and fuel branch of Nippon Kokan K.K., and Tadashi Moriyasu, manager of the fuel section of Kobe Steel Ltd., said they were "deeply disappointed" in the performance of Canadian coal companies when they visited Western Canada last year.

But before they left, both said they were hopeful the problems were now solved and the industry was turning the corner.

CONSIDERS RE-ENTRY

Perhaps the best assessment of Western Canada's coal future comes from Bruce Pepper, president of Crows Nest Industries, a pioneer company in the southeastern B.C. area.

Mr. Pepper says his company, which sold Kaiser the land for its mine, would like to get back in the export business.

"We feel quite optimistic about getting into the export of coal," Mr. Pepper said, "but the experiences of some Western Canadian producers are holding us back."

He said costs of mining coal have risen and prices, while high, are not high enough to meet costs.

"There is also a good deal of pressure from Japan because of oversupply," he said. "They were over-optimistic about the growth of their steel industry.

"But it's just a temporary thing, their steel industry is bound to grow within the next few years."

MET CHIEF NAMED

NEW YORK (AP) — The No. 2 man in administration at the Metropolitan Opera, Schuyler G. Champin, 49, was named acting general manager Wednesday at a meeting of the Met's board of directors.

The board meeting came after the death of Goeran Gentele in an automobile accident in Sardinia. Gentele, 54, had succeeded Sir Rudolph Bing as Met general manager July 1.

McGovern Support Defended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Newspaper Guild president Charles Perlik said Wednesday he would be delighted to defend his endorsement of George McGovern for president, despite new attacks on his decision from inside and outside the union.

Perlik commented after Republican Senator Barry Goldwater told the senate the public "has a right to know a lot more about" the endorsement.

"... If the Newspaper Guild is going to take a political position for the first time in its history, it's time that the American people who are dependent upon Guild members for their news are told about it," Goldwater said.

Perlik said: "We will be delighted to have a full airing of our endorsement ... We'll be delighted to air for the benefit of the American people the retrogressive impact that president Nixon's economic policy has had on our membership and on the working men and women across the country.

"We'll be delighted to point out that Nixon's four appointees to the supreme court ... constituted 80 per cent of the majority which voted three weeks ago to erode the first amendment of the constitution by holding that news personnel have no constitutional privilege to withhold disclosure of their sources of information.

"And finally we will be delighted to defend the fairness and objectivity of the people who convey the news of the country and the world to the public against anything Barry Goldwater can say against them."

POLICE FIND GUN, COCAINE IN AUTO

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four Colorado men were arrested Monday following seizure of a loaded gun, drugs and almost $9,600 in American currency.

Police said they stopped a car Monday evening for a routine check and found traces of hashish.

A more thorough search of the vehicle uncovered a loaded 7.65-calibre pistol hidden beneath the floor boards, iron knuckles, a small amount of cocaine, a set of scales, 23 rounds of ammunition and the money.

Camera Use Fails In Making Arrests

An attempt by police in Vancouver to use cameras for identifying lawbreaking demonstrators has failed and on-the-spot arrests will be brought back, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said Wednesday.

The announcement followed a meeting of police chiefs with Peterson, and the earlier announcement that no arrests will be made in connection with the demonstration against the B.C. cabinet in June.

Peterson said he is disappointed that the method used for identification in New Westminster had failed because "there were violations."

In that fracas, at least one cabinet minister, Agriculture Minister Cyril Shelford, was physically injured.

"However, there just isn't sufficient evidence of the identity of these individuals which would stand up in a court of law," he said.

"I have, partly as of the result of the difficulties in this case, met with the police chiefs from across the province last week, discussing this particular demonstration and demonstrations in general, pointing out the difficulty we were having in enforcing the law.

"And it's a sad day if we ever get to the point that an individual can feel that he can break the law with impunity if he's in a large crowd, whereas acting alone he would be picked up and put in the paddy wagon, but quick."

Peterson said he had hoped, "especially in the city of Vancouver," to find some other means to enforce the law in large demonstrating groups.

"We have gone through a stage of experimenting with different ideas. We have been renting the very latest photographic equipment with a view of assisting in identification."

"This hasn't worked very well," Peterson said.

PETERSON

He said both the Vancouver city police and the RCMP had found the use of cameras inadequate.

Project 70—Maybe by 1985

The provincial museum's "project 70" would be completed by 1985 if the museum staff relied solely on its $500,000 annual budget for funds.

Museum director Dr. Bristol Foster said Wednesday, "after expenses for such things as travel, publications and salaries have been deducted from the basic budget we have only about $30,000 left for displays."

Project 70 is divided into four phases, each phase costing approximately $250,000 and occupying 25,000 square feet or half a floor.

Foster said $250,000 for 25,000 square feet is only $10 per foot, "which is cheap." But that's for materials only labor is not included.

The first phase, a human history exhibit, was financed by the provincial and federal governments and various organizations and businesses.

Foster said, "the province should finance it," but he indicated he is hoping for more donations.

"The federal government has just started a $9.4 million program to help museums and we're hoping to get some money from thef," he said.

The second phase, a natural history exhibit, will deal with the 12 different natural regions in B.C. said Foster.

Displays will show how animals and plants adapt to the various regions and the influence of man in each area.

"We planned it quite some time ago. It's just a question of putting it into two-by-fours and paint," said Foster.

The departments involved are birds and mammals, marine biology and botany.

INDIAN EXHIBITION

The third phase, an ethnology exhibit dealing with major Indian groups in the province will begin shortly after and will be completed before the second phase.

Foster said the natural history exhibit is more costly and time-consuming than the ethnology display. The ethnology department has a good collection already so it's just a matter of putting it together.

"We can't use old exhibits," said Foster.

"For example, you can't put a moose with one ear falling off on display," he said.

Numerous stuffed animals will be needed and hundreds of plants will have to be recreated, he said. "It could possibly take 10 years."

He said the staff is hoping to finish the second phase within three or four years and the third phase within a year after that.

The museum's plans have been through some drastic changes since it opened four years ago.

"When we first planned this project, we decided to spend a year on each phase. Now we've been open four years and only the first phase is done," said Foster.

SAFETY BREACH COMPLAINT LAID

The Greater Victoria school board was accused Tuesday of a breach of safety regulations in a complaint filed by a union with the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Local 382 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees maintains that a backhoe operator was instructed last Thursday to dig out and clean a drain on the grounds of Camosun College although a 12,000-volt cable lay buried across the drain "at an unknown depth."

Sig Dietze, the board's director of construction and maintenance, said today the board wasn't aware of the complaint to the WCB and has taken no action yet.

The drain-clearing job has been completed and the cable was found to lie under the ditch at a point away from the jog, he said.

CPR Pensioners Go On Annual Cruise

One-hundred and fifty CPR pensioners sailed to Port Angeles on the Princess Marguerite for the group's annual cruise Tuesday.

Refreshments and the cost of the trip were supplied by the CPR.

Flood Aid Still Sought

Premier Bennett sent a telegram Wednesday to Prime Minister Trudeau indicating B.C. is still trying to persuade Ottawa to pay half of the damage costs caused by floods in June.

Bennett's telegram did not ask the question directly but said "you might wish the federal government cheques to go out individually or, if you wish, the provincial government will process the cheques on your behalf." Total flood damage was between $6 million and $7 million.

On Tuesday, the government announced that it had processed about a third of the damage claims and was sending out cheques for half the amount.

The federal government has offered a sliding scale of payments from Ottawa which would leave B.C. paying about 69 per cent of the damage.

Bennett's telegram also says "we wish to co-operate to the fullest extent to the benefit of those to be compensated and if we can be of any further assistance to you and the government of Canada please let us know."

Rangers Cash In on Cash War

NEW YORK (AP) — The new World Hockey Association is starting to pay off—for National Hockey League players.

The bidding war between the WHA, which has yet to put a team on the ice, and the established NHL, reached new heights Wednesday when it was reported that New York Rangers of the NHL had signed two of its top players to big, multi-year contracts.

Brad Park, long considered the second best defenceman in the NHL behind Boston's Bobby Orr, has signed a five-year, $200,000-a-year contract with the Rangers, the New York Times reported in its Thursday editions.

In addition, Walt Tkaczuk, a center, signed a multi-year pact calling for $150,000 annually, said The Times.

Emile Francis, general manager-coach of the Rangers, goes to Boston today to negotiate with the lawyer for left winger Vic Hadfield.

The Times said Hadfield will probably agree to $200,000 a year even though the WHA had offered $50,000 a year more and a five-year pact.

The annual salaries that Park, Tkaczuk and Hadfield will draw next season will be more than the entire payroll for the 20-man Ranger team two years ago.

While Park may be considered No. 2 to Orr in defence, he's now No. 1 in salary. Orr, signed before the WHA cranked up, is getting $180,000 annually.

Francis would not confirm the signings of Park and Tkaczuk, saying: "We never announce who we sign."

The NHL found out that the WHA meant business when the new league lured away Chicago Black Hawks' star Bobby Hull earlier this summer.

The reported WHA offer to Hadfield, a total of a million dollars over five years, would be funded in the same fashion the new league is paying Hull — an assessment against each team.

Hull went to the WHA's Winnipeg Jets as player-coach in a 10-year $2.75-million deal. The other WHA teams are chipping in more than a million dollars to help defray the costs.

Park got $12,000 three years ago from the Rangers. His new salary is almost 20 times that amount. Hadfield got a reported $50,000 from the Rangers last year.

Larry Rauch, an attorney who negotiated the contracts for Park and Tkaczuk, was quoted by The Times as saying: "I don't want it to sound as if money was the only consideration . . . People must realize that these players have to talk to the other league. Hockey is the way they feed their families. They've got an average of seven years to make the most of the money they'll be earning in their lifetimes."

World of Little League: Gordon Head Is Red Hot!

"See you in The World." This was a parting shot by a Gordon Head Little Leaguer on Tuesday night at Hampton Park, where the strength of the American League team was being discussed.

Sure, he was only a spectator that night because his turn was yet to come. That was last night.

This is the week of the city Little League double-loss elimination tournament among four teams, and "the world", so endearingly referred to, is what it's finally all about.

"The World" is Williamsport, Pennsylvania, and the biggest bubble of all, The Little League World Series.

But right here in town is Victoria's own private Little League world, and the four teams in the final crunch are National, Oak Bay, American and Gordon Head.

The scene is Hampton Park, and if Oak Bay fell apart in the third inning of the first game Tuesday, bowing to National, 6-0, Gordon Head pulled out the shocker of the event so far, on Wednesday, with a smartly-played 2-0 win over giant American, which probably was the pre-tournament favorite.

But don't dare tell that story to Gordon Head.

★ ★ ★

There had been a bit of a psyching job on Tuesday, in the stands, as Gordon Head and American were out in full force, scouting their future opposition. They just wanted to make certain that Nationals and Oak Bay had no secrets they didn't already know.

That's when the banter began, and if most everyone was trying to psyche golden-hatted Gordon Head that American had power, could hit the long ball, had the pitching, Gordon Head still wanted to be shown. So, bring on American!

Actually, perhaps Nationals deserve a little more than passing mention. Particularly pitcher Pat Constable. He had game control until the end, and had a one-hitter until Oak Bay got two of its three hits in the sixth. In the vernacular of the time: "He looked good."

And if loser Greg Clarkson appeared to be laboring, later he did admit to a sore arm.

That was on Tuesday.

On Wednesday, Gordon Head stood up, and asked to be counted. Weren't they unbeaten in area playdowns? Hadn't Mike Holtz pitched a no-hitter and a one-hitter? Hadn't Bill Coupar had a two-hitter?

Sure, but weren't American just as pure? They were undefeated, and had their two big mound aces, Sandy Crisp and Morris Blackmore, ready and waiting.

It had all the earmarks of a dandy. It was.

★ ★ ★

Coupar got the call for Gordon Head. Crisp for American.

It was up and down more or less in order in the first inning. Then in the bottom of the second Gordon Head showed its hand, and some smart base-running too.

Eddie Geric singled, went to second on a ground ball, and then sped home on two successive wild pitches. Crisp was coming up wild low.

Then, in the third, Gordon Head struck again. Glen Smith walked, went to second on yet another wild pitch, and came home on a single by Larry Woods.

It was 2-0, and all that Coupar was go get, and need.

He pitched a smart game, showed a good fast ball, used an overhand curve to advantage, and struck out 11. But perhaps the most remarkable part was the complete poise he showed on the hill.

He worked as if he knew that he could beat American, and his team played just as confidently behind him.

When it was over, he had allowed only one hit, a single by Morris Blackmore in the third inning. There were no bases on balls, and no other runner reached base.

And all in only 70 minutes yet!

Tonight it's game three, in round two. Now American has joined the ranks of the beaten, along with Oak Bay.

For one, it's loser out.

For the other, it's still "The World," with Gordon Head and National standing by.

P.S.: The kids are playing good ball. The series is worth taking in.

HE MISSED ON THIS ONE, but New Westminster goalie Joe Comeau was big man at Memorial Arena Wednesday, making 38 saves as Salmonbellies squeezed out 13-12 victory over Victoria Shamrocks. With Comeau on knee after failing to stop shot by Ranjit Dillon, referee signals Shamrock success as ball bounces out of net. (John McKay photo.)

Comeau Drops Lid On Irish Comeback

By JACK KEATING
Times Staff

As much as Joe Comeau concentrates, the New Westminster Salmonbellies' goaltender admits he has difficulty remembering faces or names.

Even Ranjit Dillon falls into the "another-face-in-the-crowd" category.

The name and the face went unrecognized even after the Victoria Shamrocks' veteran scored three goals, set up three, and then was victimized by Comeau with about 90 seconds remaining in Wednesday's Western Lacrosse Association game at Memorial Arena.

While Comeau came up with several notable stops in the final minutes, his parry of Ranjit's shot was the one that sealed New Westminster's 13-12 victory over the pressing Shamrocks.

HAPPENS TOO FAST

"Everything is happening so fast," declared the all-star netminder, "that I don't realize who is shooting.

"I really don't remember Dillon's shot," admitted Comeau, who had 15 other saves to recall in the third period and 38 for the 60 minutes.

Skip Chapman, after a busy opening 10 minutes, had a fairly quiet night in the Victoria goal, particularly in the second period, when he stopped just four shots—and 24 for the game.

Dillon remembered his last-gasp shot vividly.

"He (Comeau) was waiting for me to shoot high, then he just threw it (his shoulder) up," muttered Dillon, who is playing his finest lacrosse of the season and has now moved into fourth place in the individual scoring race.

GALLANT TRY

Dillon and Brian Thompson were both dejected because they missed great scoring chances that would have evened the score for the first time in the game to cap a gallant Victoria comeback bid.

The 'Bellies simply outmuscled the Rocks and were leading 5-0 eight minutes into the game. Despite Victoria's wide edge in play in the second period, Westminster still held a 12-8 edge after two periods, and, at one point early in the second period, the visitors were in front by seven goals, 10-3.

Playing-coach Paul Parnell led the Salmonbellies' early charge with three goals and three assists. Fred Greenwood added a pair of goals and eight players had one goal, including big Al Lewthwaite who scored the winner on the odd man play. Lewthwaite's effort turned out to be New Westminster's only goal of the third period.

LAUDS COMEBACK

W'hen you give them five goals, it's pretty tough to come back," moaned Victoria coach Ed Kowalyk. Still, Kowalyk was enthused about the way his team came back.

"I don't give a damn what anyone says. When we play like we did for the last two periods, we're as good or better than anybody," declared Kowalyk.

"It got pretty hectic in the third period and the only one (save) I remember was on the Brian Thompson when he was right on the crease. I won't say I was lucky, but I was surprised to get it," said the 32-year-old Comeau, now in his 11th year of senior lacrosse.

Victory extended the league-leading Salmonbellies' victory run to four games and broke a three-game Victoria win streak. The teams meet again tonight in New Westminster.

DOUG PEDEN - EDITOR

Ticats Release Zuger; Gabler Sparks Victory

Times News Services

Hamilton Tiger-Cats have released Joe Zuger, their quarterback since 1962, but they appear to be in good hands nevertheless.

The Tiger-Cats Wednesday night defeated Montreal Alouettes 21-9 in an Eastern Football Conference exhibition at Hamilton with Wally Gabler and Chuck Ealey alternating at quarterback.

It was one of two pre-season games. In the other at Ottawa, the Rough Riders soundly whipped Toronto Argonauts 51-7.

Zuger, who suffered a dislocated shoulder in a game at Toronto last October, has been unable to throw the ball more than 30 yards since.

He said he hopes to play this season for Detroit Lions of the National Football League as a punter.

EARLY SCORES

In the game, Gabler passed six yards to Tommy Joe Coffey for one touchdown, and caught the Als with a surprise pass to Garney Henley that went for 71 yards and a second touchdown, both in the first quarter. Gabler was good on nine of 17 passes for 189 yards.

Doug Mitchell converted both touchdowns, kicked a 37-yard field goal, and had a single. Ian Sunter also kicked a Hamilton field goal.

Jim Corcoran tossed a 13-yard pass to Peter Dalla Riva for Montreal's only touchdown.

In Ottawa, kicker Gerry Organ led the Riders with 14 points, nine from first half field goals. End Rhome Nixon scored two Ottawa touchdowns, the others going to quarterback Paul Brothers and Rick Cassat, and backs Rod Woodward and Bob Houmard. Organ converted five of the six touchdowns.

WHA PLANS SERIES WITH WORDL CHAMPS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A hockey series between the Czechoslovakian national team and an all-star group from the new World Hockey Association can be expected early next year, Gary L. Davidson, president of the WHA, said Wednesday.

Negotiations are under way for a three-game visit to the United States by the Czechs, probably in mid-January, Davidson added.

The Czechs won the 1972 world hockey championship.

Pro-Stocks Return For Dragways Duel

Those fantastic all-steel-bodied machines known as pro-stocks will be making a return appearance at Van Isle Dragways on Sunday.

Gene McKinney of Seattle will be behind the wheel of a 1969 Camaro appropriately named "Quick Trip." The car is powered by an aluminum L-88 Chevrolet engine with a bore of 427 cubic inches.

McKinney is currently number two in pro-stock standings in the Pacific Northwest.

Supplying competition will be Jim Pettie of Seattle, driving a 1971 Challenger, called "Pro-Motion" and powered by a 426 Hemi.

Both cars have turned the quarter-mile in 9.90 seconds at 140 miles-per-hour and will meet in a best-of-three match race.

In addition, there will be the regular program of racing in dragster, modified, altered, super-stock and stock classes.

Gates open at 9 a.m., time trials start at 10 and eliminations get underway at 1:30 p.m.

Coupar's Tosses Stop Americans

Right-hander Bill Coupar pitched a one-hitter Wednesday to lead Gordon Head to a 2-0 shutout over defending-champion American in the district Little League baseball playoffs at Hampton Park.

Coupar finished the stint with 11 strikeouts and issued no bases-on-balls.

Eddy Geric gave Coupar the only run he needed by singling in the second inning, advancing to second on Jeff Warren's ground out and scoring on two wild pitches.

Glen Smith collected the insurance run in the third inning when he led off with a base-on-balls, gained second on a wild pitch and came home on a single by Larry Woods.

Many Island Lakes Lack Natural Food for Trout

Is Vancouver Island receiving its full share of trout hatchery production in B.C.? Information from the fish and wildlife branch's newsletter on hatchery liberations leaves me in doubt.

In 1970, 14 lakes were stocked with a total of 25,500 two-inch rainbow trout.

Only nine lakes stocked in 1971 with 7,600 two-inch rainbows. Liberations to date for 1972 show only 2,800 four-inch-size cutthroat trout being liberated in four Island lakes.

Lakes listed stocked in these years are as follows:

— 1970 rainbow trout liberations: Council, Lizard, Father and Son, Fish Tail, Hidden, Nimnim, Gillespie, Barsby, Sutton, Elk, Fullers, Westwood, Cottle and Boomerang.

— 1971 rainbow trout liberations: Gillespie, Flora, Gracie, Marshy, Lowry, Darkie, Martha, Hayes and Tlowils.

— 1972 cutthroat trout liberations: Timberlands, Rododendron, Mayo's Pond, Nanaimo's Third Lake.

Vancouver Island waters are not as productive for freshwater fish as are the Interior lakes. The major problem appears to lie in the lack of adequate natural food in the lakes to support sports fish.

★ ★ ★

It can be said that virtually every lake on the Island now has a population of trout thanks to stocking programs. But I wonder if this is enough. In an attempt not to play bar-room biology I would suggest that the stocking program would be a great deal more successful, as would the angler's sport, if some form of feed were placed in some lakes prior to their being stocked by trout. Certainly the tremendous success evident in the Interior with the introduction of species of freshwater shrimp to the lakes and the subsequent high quality angling show what is possible.

I would also say that Island lakes are not receiving fair treatment.

In a prepared policy statement on hatcheries, Ed Vernon, chief of fisheries for the fish and wildlife branch states:

"In British Columbia, trout propagation and stocking was started about 1920 by the federal government. In 1938, these facilities and personnel which were of value to trout propagation were transferred to the provincial government.

"It was only in the last 30 years that sufficient information has been gained on the requirements of trout and salmon in natural waters to enable fish cultural practices to be put on a reasonable sound basis in terms of returns to the fishermen.

"In general, the emphasis in the fish culture program of the fish and wildlife branch is to stock large numbers of small fish in relatively small, productive, heavily-fished lakes. Most of the growth of these fish to catchable size is attained in the lakes rather than in the hatchery. Since few trout live longer than three to four years, heavy stocking must be matched with heavy fishing pressure if wastage of hatchery fish is to be avoided.

★ ★ ★

"In contrast to most fish cultural programs in North America, which are very heavily involved in planting fish of catchable size, only small numbers of catchable-sized fish are planted in British Columbia.

"It can be foreseen that some future expansion of this program will be required in the lower mainland and there is a need to initiate such planting in the vicinity of Victoria."

Discussing objectives and initial policies for a steelhead propagation program, Vernon says:

"The principal objective of the program is to increase the availability and catches of adult steelhead by resident anglers by the most effective and economically efficient means.

"Because of the large number of anglers and potential anglers in the Vancouver area and the generally low and deteriorating success ratios of steelhead anglers in this area, initial operations and the continuing main emphasis of the program will be directed towards stream fisheries of the lower mainland and Howe Sound.

"Considerably lower priority will be given to stream fisheries of Vancouver Island. Elsewhere in the province, no artificial propagation of steelhead appears warranted in the foreseeable future . . .

"Since the costs of steelhead propagation are expected to be high, every effort will be made to evaluate the cost per fish in the angler's catch. Economic efficiency can be attained only by minimizing the production costs per fish returning to the river and by maximizing the proportion of returning fish which are caught."

Bosox Rookie Looks Good

By The Associated Press

Rookie Carlton Fisk's star is on the rise but, unfortunately, it's not an All-Star.

The Boston Red Sox catcher is tearing up American League pitching with a .307 batting average and .631 slugging average but he finished with 223,349 votes, fifth in the balloting for the All-Star Game July 25 and 544,189 votes behind Detroit's — Bill Freehan, batting .263.

If Fisk hasn't completely convinced the fans he's ready for the annual classic, he's already done the job on California Angels' General Manager Harry Dalton.

"If he played all the time against us," said Dalton, "he'd be in the Hall of Fame five years before he retired."

The 24-year-old backstop blasted a three-run homer as Boston whipped California Angels 8-2 Wednesday. The circuit was his 15th of the season.

HITS EVERYTHING

"He should be the starting catcher in the All-Star Game," said Angel Manager Del Rice, apparently another Fisk convert. "He's hit everything we've thrown — pitches inside, pitches outside, pitches low, pitches high. I size him up as one helluva hitter, and I wish we had him."

The victory was Boston's fourth straight. Tommy Harper and Doug Griffin each hit two-run doubles to join Fisk in helping Lynn McGlothen, 3-2, get his complete-game triumph.

In other American League games, Cleveland Indians whipped Kansas City Royals 6-1, Chicago White Sox edged Detroit Tigers 3-2, New York Yankees thumped Minnesota Twins 13-3, Texas Rangers trimmed Baltimore Orioles 3-2 and Oakland Athletics beat Milwaukee Brewers 9-6.

In the National League, the rampaging Cincinnati Reds fattened their Western Division lead to six games by whipping Chicago Cubs 6-1; Ken Singleton cracked a tie-breaking homer in the ninth to power Montreal Expos to a 3-2 win over San Francisco Giants; Pittsburgh Pirates pulled six games ahead in the Eastern Division by blasting Atlanta Braves 8-3; St. Louis Cardinals blanked Houston Astros 6-0; Philadelphia Phillies tripped San Diego Padres in 11 innings, and the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated New York Mets 5-0.

Cleveland's Gaylord Perry won his 16th game to tie the Tigers' Mickey Lolich for high in the major leagues. Perry gave up seven singles. Frank Duffy drove in two Indians' runs with three hits while Perry, with two hits had two RBI.

Rick Reichardt slammed two homers and drove in all three Chicago runs. The victory snapped a six-game White Sox losing streak. His second blast broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh inning. The loss was only the second for Detroit in its last 12 games.

Tiger shortstop Eddie Brinkman set a major-league mark with 57 straight errorless games. His flawless streak began May 21 and has included 261 chances.

Traffic Piles Up In Softball Race

Labatts and Century Inn pulled the strings Friday on a taut, three-way scramble for the runner-up position in the Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League.

With Bell's Men's Wear already assured of first, Labatts and Century shifted the spotlight to the battle for second after posting narrow victories Friday.

Century shaded Sooke Merchants 3-1 on George Wellings' five-hitter at Sooke while Labs edged Molsons 4-3 behind Russ Carruthers' pitching and a two-run homer by Jim Anderson at Heywood Avenue.

The results left Century holding second with a slim, one-point advantage over Juan de Fuca and Labatts. Molsons are fifth, four points in arrears, but have two games in hand over the other playoff hopefuls.

One-Hit Hurling Checks Seaboard

Seaboard Construction may still start out as one of the strong favorites to win the Major Men's Softball League's annual invitational tournament, but Cliff Bate's front-runners looked "like just another team" to Ken Fox and Butler Brothers on Friday.

Fox, 19, produced one of his finest efforts in senior ranks by blanking Seaboard 2-0 at Central Park. It was only the third loss of the season for the runaway leaders.

Fox allowed only one hit — a scratch infield hit by outfielder Glen Kalduff in the eighth inning. He walked five and hit another batsman.

Singles by Frank Cooper and Murray Sluggett and Randy Benn's two-run double produced Butlers' runs in the top of the ninth inning to tag the loss on Glen Bullen.

STARTS FRIDAY

The league's four teams — Butlers, Seaboard, Churchill and Nanaimo Tally-Ho — will be hosts for the annual tournament which gets under way Friday at 6:45 p.m.

Churchill will face Bell's Men's Wear of the Stuffy McGinnis League in the opener. Action in the nine-team, double-knockout affair continues all day Saturday and winds up Sunday.

Also entered are Campbell River, New Westminster Luckies, Vancouver Mark 7s and Vancouver MPs.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A pair of two-year-olds graduated out of maiden ranks Wednesday night at Exhibition Park by racing to the first deadheat win of the season.

Ron Gets Raise For 21st Season

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Ron Stewart says he has signed with New York Rangers for his 21st National Hockey League season at a "very substantial raise." He did not reveal exact terms.

He has played most positions, but now serves the Rangers as a checking and penalty-killing specialist on right wing.

Multi-Year Pact Signed by Larose

MONTREAL (CP) — Right winger Claude Larose, 30, has signed a multi-year contract with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Defenceman J. C. Tremplay and Terry Harper are the only regulars still to come to contract terms with the club.

Cortina...
It doesn't look tough.

But it is.

You can buy Cortina for looks alone. But there's more to this import than meets the eye.

On the surface Cortina is all beauty. But underneath that beautiful body, it's tough, and full of standard features that make it a rugged, durable, little performer. Features like:

- 2000 cc Overhead Camshaft engine that combines performance and economy.
- 4-speed synchromesh transmission for swift, sure acceleration.
- rack and pinion steering, for quick, positive response in tight turns, and bumper to bumper city traffic.
- power front disc brakes for straighter, faster stops.
- a special electro-coated undercoating to fight rust.
- short and long arm suspension on the front and a 4-bar link system on the rear combine to give you a smooth ride, with positive road feel and handling.
- heavy duty electrical system engineered for Canadian driving conditions.
- electric rear window defroster.

Cortina is tough. But it's also comfortable. With upper level ventilation, a heavy duty heater and fully reclining front bucket seats, scientifically designed to give you firm, comfortable support. There's also hard wearing loop-pile carpeting fitted throughout. And front and rear grab handles, for your convenience.

In fact, Cortina comes so completely equipped that the only other things you may wish to add, at additional cost, are the effortless 3-speed automatic transmission or the dealer installed radio.

Whichever you choose, a 2-door, a 4-door or the sporty GT, you'll find it's got a beautiful body and there's a lot more to this import than meets the eye.

Canuck Team 'Gallops' To Bisley Rifle Victory

BISLEY, England (CP)—Canadians got their first big victory at the Bisley shoot when they captured the Hamilton Leigh Challenge Cup in the annual obstacle firing competition.

The four-man Canadian Forces C team edged out RAF Strike Command Wednesday in this event known as the "Hamilton Gallop" since it involves running an obstacle course before firing snapshooting tests.

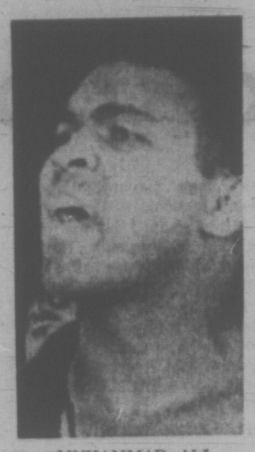
Sgt. Jerry Malott of Kingsville, Ont., member of the Royal Canadian Regiment, headed the Canadians who shot down nine targets using only 11 rounds among the four men. Strike command also cleared nine targets but took 14 shots to do it.

This is the first time an overseas team has captured the cup since 1962.

Among the 38 teams which participated this year was the Canadian Army A team which took 20 rounds to clear 10 targets.

The Canadian Forces C marksmen also took third place in the Roberts Cup snapshooting match with 61 points against the Royal Signals winners who scored 69 and the 10th Gurkha Rifles with 63.

RAF champion Sgt. Ron van Gelderen won the service rifle championship based on aggregate scores on the main seven individual events during the first three days of shooting. He chalked up a record 509 out of a possible 570. Cpl. Dave Boudreau of Dexter, Ont., took 12th place with 476. Malott was 16th.



MUHAMMAD ALI
. . . wins in 11 rounds

Watches, Ali's Foe Stopped As Timekeeper Had Troubles

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — It won't go into the record book as another famous long count like the one in the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney title fight in 1927, but the Muhammad Ali camp said today a mixup in timing saved Al "Blue" Lewis from a fifth-round knockout.

Ali, former world heavyweight champion, stopped Lewis of Detroit in the 11th round Wednesday night for his seventh straight victory in his comeback campaign, but the fight had looked over in the fifth.

A short right from Ali travelled no more than eight inches and laid Lewis in a twitching heap on the canvas in outdoor Croker Park. The bell sounded the end of the round when the count reached nine.

Later Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee, said that the count actually had lasted for 22 seconds according to his own timepiece.

Dundee made no formal protest, but indeed the timekeeper had found that two of his watches had stopped during the first round and he had to borrow another.

Lending further credence to Dundee's contention was that no exact time was given when referee Lew Eskin of New York stopped the fight in the 11th. It was estimated at 1:15 of the round.

And in a heavyweight preliminary in which John Conteh of England knocked out Johnny Mac of Chicago in the second, the first round lasted an exta 42 seconds because of an apperent confusion in timing.

It was the only knockdown of the fight before an estimated crowd of 22,000 as Ali overcame the affects of a heavy head cold that has troubled him for days for his TKO triumph in Ireland's biggest boxing show in years.

Ali was guaranteed $200,000 and Lewis $35,000.

Gorge Hits Double Trouble

Gorge Hotel suffered two Victoria Senior Baseball League defeats Wednesday night — one a 12-2 thrashing at the hands of Greaves Movers in Lambrick Park and the other as the result of a committee-room decision.

Dave Morgan, normally a catcher for Greaves, decided to try his hand at pitching Wednesday and picked up a five-hit victory after getting last-inning relief from Derek Drinkwater.

Greaves jumped to an early lead by pushing across eight runs during the first inning on four hits, five bases on balls and one Gorge error.

Meanwhile, leading Farmer Construction was awarded a victory after playing Gorge to a 1-1 deadlock after nine innings on Monday. A Farmer protest that Gorge didn't have enough players was upheld.

School Aid Bill Loses

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba legislature prorogued early today, minutes after rejecting Premier Ed Schreyer's bid to tackle the decades-old issue of aid to private and parochial schools.

By a vote of 30 to 22 the house turned down a resolution from the premier asking it to set up a special committee for between-sessions study on ways of broadening aid to the province's 48 private and parochial schools.

The 36-year-old premier, who less than two months ago retracted a threat to resign if the aid issue was not solved to his satisfaction, was in a relatively cheerful mood with reporters minutes after the crucial vote.

Asked whether he is considering giving up the office he has held for three years, Schreyer replied:

"One has to always have enough time to reflect. It would be rash to make any statement at this time."

He said he would hold a news conference, "sometime within the next 24 hours," to discuss the result of the vote.

Stiffer Fines Urged

WINNIPEG (CP) — Penalties for admitting a minor to a restricted film would range from $500 to $2,000 under an amendment adopted by a Manitoba legislature committee.

The penalty section of the original bill had called for fines ranging from $200 to $500. The bill was approved by the committee on a 12-to-10 vote and returned to the legislature.

Blessings Mixed

CALGARY (CP) — Cool weather which has prevailed over most of Alberta this month has provided mixed blessings for farmers, the Alberta Wheat Pool says in its crop report for the week ended July 15.

Lower than usual temperatures have prevented crops in some areas from growing rapidly, but have reduced the chances of severe hailstorms also, said the report.

'Inefficiency' Hit

CALGARY (CP) — The Calgary Public School Board has excessive office staff and expenses, trustee Scott Saville said Wednesday and action should be taken to cut the waste.

the prairies

Frequent observations of central-office activity since the end of June convince me that we must have the most under-worked staff and the most inefficient operation in the entire city.

Potash Curb Fought

REGINA (CP) — Court action has been launched challenging the provincial government's restrictions on potash production.

Donald E. G. Schmitt of Toronto, president and general manager of Central Canada Potash Co. Ltd., said in a telephone interview his company has applied for a court order which in effect challenges the prorationing program.

Indian Mural Being Used As Protest 'Excuse'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The chairman of the University of British Columbia's art selection committee lashed out Wednesday at Indian protests over the selection of a painting given to the university.

"The large mural painted by Dr. Charles Comfort and presented to the University of B.C. by her excellency, Mrs. Roland Michener, does not depict Indians bowing in lowly, servile attitudes before the explorer," said professor Sam Black, chairman of the president's committee on university art.

Indians claimed the picture shows the Indian as being subservient to the white.

"It is astounding to note the mileage that some, obviously intent on trying to use the slightest excuse to cause embarrassment, are straining to make out of the painting," Black said.

"However, anyone willing to take the time to study this work of art in as unbiased a way as possible, will soon discover how wrong the servile theory is."

The 18-foot-by-10-foot mural depicts Captain George Vancouver and two of his seamen standing as three Indians appear to kneel and bow to them during Vancouver's exploration of the B.C. coast in the 18th century.

"The manner in which the artist has drawn the Indians shows them as figures of power, strength and dignity. The upraised hands of the central Indian chief are not raised as if he were grovelling in front of Vancouver — they are raised in greeting as was the custom of the Indians."

TRAIL (CP) — Close to 4,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America employed by Cominco Ltd. at Trail, Kimberley and Benson Lake will vote Friday on a contract offer from the company, a union spokesman said Wednesday night.

Another Look

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pacific Centre officials were taking another look at the design for their downtown development after meeting opposition from city council. President Lorne Cook said Wednesday he and the design team met following the council system to discuss possible alternatives and that a few proposals would be ready as early as next week.

Only Injury

VANCOUVER (CP) — Firemen Bill Ruus suffered a cut hand while battling a three-alarm fire that ripped through the upper storeys of a four-storey wooden-frame apartment in Vancouver's east end Wednesday. There were no other injuries.

FURRY VISITORS continue to plague the exclusive British Properties area of West Vancouver. Mrs. Louise Krohn grabbed her camera and got this picture when the bear dropped in for breakfast. Conservation officers are attemptung to capture the bears and return them to less populated areas.

Farmers Won't Pay Taxes

SURREY (CP) — About 75 vegetable farmers whose crops were ravaged by runoff from last week's downpour say they will withhold millions of dollars in taxes and loan repayments until the provincial government comes through with a flood prevention scheme.

Mac Singh, spokesman for the 75 farmers in this area south of Vancouver, said hot weather and the runoff from nearby housing developments have devastated large portions of this year's expected produce yield. He said the loss could run as high as $1 million.

A record July rainstorm dumped between three and four inches of water in several areas in the Lower Mainland July 11.

Singh said the farmers will withhold repayment of all outstanding loans to the provincial and federal farm loan boards and will refuse to pay their municipal taxes until the drainage problem is corrected.

He said only about 10 per cent of the damage was caused by the rain. He blamed the rest on runoff from recently developed housing projects.

"What happened here is that after the rain stopped our conditions got worse," he said. "Ditches filled and water flooded onto our lands."

He said if a drainage system is not forthcoming, the farmers will request Surrey council rezone the land from agriculture use to allow them to develop it for commercial purposes or hobby farms.

A number of schemes have been proposed but neither the provincial nor the federal government have decided upon a definite plan.

"We don't care which of these engineering schemes they use, but if these pumps had been in, this whole thing could have been averted," said Sing.

Year's Delay Seen For Gas Pipeline

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ronald Rutherford, president of Pacific Northern Gas Ltd., said Wednesday delays in granting a licence for the construction of a gas pipeline to Vancouver Island would delay the start of construction to 1974 if his company is selected to build the line.

He told Public Utilities Commission that because of the delay, attributable mainly to the length of the PUC hearings, his company probably would have to construct the entire line in one year. Costs would not be affected, he said.

Pacific Northern had proposed to begin the line in 1973.

Rutherford was the first of 11 witnesses expected to be called by Pacific Northern in the application hearings.

His company proposes to build a line from a mainland supply point near Williams Lake — where gas will be delivered by Westcoast Transmission — to Bamberton.

The crossing, as in the case of two other proposals, would be from Powell River to Cape Lazo, and branches would serve Squamish, Woodfibre and Port Mellon, and Port Alberni and Campbell River.

Cost of the scheme, including the provision of municipal lines in Island communities, would be $98,061,000, compared to $104 million for Malaspina Gas pipeline and about $90 million for Centennial Natural Gas pipeline, two other applicants using approximately the same route.

BUTTON DIFFERENT!

VANCOUVER (CP) — A woman who noticed something different about one of the buttons in a dollar box of used buttons she had bought at a Salavation Army thrift store now is the owner of a $19,300 diamond.

The large cut diamond was lying hidden in the box when the unidentified woman bought if four weeks ago.

"She didn't know what she had there when she paid her dollar," said a spokesman for the pawnbroker's shop where she took the gem. "After she left the thrift store she noticed something different and took it to an appraiser."

The woman took the diamond to several pawnbrokers but all believed the gem stolen and refused to take it. Tuesday she went to a pawnbrokers in the city's skid road area and the pawnbroker called the police. The woman and the diamond were given a clean bill.

"We cannot reveal her name because the bargain hunters would descend on her home," the pawnbroker said.

City police also refused to identify her, saying the diamond had not been reported stolen or lost so "it is not a police matter."

However, Major Stan Armstrong of the Salvation Army said a lower mainland family has reported a diamond ring missing after leftovers from an estate were sent to the Salvation Army.

He said the family's description did not necessarily fit the button-box gem, and that he planned to get a better description to pass on to the police.

Meanwhile, the diamond is being kept by the pawnbroker pending a possible sale on behalf of the woman.

Documents Wanted

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Carpenters' Union Local 1998 has launched a Supreme Court action for the return of documents seized under a search warrant that was amongst nine that were declared invalid.

Named as defendant in the writ filed on behalf of the local is Sergeant W. J. Santon of the Prince George RCMP detachment.

The writ asks for the return of all documents seized from the locals' office June 20 under the search warrant. Mr. Justice W. J. MacIntyre ruled in his judgement that nine warrants used by police in raids on carpenters' union local during the construction industry tieups were deficient.

Taiwan Could Have N-Bomb in 1973

The Washington Post

Canada is building an atomic reactor on Taiwan that in one year's time will produce enough plutonium for the Taiwanese to make an atomic bomb.

The reactor being built by the Canadians for Taiwan's Institute for nuclear energy research is a 35 million dollar research reactor that will be ready for operation sometime next year.

Located in northwest Taiwan, the reactor is understood to be capable of producing about 22 pounds of plutonium per year, which is more than enough plutonium to fashion a nuclear weapon.

Although no one knows whether the Taiwanese plan to divert the plutonium produced by the reactor into a nuclear weapon, arms control experts fear such a diversion because it might be a simple thing to do.

The reason they have such fear is that the Taiwanese reactor will be fueled with natural uranium, which can be purchased on the open market without any safeguards attached to the sale.

If the reactor were to be fueled with enriched uranium, safeguards would automatically go with the purchase because enriched uranium today is sold only by the U.S. and the Soviet Union under safeguard stipulations.

Reactors of the Taiwanese type are already in operation in Israel and India, a fact that was spotlighted yesterday by the United Nations Association of the U.S. in a report on nuclear safeguards.

The UNA, claimed that the Indian research reactor had produced as much as 209 pounds and the Israeli reactor about 88 pounds of "unsafeguarded" plutonium.

If true, this means that India has enough plutonium for 16 nuclear weapons and Israel enough for six such weapons.

The organization did not charge that India or Israel planned to divert their plutonium into weapons production.

POLICE CHECK DELAYS BYLAW

Final drafting of a bylaw governing shore and offshore facilities of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club will be delayed until the Oak Bay police have carried out a check of traffic and parking during normal and peak times at the club.

Oak Bay council's zoning committee decided today that the over-all survey was needed before parking requirements at the club can be set out in the bylaw.

The committee considered a letter from the club's representative, lawyer Ian Stewart, in which Stewart suggested that the municipality was in no legal position to lay down requirements for the club's water lease in Cadboro Bay. He stated that this jurisdiction came under the federal department of transport.

He referred specifically to clauses which would set maximum berthage at 250 when the proposed breakwater is built and stated that any structures built would need a building permit from Oak Bay.

Ald. Brian Smith noted that municipal solicitor D. M. Gordon had approved the two clauses. He added that the municipality must have some control of the 1,000-feet sea zone granted it by the provincial government.

Ald. Douglas McLelland suggested that they were perhaps "putting the cart before the horse" to lay down parking requirements before they knew what extra traffic the breakwater would cause.

Disaster Averted

ARVIN, Calif. — A truck driver was credited today with averting what might have been a major disaster when he drove his burning truck loaded with bombs and explosives away from this city of 9,000.

A spokesman for the Kern county fire department said the driver, Martin Freedman, of Joplin, Mo., was eating breakfast in a coffee shop here before dawn and looked out to see the rear wheels of his truck burning. The vehicle was loaded with 78 100-pound bombs and other explosives.

Freedman told the waitress to call the fire department and tell them was was driving out of the city and to meet him on a road outside of town.

Firemen came upon the truck about one and a half miles west of the city. They extinguished the fire, apparently caused when the truck's brakes overheated. The spokesman said Freedman's actions were "commendable."

Dirty Old Men Cleaned Up

LONDON (UPI) — The charge: Selling pornographic books.

The defence: Nothing wrong because all the customers were dirty old men who were already corrupted.

The decision: Guilty as charged, because even dirty old men can be corrupted by dirty books.

A lower court and later three high court appeal judges had ruled that Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Whyte could not be convicted for selling obscene publications because they did so in a bookshop section "reserved for dirty old men."

But the majority of the law lords, Britain's top court, ruled that the law "is not merely concerned with the once and for all corruption of the wholly innocent. It equally protects the less innocent from further corruption."

N-Role Boost Forecast

WASHINGTON (WP) — U.S. military forces might have to be restructured with more emphasis on nuclear weapons if the defence budget were cut heavily as proposed by Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern, the U.S. air force's chief officer said Wednesday.

Gen. John Ryan, air force chief of staff, made that assertion under questioning by Sen. Barry Goldwater at a hearing by the senate armed services committee on the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks agreement.

Goldwater drew out Ryan by asking if defence spending is reduced "anywhere near the amounts some people have been talking about, might not there be a danger that our entire system would be forced to go nuclear?"

Ryan at first answered that "we would have to come up with the best program we could" but later in the hearing said that deep budget cuts would "force a change of strategy," going "toward only a nuclear option."

FOLIAGE FENCING WILL be planted around this 12-foot high cedar statue of a nude male Indian in Bramalea, Ont. The statue was a gift to the community from British Columbia and created an uproar by the fact that it was completely unclothed. Reeve Bob Williams said at the public unveiling of the statue Tuesday that shrubbery and other foliage will be imported from B.C. and planted around the statue. He declined to say, however, if any of the foliage would grow tall enough to cover any part of the statue's anatomy.

Caouette May Go Provincial

MONTREAL (CP) — Real Caouette, federal Social Credit leader, is considering entering Quebec politics, the interim leader of the Quebec Ralliement Creditiste party said Wednesday.

Armand Bois said Caouette has indicated he is "very, very favorable" towards the idea.

Bois said he invited Caouette to participate in Quebec politics and the decision now is up to the federal leader.

Caouette is in hospital here recovering from a gall bladder operation, and could not be reached for comment.

Prison Reform Vow

ANNAPOLIS (WP)— Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel said Wednesday he has ordered immediate development of uniform regulations for the state's troubled prisons, improved prisoner rehabilitation programs, and improved medical programs for inmates.

But, Mandel told a press conference, "the law is going to take its course" in dealing with prisoners who have rioted in recent days.

Boyfriend Identified As Tot Killer

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A weeping teenage girl identified her boyfriend Wednesday as the killer of a 4-year-old girl who was slain by shotgun fire from a passing car, apparently the innocent victim of a Chicano youth feud.

Joyce Ann Huff was hit in the face and head with dozens of shotgun pellets as she played in her front yard on a quiet Sunday evening, July 2.

Gail Dudley, 17, told a preliminary hearing the fatal shot was fired by Donald Paul Antelo, 21. Miss Dudley, a surprise witness, told the hearing she was in the car with Antelo and two other men when the shot was fired.

Pepin-Shultz Talks Set—PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau offered his views on bilingualism, trade, foreign ownership, electioneering and his family at a news conference Wednesday, then left by train for a western vacation.

The prime minister made only one major disclosure at the news conference, the first he has held since January.

He announced that Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin will meet Wednesday with George Shultz, who recently succeeded John Connally as U.S. treasury secretary, to review Canadian and U.S. positions on trade talks which broke down six months ago.

Mr. Trudeau said the meeting would be only a preliminary discussion. He noted that both he and President Nixon agreed in April to "send our full teams in" if it were felt that fruitful negotiations could resume.

"We will only know this when the two ministers meet next Wednesday."

NO ELECTION DATE

On other matters, Mr. Trudeau said:

—He has not set a date for the next election. It could come this fall or next year.

—Canadians are optimistic about their future and Liberal candidates will ride a wave of optimism when the election is called.

—His government has discharged the mandate it was given in 1968 and, when it goes to the polls again it will seek a continuation of the 1968 mandate, rather than a new one, to follow up programs and policies it has instituted.

—He does not want his wife Margaret to get mixed up in the election campaign but will not prevent her from playing a role if she wants to.

—Bilingualism is "a very emotional issue" but it is not being implemented fast enough and French-Canadians will not wait indefinitely for their goals to be realized.

—Building a stronger Canada remains the overriding goal of his government.

Mr. Trudeau also expressed regret that two major government bills—measures to control foreign ownership and to revamp family allowances—were not approved by Parliament before the summer recess.

'Never Met Sinatra' Says Mafia Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Raymond Patriarca, New England Cosa Nostra boss, told congress Wednesday he never had any business dealings with Frank Sinatra and "never met the gentleman in my life."

"The only place I've seen him is on television," Patriarca said.

Patriarca, now imprisoned, also denied to the House of Representatives select crime committee that he had a hidden $215,000 interest in the now-defunct Berkshire Downs race track near Hancock, Mass., when Sinatra made a $55,000 investment in it in 1962.

But Patriarca invoked the constitutional right against self-incrimination and refused to answer most other questions on whether he or his hirelings ever bought stock from Sinatra.

Sinatra told the committee Tuesday he bought the $55,000 Berkshire Downs stock in late August, 1962, and then sold it back in July, 1963, after he was elected a vice-president and director of the track without notice.

Representative Sam Steinger Rep. Ariz. said a federal wiretap on Patriarca's telephone overheard someone inform Patriarca Aug. 24, 1962, that Sinatra was to be elected to the track's board.

Patriarca was transported to the House hearing room from Atlanta federal prison where he is serving a 10-year sentence for murder conspiracy.

While refusing to answer most questions on Berkshire Downs, he freely answered many others.

Patriarca said he heard Sinatra was an officer of Berkshire Downs only from reading it in the newspapers. He was asked whether he had read of any other investors in the track.

"Yeah, me," he said.

"I read I had $215,000 in Berkshire Downs. I wish I had. I've never had $215,000 in my life."

But he refused to answer when asked whether he had ever told anyone he had money in the track, whether he in fact had any money in the track, whether he had ever been to the track and whether he knew officials of the track.

6 MORE PLANTS?

OTTAWA (CP) — Six new heavy water plants will be required by 1983 to meet forecast needs for nuclear production, L. R. Haywood, vice-president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., said today.

Haywood, head of the heavy water project of the government corporation, said if nuclear power plants are built at the present spiralling rate, much more heavy water will be needed than can be produced by plants now planned.

Experts fear a shortage of heavy water which will hamper growth of the industry.

Half of the power needs in Canada will be supplied by nuclear plants within 10 years, Haywood predicted.

Boom Crew Walks Out

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — About 20 boom-crew employees at the Sproat Lake log sorting division of MacMillan-Bloedel Ltd. near here, walked off the job Wednesday.

An unidentified spokesman said the walkout was staged because of the company's recent appeal to the Unemployment Insurance Commission in connection with the discontinuation of UIC benefits for laid-off members of the International Woodworkers of America.

The commission ruled that workers laid off because of a shortage of logs — caused by a walkout of fallers — could not collect unemployment benefits.

Overseas Cadets Visit

Thirty overseas sea cadets, accompanied by five officers, will arrive in Victoria Monday as part of a cross-country tour.

The cadets, who come from Britain, Sweden, West Germany, Belgium and the Netherlands, will be billeted at CFB Esquimalt while in Victoria and will be taken on tours of ships and other base facilities.

Monday evening they will visit Sealand at Oak Bay Marina and enjoy a barbecue and corn feed at Rainbow Barracks, the Victoria Branch of the Navy League of Canada's headquarters on Robert.

Arrangements have been made by the branch and members of the local Rainbow Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps will act as hosts.

The visitors will be hosted at a provincial government luncheon in the Empress Hotel Tuesday.

Their tour started July 14 at London Airport and ends there July 31.

Local Cadet Peter Hertzberg, 16, of 750 Richmond, is one of five Canadian cadets to go to Belgium under the cadet exchange program.

Leaving July 30, the grade 11 Oak Bay high school student will be in Belgium when that country's sea cadets celebrate their 50th anniversary.

Highlight of the visit will be cruising on canals aboard cadet motor vessels. The Canadians return August 18.

The first sailing regatta for Vancouver Island Navy League wrenettes will take place 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 26 under the sponsorship of the league's Victoria branch.

Sailing and whaler-pulling crews from corps at Nanaimo, Comox, Port Alberni, Port Hardy and Campbell River are expected to compete.

The Esquimalt Squadron, Canadian Forces Sailing Association will supply committee and escort vessels and organize the racing.

Members of the local Patricia Dufour Navy League Wrenette Corps will act as hosts.

Barrett Suit Moves On

Opposition leader Dave Barrett's libel and slander suit against Premier Bennett took another step Wednesday with formal claim being filed at the Supreme court registry.

Lawyer Alex Macdonald said the defence has now 10 days in which to state its case.

The suit arises out of an incident in June in New Westminster when the cabinet was touring the province. Barrett has claimed Bennett connected him with the disturbance.

ALDERMEN SOLICITED

Esquimalt Mayor Art Young said Wednesday he will solicit personal donations from members of his council for summer camp for boys from low-income families.

Last Monday council rejected request from Boy Scouts for a $1,600 grant which would provide a week at camp for 40 boys from the municipality.

Municipal councils in Oak Bay, Saanich and Victoria voted to make the grants.

Scout executive Jack Scrivener said Wednesday a total of $700 from three anonymous donors had been given since Esquimalt's refusal to participate in the grants.

"I'm delighted to hear about the anonymous donors. I think even the ones who voted against the grant will donate toward the camp on a personal basis. I feel they voted against it because they could not vote to use public money for the camp," Young said.

Three one-week sessions will be held at Camp Barnard near Sooke from Aug. 14 to Sept. 3 and each will accommodate 200 boys.

Scrivener said more than 30 applications have been received from social welfare recipients. He can be contacted from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Monday to Friday, at Scout House, 388-4265.

Legal Assistance

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver community legal assistance Society has received a $25,000 grant from the federal department of justice. The grant will be used to evaluate methods of providing legal aid to poor areas of the city.

Information Centre Opens for Youth

DUNCAN — A "two-way" information centre seeking to find needs of transient youths and give travel aid was opened here Monday.

Corbett Janes, 22, youth worker who is in charge of opening the new facilities on the Trans-Canada highway at Duncan's south entrance said Wednesday, although the information will be available for everybody, it will be mainly aimed at the transient youth.

Janes claims the centre — a booth on the side of the road — will be a two-way endeavor because "we want to find out the needs of the transient youth in this area as well as supply information."

Janes said the 10 workers in the booth, some which are volunteer and the rest paid out of the $16,000 opportunities for youth grant issued to the Cowichan Crisis Centre, will verbally tell youths where there are camping spots with privacy, where to rest out of the way, or where they may find either cheap or free lodging as well as meals.

Janes said the information bureau will be open seven days a week in the later afternoon and evening hours "because that is usually when people are looking for a place to stop."

Liberals Gather

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — B.C. Liberal leader David Anderson and local candidate Danny Clements will be guest speakers at the Cowichan-Malahat Liberal Association's Hawaiian luau to be held here Saturday evening.

The event will be held from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Simard's lot at Shawnigan Lake beach with dinner at 7 p.m.

Different Settings Draw Out Entertainer's Different Moods

Singer Bobby Hanna at work in his own element, the floor of a cabaret, is not the same Bobby Hanna who performed at McPherson Theatre recently.

There are certain resemblances, of course, but the cabaret Hanna is a looser, friendlier and obviously more-at-ease entertainer.

Hanna, the young Victoria singer who went to London seeking success six years ago and found a fair measure of it, is doing a two-week floor show stint in the Red Lion Motor Hotel cabaret, for a reported price of $900.

"It'll help buy the tickets to Australia," Hanna says of his fee, which is something less than he commands in London. Victoria, however, is something less than London, too.

Hanna's nightclub routine is a refreshing change from the over-amplified electronic noise too many local entertainment spots offer. And it is tailored for a slightly older crowd than the music of other city cabarets.

His audiences seem to appreciate it . . . they're with him right through his act, and that's no mean feat when you're playing to a room full of drinkers.

Backed up by Rick Truman and Fresh Air, the hotel's house band, Hanna offers a good cross-section of easy rock and swing, from Sinatra to The Union Gap, Engelbert Humperdinek to The Platters.

He has a subtle brand of humor . . . almost too subtle, possibly, for a crowd of drinkers late at night.

The "wholesome young man" image is still there, but it's muted. 'Hell' is the worst word he used in one recent show, and that one has almost made it into kindergarten primers.

After the Red Lion stint, he has another local club date at CFB Esquimalt.

Then it's off to Australia to get married and start a tour which will take him to the major Australian cities, as well as Thailand and Hong Kong. Following that, he says, he'll play either Las Vegas' Flamingo Hotel, or begin a Canadian tour . . . or return to Britain to finish an already-started television series.

Whatever course he takes, he's going to be busy.

Misalliance Arrives Home To Sell-Out Performances

By PIERRETTE FERTH

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP) — For the pleasure of an obviously delighted audience that filled to capacity the Court House Theatre, a much-travelled production of George Bernard Shaw's Misalliance arrived home at the 11th Shaw Festival Wednesday night.

The play is brilliant, witty, a devastating attack on the Edwardian home and school, and many of Shaw's arguments are astonishingly relevant even today.

Directed by Paxton Whitehead, with set design by Maurice Strike, Misalliance was this season's tour production with performances over a seven-week period in five cities in Central Canada and the eastern United States.

Highlight of the tour was a two-week engagement at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C., making the festival the first Canadian theatrical company to appear at the new centre.

The production also was presented in Ottawa, Rochester, N.Y., Kingston, Ont., and Montreal.

Misalliance, previously presented at the festival in 1966, is the last of this season's three productions to open.

Both Misalliance and Shaw's Getting Married, which opened last Sunday, run in repertory to the season's conclusion Sept. 3, and are guaranteed almost sellout audiences for every performance from advance sales.

The season's first production of the American comedy The Royal Family, by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber, played to 91-per-cent capacity for its run of 35 performances.

Don Braid of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record says of Misalliance: "Triumphant, dazzling, witty—line up all the superlatives and they barely describe the Shaw Festival's splendid production of Misalliance."

Herbert Whittaker of the Globe and Mail says: " . . . I admit that Misalliance can sparkle deliciously, but I don't ever want to see it played again by performers of lesser skill."

Canadian Productions Share Stage

By VICTOR STANTON

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — The Stratford Festival in its 20th season is providing a major showcase for Canadiana, with five of its 10 theatrical productions written or adapted by Canadians.

With one exception, these works are being presented at the festival's Third Stage theatre, introduced last season as a showplace for experimental and workshop productions.

Wednesday night, the Third Stage presented the world premiere of Mark, a drama by Betty Jane Wylie. Mrs. Wylie, a native of Winnipeg, is best known for her adaptation of Ibsen's An Enemy of the People which has been performed at the Manitoba Theatre Centre in Winnipeg, Toronto's St. Lawrence Centre and the National Arts Centre in Ottawa.

Mark, which focuses on a man dying of cancer and which Mrs. Wylie says is biographical but not "a documentary," is directed by William Hutt, the festival's associated director.

Mr. Hutt says that "50 per cent of my interest in directing Mark is to show that the festival's artistic personnel isn't just on the perimeter of the all-Canadian section of our operation."

"And to show that Canadian works aren't considered on the festival's perimeter."

Toronto's Nude Chef Lands Up in the Soup

TORONTO — Nelson Grant, 20, nude chef at a downtown night club, had a slight accident—he spilled hot soup on himself.

"There's been so many jokes about it we laughed at first," said Colin Kerr, owner of the Mynah Bird where Grant works.

"Even he laughed after we sprayed his burned stomach."

The burns were not extensive.

SALEM, Ore. — Wrecking yard owner Bill Harris lost a hydraulic press, part of a fence and two automobile bodies to a fire — but he knows now he can trust his watchdog.

When 30 firemen in seven trucks pulled up at the yard, they had to wait until Harris came to call off the 145-pound German Shepherd before they could get inside to fight the flames.

SAN FRANCISCO — The killer of Mary Jane Kravitt will be a hunted man as long as her father lives.

Mary Jane was bludgeoned to death in her apartment here last January. The body was discovered when tenants on the floor beneath hers noticed blood dripping through their ceiling.

Samuel Kravitt, a New Haven, Conn., television cameraman has so far visited police headquarters in six countries in Europe and Asia with pictures of a suspect in the case and has vowed to continue his quest for the rest of his life — or until the killer is caught.

LONDON — Lord George-Brown, the former British foreign secretary, said Tuesday night no Western European country would remain safe if Senator George McGovern became United States president and kept his promise to bring American forces home.

George-Brown was foreign secretary in Harold Wilson's Labor government from 1966 to 1968.

HE'S FOR McGOVERN! Ben Black Elk, a 75-year-old Sioux chieftain from the Black Hills country in South Dakota chats with vacationing Democratic candidate George McGovern, who also happens to be a senator from his state. The chief later told reporters that he's a McGovern supporter.

$3 MILLION DIVORCE

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bruce Dayton, the department store magnate, will pay $3 million to his former wife Gwendolen as part of a divorce settlement.

Under the divorce granted Monday in court, Mrs. Dayton, 52, also will get the couple's home and its furnishings plus other property.

Dayton, 53, is chairman of the board of Dayton Hudson Corp., which operates department stores in Minneapolis, Detroit and elsewhere. He was sued for divorce by his wife of 28 years.

The settlement, which calls for no alimony, stipulates that Mrs. Dayton will receive $800,000 within 15 days and eight subsequent payments of $275,000 each on the aniversary of the divorce.

U.K. Critics Hail Churchill Film

LONDON (AP) — British critics gave the V for Victory sign today to Young Winston, a hard-hitting film about Winston Churchpl's early life by American producer Carl Foreman and Britain Richard Attenborough.

They hailed it as a major epic and predicted a bright future for Simon Ward, the unknown British actor who plays the title role.

"It gets right under the skin of its leading character, presenting the ego, the brashness, the warts and all," Donald Zec writes in The Daily Mirror.

"It is history, but it doesn't balk at the clinical details, cutting right into the rich, though somewhat tainted, bloodstream of one of the formidable figures of the last century."

Said Cecil Wilson in the Daily Mail:

"There are no half measure about Carl Foreman's picture of him as a mixture of Houdini, political whiz-kid and military James Bond . . . a handsome living portrait of a giant in the making."

Patrick Gibbs, writing in The Daily Telegraph, said:

"The spirit of the story, and the personality of the central character, are captured . . . completely."

Ian Christie wrote in The Daily Express:

"It is a tribute to Carl Foreman's script and Attenborough's direction that this portrait of the early years of an important egotist turns out to be so attractive and compulsively entertaining."

A dissent, however came from Michael McNay in The Guardian. He said the movie was little more than a "two-hour, 36-minute yawn" and "the real heroes, Mr. Shaw and Miss Bancroft aside, were the Moroccan landscape, Blenheim, Harrow and the art director."

Much of the picture was filmed on the Moroccan desert. Robert Shaw plays Churchill's politician father, Lord Randolph, and Anne Bancroft portrays his American mother.

Gentele planned it."

Moore said there would be no quick decision as to Gentele's successor. "We're all in shock," he said.

The board meeting already had been scheduled. In the meantime, it was believed that Moore planned to recommend that Schuyler Chapin, Gentele's assistant, be appointed acting manager.

George Moore, the Met board chairman, said: "The company will carry on with the whole season just as Mr.

be painted on the cruiser of a state highway patrolman every time he recovers a stolen car and makes an arrest, the patrol has announced.

"Now the public can tell how many hits the officer has made by the number of bolts on his car," said patrol superintendent Robert Chiaramonte.

Peninsula Green Belt Preserves Farmland . . .

The Saanich peninsula's first green belt — to be kept as farm land in perpetuity — will be dedicated Friday by Premier Bennett.

The 37-acre plot by McDonald Park west of the Pat Bay highway is made up of two farms, one of them occupied and one vacant, a government spokesman said Wednesday.

No cost has been given as yet. The land is being purchased by the provincial government's special fund under the Green Belt Protection Act passed at the last session of the legislature.

The farm with a vacant house will be leased for farm purposes and the other will continue to operate as a farm. The two properties have been owned by Dale McColl and A. J. Vink.

The land is mainly used for grazing land at present, the government spokesman said.

He said the vacant house may be sold off or rented or leased back to an occupier, but in any case the land would remain as a green area.

Regional Policy Leading to Plan

Capital Regional District board members this week took their first look at a draft policy and objectives program for part two of their regional plan.

The outline, still in its formative stage, is to delineate the board's eventual official approach to planning administration in the four core municipalities, the Saanich peninsula and the adjacent unorganized areas.

In its present, tentative form the program stresses such ultimate goals as quality-of-life, environmental protection and biological system preservation, human economics and preservation of natural beauty.

The draft, hammered out by a semi-official committee headed by Saltspring board member Marc Holmes, was referred to the board's full meeting next week at a committee meeting Wednesday.

The projected regional plan, which when complete will encompass individual municipal plans, is still very much in the formative stage.

SERIES PROPOSALS

The report presented to directors this week is simply a series of proposals, and must be ratified by the board before it can be considered official.

The proposed goals of the report include:

- Respect for the natural suitability of the landscape for different purposes.
- Ensuring that residents have the "basic services" necessary for a civilized life at an economic cost.
- Making certain individuals have the widest possible range of choice as to where and how they live.
- Providing maximum opportunity and choice for future citizens to resolve land use questions not apparent today.
- Preservation of the varied and inter-related biological systems of the area, including plant, animal and bird life.
- Maintenance of the natural beauty of the area.
- Provision to residents of employment opportunities which are compatible with the other goals.
- Conservation of non-renewable resources.

The report proposes that the regional plan when formulated deal with such topics as regional and provincial parks; green belts; rural, agricultural and forest lands; urban areas with attention to population densities; industrial locations; commercial areas; regional transportation including links with the mainland by sea and air.

Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen, defending the final item, transport, said it should be considered in any regional plan because, if transport from the mainland had been taken into consideration by this area before the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay ferry link was created, a "corridor" would have been provided from the Vancouver Island terminus to Victoria city.

Pollen is chairman of the regional planning subcommittee.

In other business, the local works and services committee of the Capital Regional District, chaired by R. M. Emery, reaffirmed its intention to rid the area of rusting, unsightly car bodies through continuation of a provincially-subsidized program of recycling called Salvage, Assemble, Manufacture (SAM).

Participation in the recycling project is already board policy but the reaffirmation came as a result of letters from the Saltspring Chamber of Commerce and the Saltspring Island Planning to the district, both suggesting no budget provisions have been made for the operation in 1972 on Saltspring.

Regional board Executive Director Dennis Young had already replied to both organizations, pointing out that the entire question of auto salvage is "an immense one" but assuring them "it will be given a high priority in 1973" Saltspring.

The region's engineer told directors Wednesday advertising for a private contractor to carry out the SAM project will be started next week.

NIGHT BOAT WANTED

Long waits for B.C. Ferries could be eased by the introduction of a late night ferry between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen, Victoria Chamber of Commerce manager Brian Small said today.

"There would be more room on day ferries if we could do our commerce at night," he said.

"Can you imagine what it costs a businessman to send out a truck and have it wait two hours," he added.

B.C. Ferries travellers were waiting up to three hours during peak periods Wednesday, and at 9:30 a.m. today B.C. Ferries traffic manager, Robert Innes, said there was already a "one trip delay."

Innes described the delays as "a fairly normal pattern for this time of year."

He said waits of more than two hours were "abnormal" but "when we peak in any one day" ferry travellers "can expect up to two hours" in delays.

The longest waits have been at the Mainland terminal. On Tuesday travellers were forced to wait as long as five hours there.

There were long waits at Horseshoe Bay on the mainland side of the system's Vancouver-Nanaimo run as well. On Tuesday motorists waited up to three hours for ferries, and Wednesday the boats were running one trip behind.

During Tuesday's long waits, overtime staff from the B.C. Ferries drove up and down the four miles of road leading to the Tsawwassen terminal, broadcasting the anticipated delays with loudhailers.

A number of drivers turned around and drove back to Vancouver.

Ferry officials said the backup had been cleared by 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Traffic has been moving without delay from Vancouver Island to the mainland and there have been no reports of delays at either Nanaimo or Swartz Bay.

Innes said he could not comment on the need for a night ferry between Vancouver and Victoria.

Victoria Osteopath Seeks Full Medicare Privileges

A Victoria osteopathic physician is taking the provincial government to court over the right of his profession to unlimited participation in the B.C. Medical Services Plan.

Dr. Robert Stark asks in a writ filed Wednesday against the Attorney-General's department for a declaration that a regulation under the Medical Services Act is beyond the power of the provincial cabinet.

A statement of claim filed with the writ alleges that a cabinet order-in-council passed July 16, 1970 added a paragraph to the regulations which removed osteopaths from their right of unlimited participation in the plan.

The writ also asks for a declaration that, in passing the regulation, the Lt.-Governor in council was in breach of a statutory duty to the plaintiff and that the regulation is null and void because it was enacted contrary to the rules of natural justice.

There are only six osteopaths in B.C., including Drs. Stark and V. B. Taylor in Victoria.

They complete training similar to medical doctors and are members of the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons. The cabinet order being challenged had the effect of removing them from the ranks of physicians under terms of the medical plan and classifying them as paramedical personnel.

BANKS TO HEAD BMA TOO

Dr. Peter Banks, who last month was named president-elect of the Canadian Medical Association, has now received the same position with the British Medical Association.

A consultant in internal medicine in Victoria, Banks will be elevated to the presidency of both bodies when the CMA and BMA meet in Vancouver next June.

It will be the first such joint meeting in several years for the two national doctors' organizations.

Banks was elected president-elect of the CMA at its annual meeting in Montreal last month. The post in the BMA came at its meeting in Southampton, England, this month.

Former chief of the medical staff at Queen Victoria Hospital, Banks was president of the B.C. Medical Association in 1964-65, heading the team which worked with the province in setting up the B.C. Medical Plan.

He has been active since with various CMA committees and for three years was deputy speaker of the CMA general council.

. . . But Victoria Won't Get One

By BRIAN BUTTERS
Times Staff

The city of Victoria has learned that it will not receive any money from the provincial green belt acquisition fund.

Mayor Peter Pollen told city council's parks committee that a letter from Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston had been received, informing the city that no funds would be forthcoming.

Pollen said the city had requested a total of about $1.5 million to purchase potential parkland at several different locations.

Pollen said Williston had indicated that the provincial fund was intended to assist acquisition of what is now farmland.

The city's intentions for the land did not fall within the jurisdiction of the fund, Williston said in his letter.

The mayor said he feels the provincial government should have a separate fund to allow cities to purchase parkland within their urban areas on an emergency basis.

Ald. Clyde Savage commented that the news is "a great disappointment."

GOV'T KNOWS

"We had thought that part of this fund would be for the use of the people of Victoria but this is not the case," Savage said.

The alderman said he does not believe there was a misrepresentation on the part of the government but said "I don't think they knew exactly what they were going to do with the fund until now."

Some of the sites of potential parkland the city is considering acquiring include property at the foot of Yates, the Victoria Machinery Depot, part of the Rainbow sea cadet property and some land in the Smith's Hill area.

Pollen said the only way around the problem of funding parkland acquisition is by "more vigorous zoning and astute purchasing of certain properties."

Haig-Brown Steps Down

Roderick Haig-Brown said today he will not stand again when his three-year term as chancellor of the University of Victoria expires at the end of the year.

At the same time, it was learned that provincial archivist Willard Ireland has been nominated and agreed to let his name stand for chancellor.

In a phone interview, Haig-Brown said from Campbell River that in general he felt three years in the largely honorary post was enough.

But he said his main and most compelling reason for not standing again was the demands it made in travel time when he is involved in a number of other fields.

He is a judge in Campbell River and an internationally known author and environmentalist.

"I think it's time to let someone else have the honor," he said.

UVic registrar Ron Ferry said today calls for nominations to fill the chancellorship and the six senate seats becoming vacant at the year-end went out Monday.

Ireland's name has been put forward for chancellor by the required seven members of convocation and he has agreed to stand, said Ferry.

Ireland, former chairman of the university's board of governors, has been active in the affairs of the university, and Victoria College before it, for more than 20 years.

Aldermen Recommend Landlord, Tenant Body

City council's legislative committee would like to see a landlord and tenant advisory bureau established in Greater Victoria but it does not wish to assume the responsibility for administering such a bureau.

The committee was discussing a report by Ald. Alf Hood, who recommended that the city establish a landlord and tenant advisory bureau on its own since other municipalities in the area have shown reluctance to participate in such a project.

The committee decided that it would approach the Community Council of Greater Victoria and ask the council to take over the bureau, which would be financially supported by the city.

Hood said there is a need in the community for such a service. The city has been handling enquiries from landlords and tenants on an ad hoc basis for most of this year.

Hood said it is time for the city to decide whether to establish a bureau on a full-time basis or abandon the idea.

Hood's original suggestion to the committee was that the advisory bureau be set up for a year at a cost not exceeding $12,000. But several aldermen, including Tom Christie and Harold Olafson, objected strenuously to the idea of the city participating in such a service.

Mayor Peter Pollen said there should be some vehicle for landlords and tenants to seek advice on the Landlord and Tenant Act, since an estimated 50 per cent of the city's population resides in apartments.

Europe Offers Examples: Pollen

By PAT DUFOUR
Times Staff

Mayor Peter Pollen says "dispassionate dialogue" is essential if the city of Victoria is going to lick some of its problems.

He faults the provincial government "to a large degree" for stalling action in meeting some of those problems.

Listing sewage and public transportation as two top priorities, Pollen observed how European cities tackle them on his recent one-month tour.

He's not advocating that primary treatment plants be embraced, per se. He says he's content to make that decision, one way or another, after the monitoring and subsequent findings of the Macaulay outfall are available.

But he feels the provincial government should be exploring and using all available expertise on the subject.

"If we're going to solve these problems, it must be done in a very objective and intelligent manner," he says.

ALTERNATIVE SOURCE

Stating that, to date, the city had not received any reply from the provincial government on its bid to take over public transportation, he adds:

"Instead of no, no, no — we should hear more how, how, how."

In his tour, Pollen visited a massive atomic power plant in the verdant Le Loire Valley in France, known all over the world for its magnificent chateaus, built by past French kings for their mistresses.

Sweden, which already has two atomic plants, is planning to build more.

Pollen says before damming the Fraser, the provincial government should fully investigate this alternative source of power.

Citing London as an example of how people in a heavy-density city can retain their need for good environment, Pollen says he was fascinated when he took a helicopter flight over the English capital and had a birds-eye view of its many large and small parks, dotted around the city.

CARS KILL

He stresses that Victoria, like any other city, needs "tranquility lanes" where pedestrians can shop, walk and enjoy open-air restaurants, undisturbed by the "stench" and noise of traffic.

"Just imagine if Government Street were a mall, and you could sit at a table, watching the people go by, having a glass of beer with a friend.

"People have said I'm against one-way streets. This is not true but there has to be a balanced coping with traffic. The chairman of Royal Dutch Shell has said that cars are going to kill us. Coming from a man like that, this is a sobering statement."

Pollen says he would like to see public transportation in Victoria, along with more shopping malls and more parkades.

He reports that London's busy Oxford Street is scheduled to be turned into a mall on a trial basis.

He would like to see Victoria residents emulate the actions of their English counterparts in the city of Bath.

"They have a Save Bath campaign, most relevant to the Victoria scene."

EUROPE'S EXAMPLE

He describes how Bath citizens are donating money in a voluntary effort to save some of their green areas and beauty spots.

Two other areas in which Pollen feels Canada could profit from Europe's example is the protection of its waterfront and recreational areas from foreign ownership and the establishment of secondary industries.

He says that no foreigner can own land in Scandinavia and that although Europe has unemployed, they are, in fact the "unemployable." Secondary industries, he says, are creating a demand for employees that is hard to fill.

Guarantee Offer With IUD Program

family

WENDY DEY - EDITOR

SEATTLE (UPI) — Population Dynamics, a small, nonprofit corporation, offers what is believed to be the only 100 per cent guaranteed birth control program in the United States.

As part of an experimental program attempting to find a better intrauterine device (IUD) for birth control for women who never have had children, Population Dynamics offers participants guaranteed birth control.

Population Dynamics promises women who are fitted with one of two experimental IUDs, often called loops, a free abortion if a pregnancy occurs. The one-time cost is $20.

To date, there have been no failures among the more than 40 women participating in the program, said Dr. George Denniston, youthful head of the corporation.

The study is part of a larger program being conducted by Dr. Christopher Tize of the Population Council in New York.

"A number of centres around the country are doing similar studies on the new devices," Denniston said. "But to my knowledge, we are the only ones offering 100 per cent effective birth control as an integral part of the program."

The over-all goal of the program is a two-year study of 200 women using the experimental birth control devices.

The two devices being used in the Seattle study are slender pieces of flexible white plastic resembling a length of wire permanently bent into shapes resembling a "7" and a "T." About half of each IUD is wrapped a piece of copper wire resembling a tightly wound spring.

The traditional IUD is made of the same plastic but its shape more closely resembles a "W." It is more effective with women who have had at least one child. Childless women have a tendency to expell the older model loop.

The whole purpose of Population Dynamics is birth control of one type or another, including contraceptive counselling and fitting, abortions and vasectomies.

Denniston is a strong advocate of IUDs over the pill for female birth control, contending both have a similar failure rate over the short term with a decided advantage for the loop after a few years.

Denniston said there is about a 2-3 per cent failure rate for both the IUDs and birth control pills.

Different sports appeal to camp participants

Camp organized by university physical education department

SPORTS AT UVIC CAMP

A group of nine-to 13-year-olds is going to the University of Victoria this summer.

No, they're not child prodigies leaping from grade school to university — just a bunch of children going to summer camp.

The University of Victoria Summer Camp began its second annual session last week, with more than 100 children enrolled. All will spend two weeks on campus and a third week camping at Shawnigan Lake.

Emphasis has been placed on sports, because the program has been organized by the university's physical education department, under Dr. Bruce Howe. Teachers are physical education students or elementary school teachers.

On campus each afternoon the children tackle tennis, golf, archery, and gymnastics. They swim at the nearby Queenswood House of Studies, and also go birdwatching and study photography. Track and field, which was offered last summer, is not included this year.

Most of the sports are ones that the children don't do during the regular school year, and that's half their appeal, said Colin Cafferky, one of the teachers.

The children also study camping skills — making fires, setting up tents — in preparation for their week at camp. Half the group left for camp Monday, and the other half will go next week.

An hour-long videotape is being made of the three-week summer camp by Chris Doman, of the university's media department. He hopes the film will show other people organizing a summer camp what to do — and what not to do.

During their two weeks on campus, the children will take several day trips to local beaches.

Vietnam: A Survivor Speaks

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI) — The 14-year-old girl in the blood-spattered pajamas said, "What can I do? They have the goddamned guns."

Do Thi Uy told of being abducted by the Viet Cong, forced to carry Communist rockets, and of being one of five surviving prisoners when American and South Vietnamese aircraft caught the group of porters in the open, killing 29 persons, 19 of them women.

After her father died four years ago, the little girl went to work doing odd jobs. She finally set up a soft drink stand outside a South Vietnamese army training centre at Hoa Cam, near Da Nang. Her mother and younger sisters remained in the family's native hamlet in the Dien Ban district, 12 miles south of Da Nang.

Last week Do Thi Uy decided to visit her mother. She arrived early in the afternoon and as the family was finishing supper that night three armed Communists entered the house. They ordered Uy and her mother to leave with them to attend a political meeting.

Uy's mother protested and one of the men knocked her to the ground with a rifle butt. Uy feared they would kill her mother and agreed to accompany the men.

They walked to a nearby area where nearly 40 other women waited. They were told they would have to carry rockets from the area the Americans call "Charlie Ridge" to a site where the Soviet-built 122mm rockets would be launched against Da Nang.

As the women carried the rockets — two women per six-foot projectile — across an open field, a U.S. army UH1 Huey Nighthawk helicopter gunship flew over. Uy and two women hid in a small clump of brush.

As the helicopter was flying away, one of the Viet Cong opened fire on it with his AK47 rifle.

The helicopter returned and opened fire with its 6,000 rounds a minute 7.62mm minigun. The crew of the helicopter called for assistance and a U.S. Air Force AC119 Stinger gunship was dispatched.

Fire from the Nighthawk detonated one of the 122 mm rockets. Fire from the two 20mm cannon and two miniguns aboard the four engine jet and propellor driven Stinger detonated 10 more rockets. Fragments of the bursting rockets added to the hail of fire from the aircraft.

When the air strikes ended, an armored cavalry troop of the 56th ARVN regiment arrived and captured five survivors, among them Uy. Ten rockets were found intact.

Documents on the bodies of the 29 dead indicated that at least some of the 19 dead women were willing accomplices of the Viet Cong. Some of the others may have been forced into service as Uy was.

Surgery Neglected

CALGARY (CP) — Pediatric surgery is a neglected area of medicine, the annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Pediatrics was told this week.

Dr. Colin Ferguson, president-elect of the association of pediatric surgeons, said there are only 24 such surgeons in Canada and they are mostly in areas with a population of at least one million.

Most medical schools do not give more than minimum instruction in the field and only seven of the 16 schools in Canada have the necessary facilities.

Dr. Ferguson said pediatric surgery is far different from that conducted on adults because it is mostly reconstructive and has to last a life-time.

Dr. David Morely of the Institute of Child Health at the University of London said pediatric care in developing countries if afflicted by the "old myth that only a doctor can diagnose and cope with disease."

Lieutenant-Governor's annual garden party drew hundreds

Some guests were 10-year veterans

An Occasion To See And Be Seen

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

What the opening of Ascot is to English society, the Lieutenant-Governor's annual garden party is to Victoria.

Hundreds of people turned out for one of the city's biggest social events, held Wednesday afternoon on the grounds of Government House.

The garden party, like the Ascot races, is an occasion to see and be seen. The grounds and gardens of Government House were aswarm with women in their prettiest summer dresses and wide-brimmed hats, men in suits, military uniforms, and even a few kilts.

Among the guests of Lt.-Gov. and Mrs. John Nicholson were former Lt.-Gov. George Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes. Other guests included Mrs. W.A.C. Bennett, provincial Liberal leader David Anderson, provincial New Democratic Party leader Derril Warren, and Minister Without Portfolio Grace McCarthy.

The annual garden party is not an exclusive event, however.

More than 5,000 invitations were sent to everyone who signed the Government House guest book in the last year, and a good many of them turned up. Many of the older guests have come for years, and some came from Vancouver and other cities.

A group of Japanese students, in Victoria for a three-week course in English, were at the garden party dressed in their native kimonos. The kimonos attracted the interest of many of the guests, so the students had a chance to practise their English.

The Japanese presented the Lt.-Gov. with a wood-block-printed cotton scarf, called a furoshiki, and gave a fan to Cmdr. Gar Dixon, Government House secretary.

For those not interested in people-watching, there was always the ice cream and cake, the tea, and the punch.

There was also music provided by two bands, the 28-man CFB Naden Band and the Canadian Scottish Cadet Band, a pipe band.

Forecast for Friday, July 21, 1972
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may be living now in a world of illusion. Means someone is not telling the exact truth. Key is to discipline creative forces. Write. Get thoughts, concepts on paper. Be confident that your views are meaningful.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Money decisions might best be postponed. One who is a supposed ally is not thinking too clearly. Know this and act accordingly. Check details. Legal procedures require review.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be ready for change of scenery. Partnership arrangement, including marriage, may require special attention. Not wise to take situations, persons for granted. Get to heart of matters.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Improve image. Make amends to one you recently neglected. Build re;er you recently neglected. Build reser lutions. Make conciliatory gesture to fargily member. Gift purchase now would work wonders.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): See truth where romance is concerned. Don't be misled by one who flashes glamour. Seek quality. Avoid wishful thinking. If you insist on deceiving yourself, you will suffer consequences. Act accordingly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What appeared solid ma? be partly illusion. Build for security. Correct safety hazards at home. Give attention to older individual. Show that you care — but also live your own life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You finish short-range project. Don't try to stretch minor point to major proportions. Message should become increasingly clear. One who usually is prompt may be upset and tardy. Have alternative plan ready.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be sure promises are made in writing. Protect assets. Tighten budget. Get money's worth — count change. Assert yourself. Refuse to sell yourself short. You have something of value to offer. Act like you know it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may find yourself involved in situation which defies description. Maintain sense of balance — and humor. Don't jump to conclusions. Unorthodox procedure is necessary. Follow through on hunch.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Clandestine conference could be on agenda. Be discreet. Play cards close to chest. Revealing all you know would be error. Broaden horizons. Recognize potential. You do hold trump card.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friend may not be telling entire story. Dig deep for information. Check details. Put together puzzle pieces. Don't mix money and friendship.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Natural abilities are highlighted. One in authority may be indecisive. Get dialogue going. Put across pertinent points. Deal gingerly with one who proposes get-rich-quick scheme. Heed your own counsel.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: June was an especially significant month; in August, you begin new project. You have sense of humor, you are versatile and you are drawn to persons born under Sagittarius. You have unique ability to popularize subjects generally considered arcane.

Husband's Cozy Dinners Should Include Escort

DEAR ABBY: I have been married one year, but like everyone else who writes to you, I have a problem:

This is my first marriage, but Edwin's second. He was a swinging bachelor for five years before he married me.

Edwin keeps inviting his former girl friends over to our home for dinner. They are all friendly and attractive, but I feel so awkward entertaining my husband and a young woman he has known. None of these ladies ever brings an escort although I've asked Edwin to please suggest it when he invites them.

They all come alone and stay late. I have even gone to bed and left my husband chatting with the lady guest. (Wouldn't you say 2 a.m. is late enough for the hostess to entertain a dinner guest?)

How do I put an end to these cozy threesome dinner parties? Or am I wrong to feel the way I do? — ONE OUT OF THREE.

DEAR ONE: You're not wrong. Tell Edwin that when he invited a former girl friend to dinner, just to make sure everything is "kosher," if she doesn't know a man she can bring, you dig up a fourth.

DEAR ABBY: I am 83 years old, and here is my problem: What if I should win that million dollars on the big contest which pays you $50,000 a year for life, over a period of 20 years? I sure don't expect to live another 20 years, so if I win the money and die in the meantime, what happens to the money?

Could I will the rest of it to someone? Or could I just take the full amount right now?

I may never win, but it could happen. — CURIOUS IN MASS.

DEAR CURIOUS: Does the contest advertise "A million dollars, at the rate of $50,000 a year for 20 years"? Or does it state, "Fifty thousand a year for LIFE"? If it's the former, should the winner die, the balance of the unpaid prize money would become part of the winner's estate.

If it's the latter, only $50,000 a year would be paid to the winner as long as he (or she) lived. For the most authoritative answer, inquire of the sponsors of that contest.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for that wife of 50 years who was married to Herman, and felt that after 50 years of "for better or worse" she was entitled to a few years of "better" before she died.

She probably raised a family and helped Herman in his business, while Herman (on his off hours) charmed the ladies and pursued his hobbies. Then Herman grew old and the ladies were no longer charmed.

Herman's wife probably got tired of hearing Herman tell people what a great father and husband he was. And how hard he had worked all his life to become a big success from such a humble beginning.

Hooray for Herman's wife who had the courage to call it quits after 50 years. I hope she's living it up in Palm Springs, and still has the health to play a few games of canasta.

I wish I had her courage. — "A FORTY-NINER"

This attractive publication, already in its fifth printing, is not meant to be an identification manual. It simply tries to capture the matchless beauty of some wild flowers, especially those found in Manitoba.

"Wildflowers of Manitoba" contains large color photos, complemented by a short description where to find specific kinds and when they bloom. You will see that most wildflowers sport their blooms this month or next.

In some cases fascinating folklore has been interwoven with the text. For instance, according to legend, crocuses are the ears of the earth. They signal the arrival of spring and the reawakening of nature. So fond are Manitobans of the crocus, that they have adopted it as their provincial flower emblem.

Or did you know that the wild bergamot, which can also be found in eastern Canada, is a mint the Indians used to cure a variety of muscular ailments?

GLORIA, BELLA CHAUVINISTS?

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Friedan, one of the founders of the women's liberation movement, criticized sister feminists Gloria Steinem and Representative Bella Abzug (Dem. N.Y.) this week as "female chauvinists" waging "class warfare against men."

"Female chauvinism and those who preach or practise it seem to be corrupting our movement for equality and inviting a backlash that endangers the very real gains we have won these past few years," she said.

Mrs. Friedan, author of the Feminine Mystique and founder of the National Organization for Women, said it is time for the women's liberation movement "to be succeeded in our consciousness by a two-sex movement for human liberation."

She criticized Miss Steinem, editor of Ms. magazine, for promoting what she called "a female chauvinism that makes a woman apologize for loving her husband or children."

She said she also disagreed with Miss Steinem's view that a conspiracy to preserve "the economic and social profit of men as a group" prevented women from achieving equality.

Of Mrs. Abzug, who unsuccessfully opposed Representative William Fitts Ryan in the June primary in New York, Mrs. Friedan said:

"Only a female chauvinist would say that no matter how good a man's record — on peace, on women — women must support a female opponent just because she is a woman."

Adrianne with foster parents

Foster Child Returned

WANTAGH, N.Y. (AP) — Nine-year-old Adrianne Schoenowitz shed frightened tears as she was reunited with her natural mother and separated from the foster parents who had cared for her since infancy.

"I don't want to go! I don't want to go!" the girl in pigtails wailed this week as she got into her mother's car after a wrenching goodbye to her foster parents, William and Beatrice Cahn.

It was the end of a year-long court struggle between the Cahns, who had brought up Adrianne, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schoenowitz of Brooklyn, both reformed drug addicts, over custody of the child.

As the car pulled away, Mrs. Cahn wept uncontrollably: "Oh, my baby! I can't stand it! What am I going to do with her room? It's like a nightmare — is it happening to me?"

The exchange was sealed Monday when the chief judge of the state court of appeals refused to stay lower court decisions ordering Adrianne returned to her natural parents.

The Joys and Sorrows Of Living by Yourself

I am fully aware of the freedom one experiences while living alone.

A person living by himself can not only traipse about for days wearing nothing but red woollen ski socks, but should he care to consume an entire blueberry pie or derive his kicks from stroking his knee-caps with a pigeon feather while humming the national anthem of Denmark, he may do so without fear that someone will suddenly poke his head in the door and offer the observation that he probably will gain 10 pounds or go blind.

Anyone who is master of his own ship, however, is morally required to go down with it.

For example: You are sitting in a tub full of Mr. Bubble at 11 p.m. on a Saturday night when the telephone rings. Unable to shout "Get that, will you?" you leap from the tub, slip on your rubber duck, deliver a nasty gash to your left shin on the soap dish, and rush to the phone — leaving a wake of Bloody Mr. Bubble. Whereupon you discover that you are speaking to a stranger named Charlie who calls you a Golden Dragon and wants you to deliver two orders of fried won ton.

Another example: The dry cleaner appears at the door demanding 99 cents before he will give you your pants. Not only does your change purse yield only four cents, a house key, and a coupon entitling you to seven cents off on the purchase of a box of particularly loathsome dry cereal, but you have no piggybanks from which to filch, and the only pants pockets to rob are your own, presently being held by the man from Flower-fresh Cleaners.

Finally you convince him to accept a sweepstakes ticket in lieu of the 99 cents, throwing in the cereal coupon as a good will gesture. A week later the daily paper headlines read "Local Dry Cleaner Wins $125,000." As a good will gesture he returns your cereal coupon.

Personally I would hate living alone. I would miss our sparkling conversations, our shared confidences, our warm mutual trust. Worst of all, I would have to spend my whole life half in and half out of a blue silk dress with an eighteen hour girdle wedged in the back zipper.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.
PSALM 23.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BENNETT: In loving memory of my dear husband, David, who passed away July 20th, 1970.
I seem to see in the soft, dim light
A face I loved the best.
And think of him when the sun's last ray
Goes down in the far-off west.
I miss you no less as the time passes on
Than I did on the day of your going.
For absence can never close the door of my heart
And the lamp of my love is still glowing.
Your heart was the truest in all the wide world;
Your love the best to recall;
For no one on earth could take your place,
You are the dearest of all.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by his wife, Mimie.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Why People Walk in Their Sleep

A while ago I found an article on a subject that fascinates many people — sleepwalking. One estimate is that there are some four million North Americans who have consulted physicians because of distress over sleepwalking, but there are doubtless millions of other persons who walk in their sleep.

Many have walked in their sleep as children, and forgotten about it when they reached adulthood. Most of them have no memory of their sleepwalking.

As Isabella Taves says in her article in Today's Health, it is not entirely true that people who walk in their sleep won't hurt themselves. She tells of a 14-year-old boy who had the misfortune to walk in his sleep out of a camper truck while it was travelling along at 50 miles an hour; miraculously, he escaped with only cuts and bruises.

Curiously, there are reports of sleepwalkers driving cars, buying tickets, boarding planes, crossing from the rooftop of one tall building to another, and other very complicated activities.

It is remarkable how far some sleepwalkers will go. For instance, Dr. John Sours of New York City told of a young man who, when on a hunting trip, got out of bed in his sleep, put on his hunting clothes, gathered up his shotgun and shells, and still fast asleep, walked several miles to a duck blind, where he sat for nearly an hour until his father found him and woke him up.

A few women have been known to go sleepwalking in the nude, even outside their home. One man found his sleepwalking wife without a stitch on, up in a tree in their yard. But experts say that there is no evidence that a sleepwalker will do anything contrary to his nature.

What should you do if there is a sleepwalker in the family? It is best not to awaken him abruptly by shaking him. Just repeat his name calmly over and over again, and when he wakes up, assure him that he is safe and tell him where he is. Or if he is not doing something potentially harmful or dangerous, you can leave him alone and he will in time return to his bed. Certainly, no child should ever be punished for sleepwalking.

AL BAILEY SAYS:
When cooking meats with water
Simmer slowly
Do Not Boil
Why?
Because — As in the case of Roasting, Broiling or Frying at high temperatures, Boiling tends to reduce the moisture content of the meat — Thereby causing excessive shrinkage — dryness — toughness and loss of flavour. On the other hand by maintaining a slow simmer at low temperatures — 185 deg. — you will achieve very desirably tender, juicy and flavourful results.

Congratulations to Thelma E. M. White, 973 Caledonia Ave., last weeks winner of our free 25 lb. freezer pack.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc. for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public every day.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient ad-visor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call.

GALLUP POLL

It's Thumbs Down On Bilingualism

Outside Quebec province, the government's program to develop bilingualism runs into solid criticism. In the Maritimes and Ontario, a small majority (53%) think it is a good thing for the future of this country — but about a third object to it. The West splits on the issue with a minority (46%) endorsing it, but 44% believing it bad for the nation's future. In Quebec itself, however, more than eight in ten (83%) support the program with only about one in ten disapproving of it. These regional opinions avtrage out to a national ratio of about two regional opinions average out to a national ratio of about two dislike it (31%).

Those who are in favor of the developing bilingualism program say first, that it develops national unity, as it increases an understanding between the races. Close to this reasoning is the opinion that we have two founding languages and must use them. Another segment concentrates on the belief that it is necessary for other Canadians to recognize the fact that French-Canadians are a part of Canada, and accept the fact.

On the other hand, almost half of those who do not think it is a good thing for Canada base their opinion on the idea that this is an English-speaking country, and that stressing bilingualism will only cause more conflict. Many others think it should not be applied throughout the country, but developed in Quebec only and say the program is a waste of money, or hold that other ethnic segments are being discriminated against.

The question, put to a carefully selected sample of adults in homes across the nation:

"As you may know, a number of steps have been taken in Canada to strengthen bilingualism, that is the use of both English and French in certain civil service areas, on signposts, on package information, and in other ways. In general, do you think this is a good thing for the future of this country, or not a good thing?"

Here is national, and regional response.

	Good Thing	Not A Good Thing	Can't Say
NATIONAL	59%	31%	10%
Maritimes	53	38	9
Quebec	83	11	6
Ontario	53	34	13
The West	46	44	10

Those who thought it either good, or not good, were asked to explain why they felt as they did.

Why Bilingualism is a good thing (59%):

Develops unity, better understanding	35%
We have two founding languages; two official languages; increases freedom of speech	25
We should realize French-Canadians are part of Canada	13
Must learn to compromise and have time for more important things; better for country	4
English get more jobs; better jobs; French-Canadians need more respect; equality	3
Other	3
Can't say	17
	100%

Why bilingualism is not a good thing (31%):

We are an English-speaking country; French should not be compulsory; will only widen gap between races	48%
Not needed throughout the country; applied too broadly; let French-Canadians speak English outside Quebec	19
A waste of money; not accomplishing anything; makes packaging more expensive for consumers	14
There are other nationalities besides French-Canadians; they are being discriminated against	10
Other	3
Can't say	5

London Money Pact Likely Just Another Flash in the Pan

By KEVIN DOYLE

LONDON (CP) — A display of accord on international monetary reform by finance ministers from the 10 countries expected to form the enlarged Common Market is likely to prove little more than another flash in the pan in the long search for European agreement.

The countries involved, the six present members of the European Common Market and four applicant states, announced agreement on a series of broad principles for reform during a two-day meeting which ended here Tuesday.

But they skirted the controversial and pressing questions of the future role of gold, the value of the dollar and the use to be made of special drawing rights, a type of international reserve asset.

Unless a far more substantial accord can be reached by the ministers at a meeting set for Sept. 11-12, the Europeans will be without a common bargaining position when they meet representatives from Canada, the U.S. and other members of the International Monetary Fund later in September.

The IMF meeting in Washington will be devoted largely to the reconstruction of the international system of finance and trade, disrupted since the U.S. suspended the gold convertibility of the dollar last August.

WANT COMMON STANCE

The Europeans are extremely anxious to reach a common bargaining stance, not only to counter American influence within the IMF but also to make up for recent events which have cast some doubt on whether an enlarged Common Market will ever be able to agree on a single economic system.

One step toward a common economic arrangement within the ECM was the decision of the 10 countries last April to support each other's currencies within a narrower margin than that permitted internationally.

This policy was shattered in June, however, when Britain allowed sterling to float on international exchanges in response to intense selling pressure in major markets.

The ministers' reluctance to discuss the dollar and other areas requiring attention was seen by observers here as a clear indication that wide differences still exist among the 10 countries on the basic issue of what form a new international financial system should take.

The general principles agreed to are not likely to be considered objectionable by any government. The critical issue is how these are tobe implemented.

WAS BRITISH STAND

Basically, the points agreed to are a re-affirmation of the position taken by the British during negotiations in 1943 and 1944 leading to creation of the present system.

These include provision for fixed exchange rates, international control of liquidity—the reserves available to help countries finance deficits, provision for securing necessary adjustments in the balance of payments of participating countries and for maintaining convertible currencies.

Biker Partially To Blame—Jury

A motorcycle driver was found partially at fault and two car drivers cleared of blame by a coroner's inquest Tuesday night investigating the death of a passenger on the motorcycle.

Morris Driemel, 17, of 624 Fernhill, was thrown to his death June 27 in a collision at West Saanich and Beaver Lake. Driver of the motorcycle was Richard John Fisher, 16, of 883 Admirals.

Fisher testified he had turned around and was talking to Driemel when he struck the rear of a stopped car, throwing the victim under another moving car.

Indoor Plants Benefit From Summer Outing

The benefits from summering certain house plants outdoors are easily seen if we look for them.

One is to ourselves, since we need seldom give thought to whether the air is humid enough for them. Indoors, they constantly require misting with an atomizer, a messy job unless the area is tiled or floored with linoleum.

In the garden or on a balcony, the potted plants will usually have humid air. They must have water, perhaps each day, into the pots. On the hottest days, spray over the foliage the same as we do for plants in garden beds.

Poinsettias particularly do well outdoors in summer. If the plants were shortened in May as suggested, the new growths will be a foot or so long by now and very sturdy instead of weak as they were likely to be in the house.

★ ★ ★

See that poinsettias are in full sun, even against a wall for added warmth. If given temperatured around 80 degs. F. these plants will benefit in strong light even without constant sunshine, though in this case watering would be less frequent.

By the end of August, take poinsettias back into the house to avoid early frost and to have them readjust before furnace heat is increased and windows more frequently closed.

One of the most exciting of all pot plants is Tibouchina, a Brazilian beauty with no pet name to cloud her true identity. This would be winter hardy outdoors in our climate if we could guarantee no hard frosts, but in winter with the uncertainties of nature we must bring the plant under enough cover to prevent killing the roots and branches.

★ ★ ★

Outdoors in late July, we see this lovely tree-like pot plant in flower, continuing in succession to the early days of December while indoors in a sunny window.

The two-inch wide, saucer-shaped blossoms are the color of Parma violets. Borne on the ends of new growths made during the current season, they are complemented by velvety dark green leaves having a hint of bronze imparted by the fine hairs on the leaf surfaces.

Individually the flowers are fleeting though a steady succession of buds keep up a display. New growths made in July and August produce flowers in late fall.

A 10-inch pot or tub will hold a six-foot flowering plant, needing a thorough watering every second day.

In winter Tibouchina will be dormant in its pot in shelter at 40 degs. F. Cut back drastically in late March to get lots of new shoots for subsequent bloom.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

A short time ago, I was listening to a conversation between a veteran bridge player and a newcomer to the ranks. The old-timer was convinced that bridge bidding had become stereotyped because of the introduction of the 4-3-2-1 point count; and that all one really had to do in this day and age was to memorize the point count to become a good bidder. He referred to current bidding as "push-button bridge."

Although the point count has without a doubt greatly facilitated bidding and made it more precise, it is nevertheless a fact that one cannot bid merely by rote or by pressing a button. On each deal, one must always bring his judgment into play if the optimum result is to be attained. In short, while the modern point count is a more efficient tool, it must be wielded intelligently and not mechanically.

Here is a deal where blind adherence to point-count bidding culminated in a disaster. The hand arose in a rubber-bridge game.
Both sides vulnerable. South deals.
The bidding:

NORTH
♠ K Q 10 8 4 2
♡ 7 4
◇ 6 3

WEST
♠ 9 3
♡ K J 9 6 3
◇ Q J 10 5
♣ Q 9

EAST
♠ A 7 5
♡ A 10 8
◇ 9 7 2

SOUTH
♠ J 6
♡ Q 5 2
◇ A K 8 4
♣ A 6 3 2

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♡.

Against South's one-no-trump contract, the defenders quickly rattled off five heart tricks. At trick six, West shifted to the queen of clubs. When the smoke had cleared, the defenders had taken five heart tricks, three clubs, and one spade, thus scoring 300 points.

When South subsequently asked North why the latter had not bid two spades over one notrump, North replied:

"I had only 7 points. How could I have made two forward-going bids with only 7 points?"

The answer, as South pointed out, was that North's hand figured to be useless at notrump play, whereas at a spade contract it would produce at least four tricks. Hence, South argued, North would be justified in raising the contract from a seven-trick level to an eight-trick level.

South was quite right. At notrump, North's hand was valueless. And if one is a pragmatist, the justification for South's argument would be that at a two-spade contract North would have waltzed in with eight tricks: five spades, two diamonds, and one club.

CANUCK CASE DELAY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Persistence paid off for the defence Wednesday in the trial of Tom Scallen and Lyman Walters, top management of Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League, as provincial court Judge J. J. Anderson adjourned the case until Sept. 18.

The defence had been turned down twice earlier in requests for an adjournment, but finally succeeded when they informed Judge Anderson that they had filed an application with the British Columbia Supreme Court for a writ of prohibition.

A writ of prohibition is a legal manoeuvre which can delay a trial if it is granted.

Scallen, president of Medical Investment Corp. of Minneapolis, which controls the Canucks, and Walters, vice-president, are accused of theft of $3 million from Northwest Sports Enterprises Ltd., in which Medical Investment has a 60-per-cent shareholding. Northwest Sports owns the Canucks. Scallen and Walters hold similar positions with that firm.

They are also accused of publishing a false prospectus with intent to induce the public to invest in Northwest Sports.

Both Monday and Tuesday, defence lawyer Peter Butler had asked for an adjournment.

QE 1 Fire Deliberate

HONGKONG (AP) — The fire that destroyed the former luxury liner Queen Elizabeth Jan. 9 probably was deliberately caused by persons unknown, a marine court of inquiry said today.

"There were at least three major sites of fire, all of them occurring within minutes of each other, and there may have been other independent sites as well," the court said after a two-month inquiry ordered by the Hong Kong government.

Stones' Chauffeur Arrested

BOSTON (AP) — The chauffeur for the Rolling Stones was arrested and charged with possession of narcotics Wednesday, police said. It was the second time in two days that members of the rock group or its entourage have been arrested.

Boston police said they arrested James Cullie, described as the Stones' chauffeur, and a woman companion, Rita Redmond, and charged them with possession of narcotics. Cullie, 25, and Miss Redmond, 23, who said they were from Denver, posted $5,000 bail each.

The arrests came only hours before a packed house was expected in Boston Garden for a Rolling Stones concert. The start of a Stones concert there Tuesday night was delayed for five hours — as a crowd of 15,000 waited — by the other brush with the law.

In that incident, the Stones' vocalist and lead guitarist were housed briefly in a Rhode Island jail when they and three other members of their travelling party were arrested after a skirmish with police and newspaper photographer, Andy Dickerman.

The photographer's newspaper announced Wednesday that it planned to file a civil suit against two members of the Stones' travelling party arising from the incident at a Rhode Island airport.

The Providence Journal Co., publishers of Rhode Island's two largest newspapers, said the suit will be filed against Rolling Stone Keith Richard and Stanley Moore.

The Stones said Wednesday they were innocent of all charges.

Two members of the group, Mick Jagger and Richard, and three members of their travelling entourage have been ordered to appear in Warwick District Court in Rhode Island Aug. 23 to answer charges stemming from the incident.

DIVORCES JUMP 170 PER CENT

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of divorced persons in the population of Canada jumped to 175,113 in 1971 from 64,776 recorded in the 1966 census, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

The bureau said this change — an increase of 170 per cent — reflected new divorce legislation passed July 2, 1968. The number of divorced persons more than doubled in each of the provinces.

The figures came in the statistics bureau's release of 1971 population figures, divided according to marital status.

Of the 21.5 million counted in the 1971 census, 10.6 million were single, 9.7 million were married, including married but separated, and 944,000 were widowed.

The proportion of single people in the population declined to 49.5 per cent from 51.7 per cent recorded in the 1966 census, largely as a result of the number of young children. The latter was a reflection of the declining birth rate of the 1960s.

U.S. Props Its Dollar

The Washington Post

The United States took a dramatic step Wednesday to prop up the U.S. dollar in world markets and to assure other nations that it would assume a share of the responsibility for maintaining current exchange rates.

For the first time since last Aug. 15 — acting with the approval of President Nixon and Treasury Secretary George Shultz — the New York federal reserve intervened aggressively in foreign exchange markets, selling German marks, Dutch guilders and other currencies.

As a result, the price of the foreign currencies declined, while the price of the dollar — which had been under pressure — increased to its best levels in weeks.

There was no formal announcement of the intervention, but it was confirmed by chairman Arthur Burns.

"We want to indicate to the world that we want to do our part to maintain the Smithsonian Agreement," Burns said.

That agreement created a new set of exchange rates that resulted in an average devaluation of the dollar by 12 per cent against major world currencies.

But recently the British Government allowed the pound to "float" downward from the $2.60 U.S. rate set at the Smithsonian, and the question has been raised whether the entire agreement might fall apart.

One consequence has been that other central banks — notable the West German Bundesbank — have had to support the Smithsonian system by selling their own currencies in exchange for dollars.

They have thus been accumulating hundreds of millions of unwanted dollars, which constitute an inflationary threat to their own banking systems.

European nations have bitterly suggested that the United States is acting as though the defence of the Smithsonian system is the responsibility of everybody except the United States.

The U.S. intervention Wednesday is a step to counter that mood, and to encourage a hope for eventual long-range reform of the international monetary system — a reform in which the Smithsonian Agreement was to be but an interim first step.

Burns refused to say how many dollars the reserve acquired in the price-propping, confidence-boosting manoeuvre.

But he said that "we are poised to continue (intervening) if and when we deem it advisable and on whatever scale we deem advisable."

The U.S. government has two potential resources for foreign exchange operations. The treasury owns a limited supply of foreign currencies that can be loaned to the reserve; and "swap lines" with other central banks can be activated.

Belfast Convicts Riot

BELFAST (AP) — Rioting broke out in Belfast's Crumlin Road jail today and elsewhere in the city a man was killed by terrorist gunfire.

At several other places in Northern Ireland, new bombings inflicted widespread damage and casualties.

In the Crumlin Road jail, about 20 to 30 prisoners went on a rampage, smashing furniture and windows and starting fires. Eight prisoners armed with wooden clubs climbed to the prison roof and smashed roof tiles but climbed down after about 30 minutes.

British troops surrounded the prison firing rubber bullets at the rioters. By 1 p.m., the jail was ringed by soldiers and reported quiet. The fires were extinguished by firemen who entered the prison grounds.

The jail holds hundreds of Protestant and Roman Catholic prisoners, arrested on various charges growing out of the sectarian turmoil of the last three years.

Many of the prisoners have in the past protested jail conditons and most claim they should be granted "political status," allowed to wear their own clothes and given other privileges.

In the western part of Belfast, meanwhile, a newspaper vendor on Springfield Road was shot dead by terrorists who planted a bomb in his store. The man's wife was wounded.

Paris Peace Talks Reach New Impasse

Times News Services

U.S. efforts to negotiate a ceasefire in Vietnam and to separate a military from a political settlement of the war were thwarted today at the Paris peace talks.

The setback came 24 hours after a secret meeting here between U.S. President Nixon's special envoy Henry Kissinger and Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho.

Kissinger flew back to Washington following the talks.

Chief North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy said at today's session that a ceasefire could only take place after agreement was reached on all military and political questions.

"Once the military and the political questions are agreed upon, all other questions, including the release of American war prisoners, can easily be settled," he said.

Thuy, who attended Wednesday's 6½-hour secret talks between Kissinger and Tho, also demanded that the United States stop bombing North Vietnam and lift the blockade of Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports.

ABIDE BY ACCORD

North Vietnam also insisted that the United States abide by the 1954 Geneva accords which provided for the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam.

Viet Cong delegation leader Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh denounced U.S. moves to deal with the military questions and leave political problems to be sorted out among Vietnamese.

"Such an approach is obviously one-sided and is not conducive to a settlement of the problem," she said.

The question facing negotiators is who shall rule in Saigon during the period between the withdrawal of U.S. troops and the holding of general elections.

NOT COMMUNIST

"We hold that this will be a broadly representative administration," Mme. Binh said. "Such an administration which will organize general elections, shall not be a Communist government or a government imposed by us," she added.

City In Ruins —Fonda

Times News Services

HONG KONG — Actress Jane Fonda said today the United States has bombed the North Vietnamese textile city of Nam Dinh which, she said, has no military targets.

"I saw with my own eyes that in this city . . . there are no military targets."

Miss Fonda visited the city Tuesday and her comments about the bombing were carried in today's transmission of the North Vietnam news agency.

She described the city as being "in charred ruins" and said its main hospital, which has 200 beds, has been "completely destroyed".

Miss Fonda has long been a campaigner against American involvement in Vietnam and an outspoken critic of her country.

On the war front, a half dozen carrier-based U.S. Marine helicopters swept along the North Vietnam coast, attacking nine sampans unloading military supplies.

It was the first time American helicopters have been in North Vietnam since November, 1971, when a special group raided the Son Tay prisoner-of-war camp in an unsuccessful attempt to free American prisoners. The camp was empty.

Pay Hike Tops Limit

The British Columbia government has again broken its 6.5 per cent annual wage increase guideline for public employees by agreeing to pay certain civil servants $20 to $40 a month more effective Oct. 1.

Arthur Richardson, chairman of the civil service commission, said the wage adjustments would affect mainly about 4,000 highways and hospital workers.

A spokesman for the 16,000-member B.C. Government Employees Union said correctional service employees, tradesmen and clerks and stenographers would also get the increases.

MONTREAL (CP)—The offices of La Presse were evacuated Wednesday evening following an anonymous call to police that two bombs would explode in the building within minutes. No bombs were found.

Nixon Drops Anti-Strike Legislation

Times News Services

President Nixon has abandoned controversial anti-strike legislation and will redraft it following consultations with union leaders, the White House said today.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler insisted the move was not a "deal" with the union movement to obtain tacit or active labor support in Nixon's re-election bid.

Labor has been vehement in its objections to Nixon's bill that would have established a new procedure in major transportation industry labor disputes.

Both sides would have been required to submit their final offer to an impartial panel which would select one or the other as a compulsory settlement.

Nixon's move came in the wake of a precedent-setting AFL-CIO executive council meeting where for the first time in 35 years the senior officials of the U.S. labor movement refused to endorse the Democratic nominee for president.

Earlier this week, the powerful Teamsters Union also broke with blue-collar tradition and voted to throw its official sanction to Nixon.

CORVAIR CAR SAFE DECLARES U.S. REPORT

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Corvair automobile, which helped catapult Ralph Nader to international fame when he condemned it as dangerous, was declared safe in a government report today.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said following an investigation lasting nearly two years that "no potential safety-related defect exists" on 1960-1963 Corvairs.

The rear-engined General Motors car was taken out of production in 1969 following publication of Nader's book Unsafe at Any Speed.

Douglas Toms, administrator of the U.S. transportation department's traffic safety administration, said the investigation had determined that the "handling and stability performance of these cars is at least as good as the performance of several contemporary domestic and foreign vehicles."

Egypt Eyes U.K. For Heavy Arms

Times News Services

LONDON — British authorities said that Egypt is checking prospects of buying offensive as well as defensive arms from Britian, including aircraft and warships.

The sources said that inquiries were informal and began some weeks ago after it became clear that Moscow was limiting its shipments of war goods to Egypt.

Britian has been selling some small arms to Egypt for some time.

In Russia the Kremlin faces the task of re-examining its Middle East policy after letting the Russian people know that Egypt has ordered Soviet military advisers out.

EASY DOES IT

Soviet television broke the news gently Wednesday night — more than 24 hours after President Anwar Sadat of Egypt announced that he had given the advisers their marching orders — by presenting the move as something Moscow and Cairo had agreed on.

Apparently referring to the visit here last week by Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidkey, a Tass news agency statement said the two countries "deemed it expedient to bring back to the Soviet Union the military personnel that had been sent to Egypt for a limited period."

Otherwise, the Soviet account played up Sadat's assertion that the move would "not affect the foundations of Egyptian-Soviet friendship." For its part, the Soviet Union planned to continue developing and strengthening relations with Cairo, it added.

$12,800 for Firemen

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city's 760 firefighters have settled for a two-year contract which will raise a fifth-year fireman's pay to about $12,800 by 1973.

The agreement, providing a 15.5 per cent wage raise based on 1971 rates, was accepted Wednesday night with "a slim 65 per cent majority," said Gordon Anderson, president of the Vancouver Firefighters' Union.

Anderson said the membership was dissatisfied in not achieving the goal of being the highest paid municipal firemen in Canada. Several Ontario cities pay more.

FP Chairman Dies at 59

George Maxwell (Max) Bell, one of Canada's most successful newspaper entrepreneurs, but better known as an international horse-racer and breeder and as a shrewd financier who made a fortune in oil and other enterprises, died Wednesday evening in Montreal Neurological Institute.

His death, at 59, came two months after a brain tumor operation, the third such operation he had undergone in the past four years. His wife and other members of the family were returning today to Calgary where the funeral will be held on Saturday.

Mr. Bell was chairman of FP Publications Ltd., a group which includes the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist as well as the Vancouver Sun, the Calgary Albertan, Lethbridge Herald, Winnipeg Free Press, Ottawa Journal and the Toronto Globe and Mail. He was also a director of CP Rail and organizer of a group which brought effective control of the company into Canadian hands at a time when it appeared that American interests would take it over.

Despite his influential position in newspaper publishing, Max Bell was little known to the Canadian public until recent years except for his connection with horse racing. He once remarked: "A newspaper proprietor or publisher can have his name in the paper every day if he wants it," and he bent over backwards to avoid any suggestion that he would use his position for personal publicity for himself or his family.

He disliked the label of multi-millionaire, and he once said this about money: "The only time it is really important to anyone is when a person hasn't any. Once you have it, however, you must accept responsibility to make the best use of it and to ensure that those who become dependent on you for a livelihood

DIRTY WORDS BY THE BOOK

MADRID (AP) — An entire dictionary devoted to dirty words? In Catholic Spain where censorship has become a way of life?

No, not one volume — two, both best-sellers; a third in the making and two more scheduled.

Sold clandestinely, then, by furtive pornographers?

Wrong again. Available in bookstores and compiled by the country's leading novelist, Camilo Jose Cela.

In paperback alone, Cela's first Secret Dictionary, about testicles, has sold more than 100,000 copies, a roaring success by Spanish standards. Hardback sales are estimated at about 30,000.

His second volume, nearly twice the size of the first, is devoted to street language for words that mean urine. Currently he is at work on a volume about the female sex organ. He is undecided where to focus volumes four and five.

The books have a limited circulation outside Spain, since they cannot be translated. They have yet to be widely published in South America. But if you want to know the equivalent of a dirty word in Cuban, Puerto Rican, Ecuadorean or Chilean Spanish, it is in the dictionary.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Rapeseed prices dropped five cents under heavy hedge selling pressure near the close on the grain exchange.

Exporters were moderate buyers in that commodity.

Flax prices also declined slightly as exporters met strong hedge and local and commission house selling as well as liquidation of the July futures.

Rye prices, which advanced early in the session, worked lower and oats and barely remained firm on good domestic shipper interest.

Wednesday's volume of trade was 1,333,000 bushels of flax, 4,138,000 of rapeseed and 765,000 of rye.

Peninsula Green Belt Preserves Farmland . . .

The Saanich peninsula's first green belt — to be kept as farm land in perpetuity — will be dedicated Friday by Premier Bennett.

The 37-acre plot by McDonald Park west of the Pat Bay highway is made up of two farms, one of them occupied and one vacant, a government spokesman said Wednesday.

No cost has been given as yet. The land is being purchased by the provincial government's special fund under the Green Belt Protection Act passed at the last session of the legislature.

The farm with a vacant house will be leased for farm purposes and the other will continue to operate as a farm. The two properties have been owned by Dale McColl and A. J. Vink.

The land is mainly used for grazing land at present, the government spokesman said.

He said the vacant house may be sold off or rented or leased back to an occupier, but in any case the land would remain as a green area.

Regional Policy Leading to Plan

Capital Regional District board members this week took their first look at a draft policy and objectives program for part two of their regional plan.

The outline, still in its formative stage, is to delineate the board's eventual official approach to planning administration in the four core municipalities, the Saanich peninsula and the adjacent unorganized areas.

In its present, tentative form the program stresses such ultimate goals as quality-of-life, environmental protection and biological system preservation, human economics and preservation of natural beauty.

The draft, hammered out by a semi-official committee headed by Saltspring board member Marc Holmes, was referred to the board's full meeting next week at a committee meeting Wednesday.

The projected regional plan, which when complete will encompass individual municipal plans, is still very much in the formative stage.

SERIES PROPOSALS

The report presented to directors this week is simply a series of proposals, and must be ratified by the board before it can be considered official.

The proposed goals of the report include:

- Respect for the nautral suitability of the landscape for different purposes.
- Ensuring that residents have the "basic services" necessary for a civilized life at an economic cost.
- Making certain individuals have the widest possible range of choice as to where and how they live.
- Providing maximum opportunity and choice for future citizens to resolve land use questions not apparent today.
- Preservation of the varied and inter-related biological systems of the area, including plant, animal and bird life.
- Maintenance of the natural beauty of the area.
- Provision to residents of employment opportunities which are compatible with the other goals.
- Conservation of non-renewable resources.

The report proposes that the regional plan when formulated deal with such topics as regional and provincial parks; green belts; rural, agricultural and forest lands; urban areas with attention to population densities; industrial locations; commercial areas; regional transportation including links with the mainland by sea and air.

Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen, defending the final item, transport, said it should be considered in any regional plan because, if transport from the mainland had been taken into consideration by this area before the Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay ferry link was created, a "corridor" would have been provided from the Vancouver Island terminus to Victoria city.

Pollen is chairman of the regional planning subcommittee.

In other business, the local works and services committee of the Capital Regional District, chaired by R. M. Emery, reaffirmed its intention to rid the area of rusting, unsightly car bodies through continuation of a provincially-subsidized program of recycling called Salvage, Assemble, Manufacture (SAM).

Participation in the recycling project is already board policy but the reaffirmation came as a result of letters from the Saltspring Chamber of Commerce and the Saltspring Island Planning to the district, both suggesting no budget provisions have been made for the operation in 1972 on Saltspring.

Regional board Executive Director Dennis Young had already replied to both organizations, pointing out that the entire question of auto salvage is "an immense one" but assuring them "it will be given a high priority in 1973" Saltspring.

The region's engineer told directors Wednesday advertising for a private contractor to carry out the SAM project will be started next week.

NIGHT BOAT WANTED

Long waits for B.C. Ferries could be eased by the introduction of a late night ferry between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen, Victoria Chamber of Commerce manager Brian Small said today.

"There would be more room on day ferries if we could do our commerce at night," he said.

"Can you imagine what it costs a businessman to send out a truck and have it wait two hours," he added.

B.C. Ferries travellers were waiting up to three hours during peak periods Wednesday, and at 9:30 a.m. today B.C. Ferries traffic manager, Robert Innes, said there was already a "one trip delay."

Innes described the delays as "a fairly normal pattern for this time of year."

He said waits of more than two hours were "abnormal" but "when we peak in any one day" ferry travellers "can expect up to two hours" in delays.

The longest waits have been at the Mainland terminal, on Tuesday travellers were forced to wait as long as five hours there.

There were long waits at Horseshoe Bay on the mainland side of the system's Vancouver-Nanaimo run as well. On Tuesday motorists waited up to three hours for ferries, and Wednesday the boats were running one trip behind.

During Tuesday's long waits, overtime staff from the B.C. Ferries drove up and down the four miles of road leading to the Tsawwassen terminal, broadcasting the anticipated delays with loudhailers.

A number of drivers turned around and drove back to Vancouver.

Ferry officials said the backup had been cleared by 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Traffic has been moving without delay from Vancouver Island to the mainland and there have been no reports of delays at either Nanaimo or Swartz Bay.

Innes said he could not comment on the need for a night ferry between Vancouver and Victoria.

BANKS TO HEAD BMA TOO

Dr. Peter Banks, who last month was named president-elect of the Canadian Medical Association, has now received the same position with the British Medical Association.

A consultant in internal medicine in Victoria, Banks will be elevated to the presidency of both bodies when the CMA and BMA meet in Vancouver next June.

It will be the first such joint meeting in several years for the two national doctors' organizations.

Banks was elected president-elect of the CMA at its annual meeting in Montreal last month. The post in the BMA came at its meeting in Southampton, England, this month.

Former chief of the medical staff at Queen Victoria Hospital, Banks was president of the B.C. Medical Association in 1964-65, heading the team which worked with the province in setting up the B.C. Medical Plan.

He has been active since with various CMA committees and for three years was deputy speaker of the CMA general council.

. . . But Victoria Won't Get One

By BRIAN BUTTERS

The city of Victoria has learned that it will not receive any money from the provincial green belt acquisition fund.

Mayor Peter Pollen told city council's parks committee that a letter from Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston had been received, informing the city that no funds would be forthcoming.

Pollen said the city had requested a total of about $1.5 million to purchase potential parkland at several different locations.

Pollen said Williston had indicated that the provincial fund was intended to assist acquisition of what is now farmland.

The city's intentions for the land did not fall within the jurisdiction of the fund, Williston said in his letter.

The mayor said he feels the provincial government should have a separate fund to allow cities to purchase parkland within their urban areas on an emergency basis.

Ald. Clyde Savage commented that the news is "a great disappointment."

GOV'T KNOWS

"We had thought that part of this fund would be for the use of the people of Victoria but this is not the case," Savage said.

The alderman said he does not believe there was a misrepresentation on the part of the government but said "I don't think they knew exactly what they were going to do with the fund until now."

Some of the sites of potential parkland the city is considering acquiring include property at the foot of Yates, the Victoria Machinery Depot, part of the Rainbow sea cadet property and some land in the Smith's Hill area.

Pollen said the only way around the problem of funding parkland acquisition is by "more vigorous zoning and astute purchasing of certain properties."

Haig-Brown Steps Down

Roderick Haig-Brown said today he will not stand again when his three-year term as chancellor of the University of Victoria expires at the end of the year.

At the same time, it was learned that provincial archivist Willard Ireland has been nominated and agreed to let his name stand for chancellor.

In a phone interview, Haig-Brown said from Campbell River that in general he felt three years in the largely honorary post was enough.

But he said his main and most compelling reason for not standing again was the demands it made in travel time when he is involved in a number of other fields.

He is a judge in Campbell River and an internationally known author and environmentalist.

"I think it's time to let someone else have the honor," he said.

UVic registrar Ron Ferry said today calls for nominations to fill the chancellorship and the six senate seats becoming vacant at the year-end went out Monday.

Ireland's name has been put forward for chancellor by the required seven members of convocation and he has agreed to stand, said Ferry.

Ireland, former chairman of the university's board of governors, has been active in the affairs of the university, and Victoria College before it, for over 20 years.

Victoria Osteopath Seeks Full Medicare Privileges

A Victoria osteopathic physician is taking the provincial government to court over the right of his profession to unlimited participation in the B.C. Medical Services Plan.

Dr. Robert Stark asks in a writ filed Wednesday against the Attorney-General's department for a declaration that a regulation under the Medical Services Act is beyond the power of the provincial cabinet.

A statement of claim filed with the writ alleges that a cabinet order-in-council passed July 16, 1970 added a paragraph to the regulations which removed osteopaths from their right of unlimited participation in the plan.

The writ also asks for a declaration that, in passing the regulation, the Lt.-Governor-in council was in breach of a statutory duty to the plaintiff and that the regulation is null and void because it was enacted contrary to the rules of natural justice.

There are only six osteopaths in B.C., including Drs. Stark and V. B. Taylor in Victoria.

They complete training similar to medical doctors and are members of the B.C. College of Physicians and Surgeons. The cabinet order being challenged had the effect of removing them from the ranks of physicians under terms of the medical plan and classifying them as paramedical personnel.

Aldermen Recommend Landlord, Tenant Body

City council's legislative committee would like to see a landlord and tenant advisory bureau established in Greater Victoria but it does not wish to assume the responsibility for administering such a bureau.

The committee was discussing a report by Ald. Alf Hood, who recommended that the city establish a landlord and tenant advisory bureau on its own since other municipalities in the area have shown reluctance to participate in such a project.

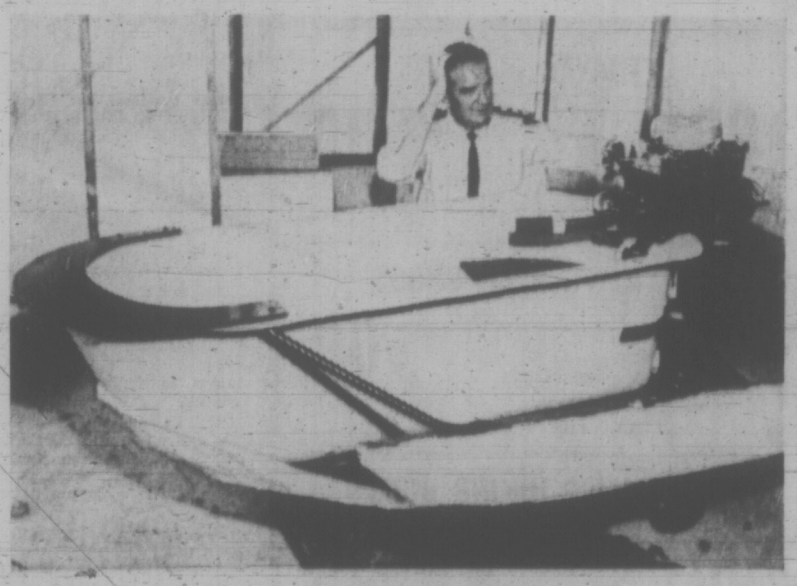
The committee decided that it would approach the Community Council of Greater Victoria and ask the council to takeover the bureau, which would be financially supported by the city.

Hood said there is a need in the community for such a service. The city has been handling enquiries from landlords and tenants on an ad hoc basis for most of this year.

Hood said it is time for the city to decide whether to establish a bureau on a full-time basis or abandon the idea.

Hood's original suggestion to the committee was that the advisory bureau be set up for a year at a cost not exceeding $12,000. But several aldermen, including Tom Christie and Harold Olafson, objected strenuously to the idea of the city participating in such a service.

Mayor Peter Pollen said there should be some vehicle for landlords and tenants to seek advice on the Landlord and Tenant Act, since an estimated 50 per cent of the city's population resides in apartments.



PERPLEXED POLICE CHIEF John Gelling of Central Saanich is bound and determined to get his department's aging bathtub into the annual Nanaimo bathtub race Sunday in spite of the fact that she sank on him three times in a trial run this weekend.

Europe Offers Examples: Pollen

By PAT DUFOUR

Mayor Peter Pollen says "dispassionate dialogue" is an essential if the city of Victoria is going to lick some of its problems.

He faults the provincial government "to a large degree" for stalling action in meeting some of those problems.

Listing sewage and public transportation as two top priorities, Pollen observed how European cities tackle them on his recent one-month tour.

He's not advocating that primary treatment plants be embraced per se. He says he's content to make that decision, one way or another, after the monitoring and subsequent findings of the Macaulay outfall are available.

But, he feels the provincial government should be exploring and using all available expertise on the subject.

"If we're going to solve these problems, it must be done in a very, objective and intelligent manner," he says.

Stating that, to date, the city had not received any reply from the provincial government on its bid to take over public transportation, he adds:

ALTERNATIVE SOURCE

"Instead of no, no, no — we should hear more how, how, how."

In his tour, Pollen visited a massive atomic power plant in the verdant Le Loire Valley in France, known all over the world for its magnificent chateaus, built by past French kings for their mistresses.

Sweden, which already has two atomic plants, is planning to build more.

Pollen says before damming the Fraser, the provincial government should fully investigate this alternative source of power.

CARS KILL

Citing London as an example of how people in a heavy-density city can retain their need for good environment, Pollen says he was fascinated when he took a helicopter flight over the English capital and had a birds-eye view of its many large and small parks, dotted around the city.

He stresses that Victoria, like any other city, needs "tranquility lanes" where pedestrians can shop, walk and enjoy open-air restaurants, undisturbed by the "stench" and noise of traffic.

"Just imagine if Government Street was a mall, and you could sit at a table, watching the people go by, having a glass of beer with a friend.

"People have said I'm against one-way streets. This is not true but there has to be a balanced coping with traffic. The chairman of Royal Dutch Shell has said that cars are going to kill us. Coming from a man like that, this is a sobering statement."

Pollen says he would like to see public transportation in Victoria, along with more shopping malls and more parkades.

EUROPE'S EXAMPLE

He reports that London's busy Oxford Street is scheduled to be turned into a mall on a trial basis.

He would like to see Victoria residents emulate the actions of their English counterparts in the city of Bath.

"They have a Save Bath campaign, most relevant to the Victoria scene."

He describes how Bath citizens are donating money in a voluntary effort to save some of their green areas and beauty spots.

Two other areas in which Pollen feels Canada could profit from Europe's example is the protection of its waterfront and recreational areas from foreign ownership and the establishment of secondary industries.

He says that no foreigner can own land in Scandinavia and that although Europe has unemployed, they are, in fact the "unemployable." Secondary industries, he says, are creating a demand for employees that is hard to fill.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc. for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public every day.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient ad-visor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call.

GALLUP POLL

It's Thumbs Down On Bilingualism

Outside Quebec province, the government's program to develop bilingualism runs into solid criticism. In the Maritimes and Ontario, a small majority (53%) think it is a good thing for the future of this country — but about a third object to it. The West splits on the issue with a minority (46%) endorsing it, but 44% believing it bad for the nation's future. In Quebec itself, however, more than eight in ten (83%) support the program with only about one in ten disapproving of it. These regional opinions avtrage out to a national ratio of about two regional opinions average out to a national ratio of about two dislike it (31%).

Those who are in favor of the developing bilingualism program say first, that it develops national unity, as it increases an understanding between the races. Close to this reasoning is the opinion that we have two founding languages and must use them. Another segment concentrates on the belief that it is necessary for other Canadians to recognize the fact that French-Canadians are a part of Canada, and accept the fact.

On the other hand, almost half of those who do not think it is a good thing for Canada base their opinion on the idea that this is an English-speaking country, and that stressing bilingualism will only cause more conflict. Many others think it should not be applied throughout the country, but developed in Quebec only and say the program is a waste of money, or hold that other ethnic segments are being discriminated against.

The question, put to a carefully selected sample of adults in homes across the nation:

"As you may know, a number of steps have been taken in Canada to strengthen bilingualism, that is the use of both English and French in certain civil service areas, on signposts, on package information, and in other ways. In general, do you think this is a good thing for the future of this country, or not a good thing?"

Here is national, and regional response.

	Good Thing	Not A Good Thing	Can't Say
NATIONAL	59%	31%	10%
Maritimes	53	38	9
Quebec	83	11	6
Ontario	53	34	13
The West	46	44	10

Those who thought it either good, or not good, were asked to explain why they felt as they did.

Why Bilingualism is a good thing (59%):

Develops unity, better understanding	35%
We have two founding languages; two official languages; increases freedom of speech	25
We should realize French-Canadians are part of Canada	13
Must learn to compromise and have time for more important things; better for country	4
English get more jobs; better jobs; French-Canadians need more respect; equality	3
Other	3
Can't say	17
	100%

Why bilingualism is not a good thing (31%):

We are an English-speaking country; French should not be compulsory; will only widen gap between races	48%
Not needed throughout the country; applied too broadly; let French-Canadians speak English outside Quebec	19
A waste of money; not accomplishing anything; makes packaging more expensive for consumers	14
There are other nationalities besides French-Canadians; they are being discriminated against	10

London Money Pact Likely Just Another Flash in the Pan

By KEVIN DOYLE

LONDON (CP) — A display of accord on international monetary reform by finance ministers from the 10 countries expected to form the enlarged Common Market is likely to prove little more than another flash in the pan in the long search for European agreement.

The countries involved, the six present members of the European Common Market and four applicant states, announced agreement on a series of broad principles for reform during a two-day meeting which ended here Tuesday.

But they skirted the controversial and pressing questions of the future role of gold, the value of the dollar and the use to be made of special drawing rights, a type of international reserve asset.

Unless a far more substantial accord can be reached by the ministers at a meeting set for Sept. 11-12, the Europeans will be without a common bargaining position when they meet representatives from Canada, the U.S. and other members of the International Monetary Fund later in September.

The IMF meeting in Washington will be devoted largely to the reconstruction of the international system of finance and trade, disrupted since the U.S. suspended the gold convertibility of the dollar last August.

WANT COMMON STANCE

The Europeans are extremely anxious to reach a common bargaining stance, not only to counter American influence within the IMF but also to make up for recent events which have cast some doubt on whether an enlarged Common Market will ever be able to agree on a single economic system.

One step toward a common economic arrangement within the ECM was the decision of the 10 countries last April to support each other's currencies within a narrower margin than that permitted internationally.

This policy was shattered in June, however, when Britain allowed sterling to float on international exchanges in response to intense selling pressure in major markets.

The ministers' reluctance to discuss the dollar and other areas requiring attention was seen by observers here as a clear indication that wide differences still exist among the 10 countries on the basic issue of what form a new international financial system should take.

The general principles agreed to are not likely to be considered objectionable by any government. The critical issue is how these are tobe implemented.

WAS BRITISH STAND

Basically, the points agreed to are a re-affirmation of the position taken by the British during negotiations in 1943 and 1944 leading to creation of the present system.

These include provision for fixed exchange rates, international control of liquidity—the reserves available to help countries finance deficits, provision for securing necessary adjustments in the balance of payments of participating countries and for maintaining convertible currencies.

Biker Partially To Blame—Jury

A motorcycle driver was found partially at fault and two car drivers cleared of blame by a coroner's inquest Tuesday night investigating the death of a passenger on the motorcycle.

Morris Driemel, 17, of 624 Fernhill, was thrown to his death June 27 in a collision at West Saanich and Beaver Lake. Driver of the motorcycle was Richard John Fisher, 16, of 883 Admirals.

Fisher testified he had turned around and was talking to Driemel when he struck the rear of a stopped car, throwing the victim under another moving car.

DIVORCES JUMP 170 PER CENT

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of divorced persons in the population of Canada jumped to 175,113 in 1971 from 64,776 recorded in the 1966 census, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

The bureau said this change — an increase of 170 per cent — reflected new divorce legislation passed July 2, 1968. The number of divorced persons more than doubled in each of the provinces.

The figures came in the statistics bureau's release of 1971 population figures, divided according to marital status.

Of the 21.5 million counted in the 1971 census, 10.6 million were single, 9.7 million were married, including married but separated, and 944,000 were widowed.

The proportion of single people in the population declined to 49.5 per cent from 51.7 per cent recorded in the 1966 census, largely as a result of the number of young children. The latter was a reflection of the declining birth rate of the 1960s.

U.S. Props Its Dollar

The Washington Post

The United States took a dramatic step Wednesday to prop up the U.S. dollar in world markets and to assure other nations that it would assume a share of the responsibility for maintaining current exchange rates.

For the first time since last Aug. 15 — acting with the approval of President Nixon and Treasury Secretary George Shultz — the New York federal reserve intervened aggressively in foreign exchange markets, selling German marks, Dutch guilders and other currencies.

As a result, the price of the foreign currencies declined, while the price of the dollar — which had been under pressure — increased to its best levels in weeks.

There was no formal announcement of the intervention, but it was confirmed by chairman Arthur Burns.

"We want to indicate to the world that we want to do our part to maintain the Smithsonian Agreement," Burns said.

That agreement created a new set of exchange rates that resulted in an average devaluation of the dollar by 12 per cent against major world currencies.

But recently the British Government allowed the pound to "float" downward from the $2.60 U.S. rate set at the Smithsonian, and the question has been raised whether the entire agreement might fall apart.

One consequence has been that other central banks — notably the West German Bundesbank — have had to support the Smithsonian system by selling their own currencies in exchange for dollars.

They have thus been accumulating hundreds of millions of unwanted dollars, which constitute an inflationary threat to their own banking systems.

European nations have bitterly suggested that the United States is acting as though the defence of the Smithsonian system is the responsibility of everybody except the United States.

The U.S. intervention Wednesday is a step to counter that mood, and to encourage a hope for eventual long-range reform of the international monetary system — a reform in which the Smithsonian Agreement was to be but an interim first step.

Burns refused to say how many dollars the reserve acquired in the price-propping, confidence-boosting manoeuvre.

But he said that "we are poised to continue (intervening) if and when we deem it advisable and on whatever scale we deem advisable."

The U.S. government has two potential resources for foreign exchange operations. The treasury owns a limited supply of foreign currencies that can be loaned to the reserve; and "swap lines" with other central banks can be activated.

Belfast Convicts Riot

BELFAST (AP) — Rioting broke out in Belfast's Crumlin Road jail today and elsewhere in the city a man was killed by terrorist gunfire.

At several other places in Northern Ireland, new bombings inflicted widespread damage and casualties.

In the Crumlin Road jail, about 20 to 30 prisoners went on a rampage, smashing furniture and windows and starting fires. Eight prisoners armed with wooden clubs climbed to the prison roof and smashed roof tiles but climbed down after about 30 minutes.

British troops surrounded the prison firing rubber bullets at the rioters. By 1 p.m., the jail was ringed by soldiers and reported quiet. The fires were extinguished by firemen who entered the prison grounds.

The jail holds hundreds of Protestant and Roman Catholic prisoners, arrested on various charges growing out of the sectarian turmoil of the last three years.

Many of the prisoners have in the past protested jail conditons and most claim they should be granted "political status," allowed to wear their own clothes and given other privileges.

In the western part of Belfast, meanwhile, a newspaper vendor on Springfield Road was shot dead by terrorists who planted a bomb in his store. The man's wife was wounded.

NOT EXACTLY A TIGER by the tail, but Jack Castor believes there's no harm in giving playful tweak to a lion's tail. "You just gotta show him who's boss," explains Castor, veteran lion-handler at the San Francisco Zoo, who enjoys a daily romp with one of the zoos big felines. However, Castor admits that the games he plays with the king of beasts are not for everyone.

Paris Peace Talks Reach New Impasse

Times News Services

U.S. efforts to negotiate a ceasefire in Vietnam and to separate a military from a political settlement of the war were thwarted today at the Paris peace talks.

The setback came 24 hours after a secret meeting here between U.S. President Nixon's special envoy Henry Kissinger and Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho.

Kissinger flew back to Washington following the talks.

Chief North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy said at today's session that a ceasefire could only take place after agreement was reached on all military and political questions.

"Once the military and the political questions are agreed upon, all other questions, including the release of American war prisoners, can easily be settled," he said.

Thuy, who attended Wednesday's 6½-hour secret talks between Kissinger and Tho, also demanded that the United States stop bombing North Vietnam and lift the blockade of Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports.

ABIDE BY ACCORD

North Vietnam also insisted that the United States abide by the 1954 Geneva accords which provided for the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam.

Viet Cong delegation leader Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh denounced U.S. moves to deal with the military questions and leave political problems to be sorted out among Vietnamese.

"Such an approach is obviously one-sided and is not conducive to a settlement of the problem," she said.

The question facing negotiators is who shall rule in Saigon during the period between the withdrawal of U.S. troops and the holding of general elections.

NOT COMMUNIST

"We hold that this will be a broadly representative administration," Mme. Binh said. "Such an administration which will organize general elections, shall not be a Communist government or a government imposed by us," she added.

— City In Ruins —Fonda

Times News Services

HONG KONG — Actress Jane Fonda said today the United States has bombed the North Vietnamese textile city of Nam Dinh which, she said, has no military targets.

"I saw with my own eyes that in this city . . . there are no military targets."

Miss Fonda visited the city Tuesday and her comments about the bombing were carried in today's transmission of the North Vietnam news agency.

She described the city as being "in charred ruins" and said its main hospital, which has 200 beds, has been "completely destroyed."

Miss Fonda has long been a campaigner against American involvement in Vietnam and an outspoken critic of her country.

On the war front, a half dozen carrier-based U.S. Marine helicopters swept along the North Vietnam coast, attacking nine sampans unloading military supplies.

It was the first time American helicopters have been in North Vietnam since November, 1971, when a special group raided the Son Tay prisoner-of-war camp in an unsuccessful attempt to free American prisoners. The camp was empty.

Pay Hike Tops Limit

The British Columbia government has again broken its 6.5 per cent annual wage increase guideline for public employees by agreeing to pay certain civil servants $20 to $40 a month more effective Oct. 1.

Arthur Richardson, chairman of the civil service commission, said the wage adjustments would affect mainly about 4,000 highways and hospital workers.

A spokesman for the 16,000-member B.C. Government Employees Union said correctional service employees, tradesmen and clerks and stenographers would also get the increases.

Nixon Drops Anti-Strike Legislation

Times News Services

President Nixon has abandoned controversial anti-strike legislation and will redraft it following consultations with union leaders, the White House said today.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler insisted the move was not a "deal" with the union movement to obtain tacit or active labor support in Nixon's re-election bid.

Labor has been vehement in its objections to Nixon's bill that would have established a new procedure in major transportation industry labor disputes.

Both sides would have been required to submit their final offer to an impartial panel which would select one or the other as a compulsory settlement.

Nixon's move came in the wake of a precedent-setting AFL-CIO executive council meeting where, for the first time in 35 years, the senior officials of the U.S. labor movement refused to endorse the Democratic nominee for president.

Earlier this week, the powerful Teamsters Union also broke with blue-collar tradition and voted to throw its official sanction to Nixon.

CORVAIR CAR SAFE DECLARES U.S. REPORT

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Corvair automobile, which helped catapult Ralph Nader to international fame when he condemned it as dangerous, was declared safe in a government report today.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said following an investigation lasting nearly two years that "no potential safety-related defect exists" on 1960-1963 Corvairs.

The rear-engined General Motors car was taken out of production in 1969 following publication of Nader's book Unsafe at Any Speed.

Douglas Toms, administrator of the U.S. transportation department's traffic safety administration, said the investigation had determined that the "handling and stability performance of these cars is at least as good as the performance of several contemporary domestic and foreign vehicles."

Egypt Eyes U.K. For Heavy Arms

Times News Services

LONDON — British authorities said that Egypt is checking prospects of buying offensive as well as defensive arms from Britian, including aircraft and warships.

The sources said that inquiries were informal and began some weeks ago after it became clear that Moscow was limiting its shipments of war goods to Egypt.

Britian has been selling some small arms to Egypt for some time.

In Russia the Kremlin faces the task of re-examining its Middle East policy after letting the Russian people know that Egypt has ordered Soviet military advisers out.

EASY DOES IT

Soviet television broke the news gently Wednesday night more than 24 hours after President Anwar Sadat of Egypt announced that he had given the advisers their marching orders by presenting the move as something Moscow and Cairo had agreed on.

Apparently referring to the visit here last week by Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidkey, a Tass news agency statement said the two countries "deemed it expedient to bring back to the Soviet Union the military personnel that had been sent to Egypt for a limited period."

Otherwise, the Soviet account played up Sadat's assertion that the move would "not affect the foundations of Egyptian-Soviet friendship." For its part, the Soviet Union planned to continue developing and strengthening relations with Cairo, it added.

Agreement Reached

Tentative agreement was announced today in the protracted labor negotiations between Victoria Press Ltd. and five mechanical and editorial unions.

The tentative settlement was confirmed by Stuart Underhill, publisher of the Victoria Times, and William McLeman, negotiatior for the unions.

A union statement this afternoon said "details of the tentative settlement will be given to a mass membership meeting of the five unions this Sunday.

FP Chairman Dies at 59

George Maxwell (Max) Bell, one of Canada's most successful newspaper entrepreneurs, but better known as an international horse-racer and breeder and as a shrewd financier who made a fortune in oil and other enterprises, died Wednesday evening in Montreal Neurological Institute.

His death, at 59, came two months after a brain tumor operation, the third such operation he had undergone in the past four years. His wife and other members of the family were returning today to Calgary where the funeral will be held on Saturday.

Mr. Bell was chairman of FP Publications Ltd., a group which includes the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist as well as the Vancouver Sun, the Calgary Albertan, Lethbridge Herald, Winnipeg Free Press, Ottawa Journal and the Toronto Globe and Mail. He was also a director of CP Rail and organizer of a group which brought effective control of the company into Canadian hands at a time when it appeared that American interests would take it over.

Despite his influential position in newspaper publishing, Max Bell was little known to the Canadian public until recent years except for his connection with horse racing. He once remarked: "A newspaper proprietor or publisher can have his name in the paper every day if he wants it," and he bent over backwards to avoid any suggestion that he would use his position for personal publicity for himself or his family.

He disliked the label of multi-millionaire, and he once said this about money: "The only time it is really important to anyone is when a person hasn't any. Once you have it, however, you must accept responsibility to make the best use of it and to ensure that those who become dependent on you for a livelihood

DIRTY WORDS BY THE BOOK

MADRID (AP) — An entire dictionary devoted to dirty words? In Catholic Spain where censorship has become a way of life?

No, not one volume — two, both best sellers; a third in the making and two more scheduled.

Sold clandestinely, then, by furtive pornographers?

Wrong again. Available in bookstores and compiled by the country's leading novelist, Camilo Jose Cela.

In paperback alone, Cela's first Secret Dictionary, about testicles, has sold more than 400,000 copies, a roaring success by Spanish standards. Hardback sales are estimated at about 30,000.

His second volume, nearly twice the size of the first, is devoted to street language for words that mean urine. Currently he is at work on a volume about the female sex organ. He is undecided where to focus volumes four and five.

The books have a limited circulation outside Spain, since they cannot be translated. They have yet to be widely published in South America. But if you want to know the equivalent of a dirty word in Cuban, Puerto Rican, Ecuadorean or Chilean Spanish, it is in his dictionary.

Toronto's Nude Chef Lands Up in the Soup

TORONTO — Nelson Grant, 20, nude chef at a downtown night club, had a slight accident—he spilled hot soup on himself.

"There's been so many jokes about it we laughed at first," said Colin Kerr, owner of the Mynah Bird where Grant works.

"Even he laughed after we sprayed his burned stomach."

The burns were not extensive.

SALEM, Ore. — Wrecking yard owner Bill Harris lost a hydraulic press, part of a fence and two automobile bodies to a fire — but he knows now he can trust his watchdog.

When 30 firemen in seven trucks pulled up at the yard, they had to wait until Harris came to call off the 145-pound German Shepherd before they could get inside to fight the flames.

SAN FRANCISCO — The killer of Mary Jane Kravitt will be a hunted man as long as her father lives.

Mary Jane was bludgeoned to death in her apartment here last January. The body was discovered when tenants on the floor beneath hers noticed blood dripping through their ceiling.

Samuel Kravitt, a New Haven, Conn., television cameraman has so far visited police headquarters in six countries in Europe and Asia with pictures of a suspect in the case and has vowed to continue his quest for the rest of his life — or until the killer is caught.

LONDON — Lord George-Brown, the former British foreign secretary, said Tuesday night no Western European country would remain safe if Senator George McGovern became United States president and kept his promise to bring American forces home.

George-Brown was foreign secretary in Harold Wilson's Labor government from 1966 to 1968.

HE'S FOR McGOVERN! Ben Black Elk, a 75-year-old Sioux chieftain from the Black Hills country in South Dakota chats with vacationing Democratic candidate George McGovern, who also happens to be a senator from his state. The chief later told reporters that he's a McGovern supporter.

DETROIT — When a businessman found $600 lying on a downtown sidewalk last March, he turned the money over to police.

The businessman, Harris Olson, was told that the money was his if it wasn't claimed in 60 days.

But now, more than 60 days later, the money is missing. Police say it appears to have been stolen.

The Detroit common council has agreed informally that $600 should be taken from the police budget to pay Olson.

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A small red lightning bolt will be painted on the cruiser of a state highway patrolman every time he recovers a stolen car and makes an arrest, the patrol has announced.

"Now the public can tell how many hits the officer has made by the number of bolts on his car," said patrol superintendent Robert Chiaramonte.

$3 MILLION DIVORCE

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bruce Dayton, the department store magnate, will pay $3 million to his former wife Gwendolen as part of a divorce settlement.

Under the divorce granted Monday in court, Mrs. Dayton, 52, also will get the couple's home and its furnishings plus other property.

Dayton, 53, is chairman of the board of Dayton Hudson Corp., which operates department stores in Minneapolis, Detroit and elsewhere. He was sued for divorce by his wife of 28 years.

The settlement, which calls for no alimony, stipulates that Mrs. Dayton will receive $800,000 within 15 days and eight subsequent payments of $275,000 each on the aniversary of the divorce.

U.K. Critics Hail Churchill Film

LONDON (AP) — British critics gave the V for Victory sign today to Young Winston, a hard-hitting film about Winston Churchpl's early life by American producer Carl Foreman and Britain Richard Attenborough.

They hailed it as a major epic and predicted a bright future for Simon Ward, the unknown British actor who plays the title role.

"It gets right under the skin of its leading character, presenting the ego, the brashness, the warts and all," Donald Zec writes in The Daily Mirror.

"It is history, but it doesn't balk at the clinical details, cutting right into the rich, though somewhat tainted, bloodstream of one of the formidable figures of the last century."

Said Cecil Wilson in the Daily Mail:

"There are no half measure about Carl Foreman's picture of him as a mixture of Houdini, political whiz-kid and military James Bond . . . a handsome living portrait of a giant in the making."

Patrick Gibbs, writing in The Daily Telegraph, said:

"The spirit of the story, and the personality of the central character, are captured . . . completely."

Ian Christie wrote in The Daily Express:

"It is a tribute to Carl Foreman's script and Attenborough's direction that this portrait of the early years of an important egotist turns out to be so attractive and compulsively entertaining."

A dissent, however came from Michael McNay in The Guardian. He said the movie was little more than a "two-hour, 36-minute yawn" and "the real heroes, Mr. Shaw and Miss Bancroft aside, were the Moroccan landscape, Blenheim, Harrow and the art director."

Much of the picture was filmed on the Moroccan desert. Robert Shaw plays Churchill's politician father, Lord Randolph, and Anne Bancroft portrays his American mother.

89th YEAR No. 35 — VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1972 — 10 CENTS DAILY, 20 CENTS SATURDAY

DIVORCES JUMP 170 PER CENT

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of divorced persons in the population of Canada jumped to 175,113 in 1971 from 64,776 recorded in the 1966 census, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

The bureau said this change — an increase of 170 per cent — reflected new divorce legislation passed July 2, 1968. The number of divorced persons more than doubled in each of the provinces.

The figures came in the statistics bureau's release of 1971 population figures, divided according to marital status.

Of the 21.5 million counted in the 1971 census, 10.6 million were single, 9.7 million were married, including married but separated, and 944,000 were widowed.

The proportion of single people in the population declined to 49.5 per cent from 51.7 per cent recorded in the 1966 census, largely as a result of the number of young children. The latter was a reflection of the declining birth rate of the 1960s.

U.S. Props Its Dollar

The Washington Post

The United States took a dramatic step Wednesday to prop up the U.S. dollar in world markets and to assure other nations that it would assume a share of the responsibility for maintaining current exchange rates.

For the first time since last Aug. 15 — acting with the approval of President Nixon and Treasury Secretary George Shultz — the New York federal reserve intervened aggressively in foreign exchange markets, selling German marks, Dutch guilders and other currencies.

As a result, the price of the foreign currencies declined, while the price of the dollar — which had been under pressure — increased to its best levels in weeks.

There was no formal announcement of the intervention, but it was confirmed by chairman Arthur Burns.

"We want to indicate to the world that we want to do our part to maintain the Smithsonian Agreement," Burns said.

That agreement created a new set of exchange rates that resulted in an average devaluation of the dollar by 12 per cent against major world currencies.

But recently the British Government allowed the pound to "float" downward from the $2.60 U.S. rate set at the Smithsonian, and the question has been raised whether the entire agreement might fall apart.

One consequence has been that other central banks — notably the West German Bundesbank — have had to support the Smithsonian system by selling their own currencies in exchange for dollars.

They have thus been accumulating hundreds of millions of unwanted dollars, which constitute an inflationary threat to their own banking systems.

European nations have bitterly suggested that the United States is acting as though the defence of the Smithsonian system is the responsibility of everybody except the United States.

The U.S. intervention Wednesday is a step to counter that mood, and to encourage a hope for eventual long-range reform of the international monetary system — a reform in which the Smithsonian Agreement was to be but an interim first step.

Burns refused to say how many dollars the reserve acquired in the price-propping, confidence-boosting manoeuvre.

But he said that "we are poised to continue (intervening) if and when we deem it advisable and on whatever scale we deem advisable."

The U.S. government has two potential resources for foreign exchange operations. The treasury owns a limited supply of foreign currencies that can be loaned to the reserve; and "swap lines" with other central banks can be activated.

Belfast Convicts Riot

BELFAST (AP) — Rioting broke out in Belfast's Crumlin Road jail today and elsewhere in the city a man was killed by terrorist gunfire.

At several other places in Northern Ireland, new bombings inflicted widespread damage and casualties.

In the Crumlin Road jail, about 20 to 30 prisoners went on a rampage, smashing furniture and windows and starting fires. Eight prisoners armed with wooden clubs climbed to the prison roof and smashed roof tiles but climbed down after about 30 minutes.

British troops surrounded the prison firing rubber bullets at the rioters. By 1 p.m., the jail was ringed by soldiers and reported quiet. The fires were extinguished by firemen who entered the prison grounds.

The jail holds hundreds of Protestant and Roman Catholic prisoners, arrested on various charges growing out of the sectarian turmoil of the last three years.

Many of the prisoners have in the past protested jail conditons and most claim they should be granted "political status," allowed to wear their own clothes and given other privileges.

In the western part of Belfast, meanwhile, a newspaper vendor on Springfield Road was shot dead by terrorists who planted a bomb in his store. The man's wife was wounded.

Paris Peace Talks Reach New Impasse

Times News Services

U.S. efforts to negotiate a ceasefire in Vietnam and to separate a military from a political settlement of the war were thwarted today at the Paris peace talks.

The setback came 24 hours after a secret meeting here between U.S. President Nixon's special envoy Henry Kissinger and Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho.

Kissinger flew back to Washington following the talks.

Chief North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy said at today's session that a ceasefire could only take place after agreement was reached on all military and political questions.

"Once the military and the political questions are agreed upon, all other questions, including the release of American war prisoners, can easily be settled," he said.

Thuy, who attended Wednesday's 6½-hour secret talks between Kissinger and Tho, also demanded that the United States stop bombing North Vietnam and lift the blockade of Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports.

ABIDE BY ACCORD

North Vietnam also insisted that the United States abide by the 1954 Geneva accords which provided for the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam.

Viet Cong delegation leader Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh denounced U.S. moves to deal with the military questions and leave political problems to be sorted out among Vietnamese.

"Such an approach is obviously one-sided and is not conducive to a settlement of the problem," she said.

The question facing negotiators is who shall rule in Saigon during the period between the withdrawal of U.S. troops and the holding of general elections.

NOT COMMUNIST

"We hold that this will be a broadly representative administration," Mme. Binh said. "Such an administration which will organize general elections, shall not be a Communist government or a government imposed by us," she added.

City In Ruins —Fonda

Times News Services

HONG KONG — Actress Jane Fonda said today the United States has bombed the North Vietnamese textile city of Nam Dinh which, she said, has no military targets.

"I saw with my own eyes that in this city . . . there are no military targets."

Miss Fonda visited the city Tuesday and her comments about the bombing were carried in today's transmission of the North Vietnam news agency.

She described the city as being "in charred ruins" and said its main hospital, which has 200 beds, has been "completely destroyed".

Miss Fonda has long been a campaigner against American involvement in Vietnam and an outspoken critic of her country.

Pay Hike Tops Limit

The British Columbia government has again broken its 6.5 per cent annual wage increase guideline for public employees by agreeing to pay certain civil servants $20 to $40 a month more effective Oct. 1.

Arthur Richardson, chairman of the civil service commission, said the wage adjustments would affect mainly about 4,000 highways and hospital workers.

A spokesman for the 16,000-member B.C. Government Employees Union said correctional service employees, tradesmen and clerks and stenographers would also get the increases.

Nixon Drops Anti-Strike Legislation

Times News Services

President Nixon has abandoned controversial anti-strike legislation and will redraft it following consultations with union leaders, the White House said today.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler insisted the move was not a "deal" with the union movement to obtain tacit or active labor support in Nixon's re-election bid.

Labor has been vehement in its objections to Nixon's bill that would have established a new procedure in major transportation industry labor disputes.

Both sides would have been required to submit their final offer to an impartial panel which would select one or the other as a compulsory settlement.

Nixon's move came in the wake of a precedent-setting AFL-CIO executive council meeting where, for the first time in 35 years, the senior officials of the U.S. labor movement refused to endorse the Democratic nominee for president.

Earlier this week, the powerful Teamsters Union also broke with blue-collar tradition and voted to throw its official sanction to Nixon.

CORVAIR CAR SAFE DECLARES U.S. REPORT

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Corvair automobile, which helped catapult Ralph Nader to international fame when he condemned it as dangerous, was declared safe in a government report today.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said following an investigation lasting nearly two years that "no potential safety-related defect exists" on 1960-1963 Corvairs.

The rear-engined General Motors car was taken out of production in 1969 following publication of Nader's book Unsafe at Any Speed.

Douglas Toms, administrator of the U.S. transportation department's traffic safety administration, said the investigation had determined that the "handling and stability performance of these cars is at least as good as the performance of several contemporary domestic and foreign vehicles."

Egypt Eyes U.K. For Heavy Arms

Times News Services

LONDON — British authorities said that Egypt is checking prospects of buying offensive as well as defensive arms from Britian, including aircraft and warships.

The sources said that inquiries were informal and began some weeks ago after it became clear that Moscow was limiting its shipments of war goods to Egypt.

Britian has been selling some small arms to Egypt for some time.

In Russia the Kremlin faces the task of re-examining its Middle East policy after letting the Russian people know that Egypt has ordered Soviet military advisers out.

EASY DOES IT

Soviet television broke the news gently Wednesday night — more than 24 hours after President Anwar Sadat of Egypt announced that he had given the advisers their marching orders — by presenting the move as something Moscow and Cairo had agreed on.

Apparently referring to the visit here last week by Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidkey, a Tass news agency statement said the two countries "deemed it expedient to bring back to the Soviet Union the military personnel that had been sent to Egypt for a limited period."

Otherwise, the Soviet account played up Sadat's assertion that the move would "not affect the foundations of Egyptian - Soviet friendship." For its part, the Soviet Union planned to continue developing and strengthening relations with Cairo, it added.

Agreement Reached

Tentative agreement was announced today in the protracted labor negotiations between Victoria Press Ltd. and five mechanical and editorial unions.

The tentative settlement was confirmed by Stuart Underhill, publisher of the Victoria Times, and William McLemand, negotiator for the unions.

A union statement this afternoon said "details of the tentative settlement will be given to a mass membership meeting of the five unions this Sunday.

DIRTY WORDS BY THE BOOK

MADRID (AP) — An entire dictionary devoted to dirty words? In Catholic Spain where censorship has become a way of life?

No, not one volume — two, both best sellers, a third in the making and two more scheduled.

Sold clandestinely, then, by furtive pornographers?

Wrong again. Available in bookstores and compiled by the country's leading novelist, Camilo Jose Cela.

In paperback alone, Cela's first Secret Dictionary, about testicles, has sold more than 100,000 copies, a roaring success by Spanish standards. Hardback sales are estimated at about 30,000.

His second volume, nearly twice the size of the first, is devoted to street language for words that mean urine. Currently he is at work on a volume about the female sex organ. He is undecided where to focus volumes four and five.

The books have a limited circulation outside Spain, since they cannot be translated. They have yet to be widely published in South America. But if you want to know the equivalent of a dirty word in Cuban, Puerto Rican, Ecuadorean or Chilean Spanish, it is in his dictionary.

FP Chairman Dies at 59

George Maxwell (Max) Bell, one of Canada's most successful newspaper entrepreneurs, but better known as an international horse-racer and breeder and as a shrewd financier who made a fortune in oil and other enterprises, died Wednesday evening in Montreal Neurological Institute.

His death, at 59, came two months after a brain tumor operation, the third such operation he had undergone in the past four years. His wife and other members of the family were returning today to Calgary where the funeral will be held on Saturday.

Mr. Bell was chairman of FP Publications Ltd., a group which includes the Victoria Times and The Daily Colonist as well as the Vancouver Sun, the Calgary Albertan, Lethbridge Herald, Winnipeg Free Press, Ottawa Journal and the Toronto Globe and Mail. He was also a director of CP Rail and organizer of a group which brought effective control of the company into Canadian hands at a time when it appeared that American interests would take it over.

Despite his influential position in newspaper publishing, Max Bell was little known to the Canadian public until recent years except for his connection with horse racing. He once remarked: "A newspaper proprietor or publisher can have his name in the paper every day if he wants it," and he bent over backwards to avoid any suggestion that he would use his position for personal publicity for himself or his family.

He disliked the label of multi-millionaire, and he once said this about money: "The only time it is really important to anyone is when a person hasn't any. Once you have it, however, you must accept responsibility to make the best use of it and to ensure that those who become dependent on you for a livelihood
